Discuss 'Local Problems'

New Legislators Invited To Attend Council Meet

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--The Virginia Beach City Council plans to meet with state legislators, elected in the general election last November, to discuss "local matters" coming before the 1968 General Assembly of Virginia next year.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett said Del. Edward T. Caton III, elected to the state senate; and Kenneth N. Whitehurst Jr. and B.R. Middleton, elected to the Virginia House of Delegates, have been invited to the meeting.

City Council will meet with the legislators, who take office at the beginning of 1968, at 3:30 p.m. on Monday, December 11, after the regular public council meeting, Hatchett said.

Hatchett did not say specifically what will be discussed at the meeting, but he said it will involve "matters of local interest" to the community of Virginia Beach, not "areawide matters."

Recommendations Upcoming

School Administration Is Under Collegiate Eye

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--An educational team of the University of Virginia is expected to complete a comprehensive study of the administration of Virginia Beach public schools here in less than 90 days, and make recommendations for changes.

The Virginia Beach School Board, headed by J.W. Buffington, authorized the study at the request of Edward F. Brickell Jr., assistant superintendent who will succeed School Supt.

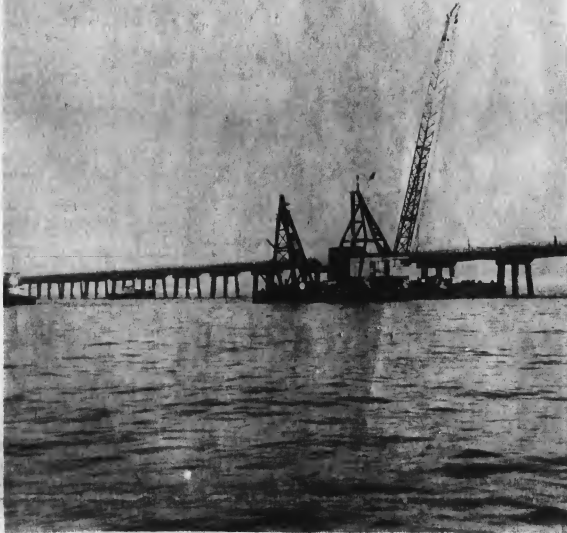

Frank W. Cox, when he retires at the end of February, 1968.

Brickell declined to comment on what he thinks the consulting team might recommend in the way of new administrative positions, or other changes to further improve the administration of public schools.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN learned, however, that Dr. James C. Bash, director of the Division of Field Services of the University of Virginia, has advised school officials here that a study team can make an on-the-scene study of the administrative and supervisory organization of the local public schools.

Such studies usually lead to recommendations for expanding a school administrative staff to keep up with the growth of an educational system. Other communities which have requested similar studies usually implement the recommendations over a period of two or three years, to provide for orderly expansion of school administration.

Beach Building Shows Increase

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--Construction activity continued at a high pace here last month, when the Virginia Beach city government issued 280 building permits for projects valued at $4.6 million.

The city building permits for November pushed total permits to 2,959 and values to $47.5 million for 1967. This indicates about a 20 per cent increase in the number of permits over last year's level, and more than a 25 per cent increase in the value of construction.

These figures include residential, commercial, industrial and municipal construction. They do not include contracts for construction on military bases here.

Local Church Presents Cantata

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--A Christmas cantata, "The Miracle of Bethlehem" by John Hasley, will be presented by the combined choirs of Christ Presbyterian Church, Aragona Boulevard at Witthuck Road, at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 17.

The cantata, to be given in conjunction with the Joy Gift offering, will include the Herald, Chancel and Canticle choirs of the church under the direction of Mrs. Marian Johnson. The organist will be Miss Marsha Wade.

Soloists include Mrs. Virginia Williams, soprano; Miss Cathy Gentry, soprano; Miss Nancy Cook, alto; Chuck Linn, tenor; Eric Parker, baritone, and Michael Parker, bass.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch signs a proclamation, designating the week of December 18 as 'Safety Ambassador Week.' Watching are Terry Itner and Curtis Kemp of Cox High School.

Returning Veteran Predicts 'Long War'

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--Warrant Officer William L. Terry, an Army helicopter pilot, had been home from the battlefields of South Vietnam less than a day.

He sat calmly in the pleasant waterfront home of his parents, retired Navy Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. George D. Terry, as a VIRGINIA BEACH SUN reporter interviewed him.

There were no other military personnel present, and the winner of a Distinguished Flying Cross and other decorations answered questions frankly and with ease. He served with the famed First Air Cavalry Division.

Warrant Officer Terry, 22, will be home through Christmas. His brother, Bruce Terry, a year older, is in Southeast Asia now, fighting what his younger brother calls "a hard war," officially called a "conflict."

William L. Terry went to the Republic of South Vietnam, as he referred to it, on December 6 of last year. He left there on November 28 of this year, arrived at the Bay Lake Pines home of his parents about 6:30 a.m. last Saturday. He plans to leave January 2 of 1968 for Fort Stewart in Savannah, Georgia.

What is the fighting in South Vietnam all about?

"It's a hard war," Terry said. "The enemy's using guerrilla tactics. It's a situation where they pop out of a bush and run and you never see them again." He added, "I think it's going to be a long war. . . beating the enemy and winning the populace over."

He said he saw "really substantial improvement" while he was in South Vietnam, where he earned the Distinguished Flying Cross, a Bronze Star, an Air Medal and other decorations. He has been recommended for promotion to 2nd Lieutenant.

Terry is unmarried and was born in Kansas City, Missouri. His brother, Bruce, was born at Pensacola, Florida. They joined the Army together on November 5, 1965.

Their father, George D. Terry, is a native of New York City and veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict. His wife, Alice K. Terry, is from Kansas City. His father, Victor L. Terry, who sat beside a cozy fireplace as his grandson was interviewed, was born in Birmingham, England. He came to the United States before World War I.

William L. Terry, while in South Vietnam, was with the Army's C (or Charlie) Company of the 227th Assault Helicopter Battalion. He said the fighting "is so far out in the sticks," that he missed the "choppers, or helicopters." He said his brother, Bruce, is with the 571st Helicopter Ambulance Detachment, operating out of Nha Trang.

In the Bong Son Valley, where William L. Terry fought the enemy, the "pacification" of the South Vietnamese has made progress, he said. "They're real nice to you, respect you," he added. "They say, 'American's Number One,' after the natives there are won over after having been 'indoctrinated by the Viet Cong.'"

Terry spoke of the "tunnel complexes that stretch three or four miles at a time" giving the Viet Cong hidden underground escape and supply routes. He said the tunnels have been there "20 or 30 years," dating back to the days when the French government was there.

"We show them Democracy is Number One," Terry said in trying to explain the pacification program which follows the winning of ground.

How is morale in South Vietnam?

"Outstanding," Terry said, commenting that he could only speak about where he was. Was there much talk there about the anti-war demonstrations in the United States?

"The only thing we heard about was the March on the Pentagon," he said. "It doesn't bother them (the nation's fighting men) that much."

"They've got more things to worry about than some bums marching here in the states," Terry said. "Most of them are real dedicated."

He said that when word reaches South Vietnam, about such things as the patriotic march which Frank W. Cox High School students made here last month on Atlantic Avenue, it "boosts morale."

"What bothers them is when they hear about anti-war demonstrations, and then don't hear about pro-American demonstrations," Terry added.

He said the First Air Cavalry Division "keeps up on the news" with an edition of the Stars & Stripes, plus the division newspaper. Its name is "The Cavalier," he said.

Are all of the military forces in South Vietnam working as a team?

"Certainly, and the teamwork usually works out pretty good," Terry said.

What did the helicopter pilot do on his first day home from South Vietnam?

Among other things, he traveled the new Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway to pick up a 1968 Plymouth Satellite sports car which his father had ordered for him.

And he joined his father, mother and others in the family in watching last Saturday's Army-Navy football game, which the Navy team won 19 to 14. They enjoyed the game on television.

His retired Navy father is an aircraft salesman (Beechcraft) with the fixed-based division of Piedmont Aviation, Inc. He works at Norfolk Municipal Airport.

Handshakes and smiles were in fashion after Terry received the Distinguished Flying Cross in South Vietnam on November 13, shortly before returning home. Terry said the officer looking over his left shoulder is "Denny" Russo, an American soldier whose home is in the New England area of the United States.

Local Ruritans Host Convention

BEACH BOROUGH--National Ruritan will celebrate its 40th birthday when an estimated 2,500 to 3,000 members gather in the country, with members in 24 states, said Frank W. Kellam Sr., convention chairman.

Among the featured speakers will be Virginia Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr., a past national president, and U.S. Sen. Howard Baker, Jr. of Tennessee. Miss America of 1968 also will be one of the guests.

National Ruritan was founded in Holland, Virginia, and now is the sixth largest civic organization in the country, with members in 24 states, said Frank W. Kellam Sr., convention chairman.

Convention headquarters will be at The Cavalier hotel, "We're hoping other hotels, motels and restaurants in Virginia Beach will cater to them, too," Kellam said.

The national president of Ruritan is Robert Bailey of Tennessee. Other officers include Charles Allen of West Virginia, vice president; R.E. Thompson of Virginia Beach, treasurer and Thomas N. Downing of Virginia's Eastern Shore, secretary.

Kellam said that all living members of the charter club in Holland will be present for the anniversary celebration, and he "hopes" all living past presidents will be in attendance. A training school for the 24 national governors will be conducted before the convention.

Tours and entertainment is being planned for wives of delegates, Kellam said.

E.E. Cox Calls Teacher 'Outstanding'

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--E. E. Cox, the Virginia Beach Teacher of the Year, missed winning the state award, but said he didn't mind being a loser in this case.

"The winner is an outstanding person," Cox said when he learned that Miss Tride Johnson, who teaches history and U.S. Government in Emporia, Va., won the statewide title.

Cox, who was selected as Princess Anne High's Teacher of the Year, then named Virginia Beach Teacher of the Year, said of the state winner:

"She teaches social studies, too. That even makes it better," he added.

He is a social studies teacher at Princess Anne High School. He said he served last year on a state textbook-selection committee with Miss Johnson.

A. Gordon Brooks, director of the Division of Teacher Education for the state, recently announced the state Teacher of the Year.

Many people are now beginning to plan to replace some overgrown shrubs in their yards, or they are planning to fill in the spots where another plant is needed.

Many will, no doubt, want plants that will provide some color in the form of fruit. Some of the shrubs that bear attractive fruit that are grown in this southeast corner of Virginia are pyracantha, which has both red and orange berries, depending on the variety planted--nandina; bullata holly (this is the common leaf Japanese holly), which has deep purple to black berries; aucuba (female variety, only) and youpon holly.

Cavalier Comedy Is Success

With a title like "The Girl in the Freudian Slip," it is immediately evident that William F. Brown's highly improbable comedy deals with only one thing. But add a very funny script made up of one laugh line after the other and a well-balanced cast working together in absolute harmony, and you have the current production at Cavalier Dinner Playhouse.

The story deals with a somewhat introverted, orderly and eventempered psychiatrist, his analysis and his wife and 17-year-old daughter. Their entire environment could not be more stable... that is, until daughter finds a manuscript on Dr.

Daddy's desk. Actually what she supposes to be a play is merely his ramblings about a nymphomaniac patient he treated for three years and his well-hidden feelings about her on the analyst's couch.

But daughter takes the play to another psychiatrist, who is a close friend of her parents and a published writer. He takes it to his agent to see about publication, and, as only force comedies can have it, the agent turns out to be the ex-patient and heroine of the opus.

The production is paced beautifully by director Harry Cauley, who also plays the psychiatrist-playwright.

New File System to Aid Local Police Enforcement

Members of the Virginia Beach Police Division have just completed training in a new system of criminal identification.

Known as the "Central Criminal Records Exchange," CCRE, the system is operated under the Virginia Division of Law. The headquarters is in Richmond.

The "CCRE" will act as a memory bank for all law enforcement agencies in small towns and counties, as well as large cities, such as Virginia Beach.

Under the program, persons arrested on felony charges, or serious misdemeanors, will be finger-printed and photographed. Information regarding their arrest will be written on special forms. Copies of this material will be forwarded each day from local officials to the "CCRE" files in Richmond.

Each day, information received in Richmond will be compared with that on existing criminal records to determine if the person in question is attempting to hide from authorities in another section of the state.

One of the main advantages of the new system will be the filing of "fugitive wanted" posters at local police headquarters, thereby linking all law enforcement agencies of the state together in finding for persons wanted for crimes. The system also will act as a safeguard against the use of "aliases" by persons attempting to avoid arrest.

Members of the three Virginia Beach police precincts, as well as those attached to the Detective Bureau, and Youth Bureau, based at Princess Anne Courthouse, underwent special training in the fingerprinting and photographing of suspects and the proper completion of forms required in operation of the system.

The classes were conducted under the direction of Captain R.K. Halsted, in charge of the Central Files section of the Virginia Beach Police Division. Instructors for the training were Sgt. C.E. Carlson and Sgt. C.N. Kerley, both of the Identification Bureau, operating within the Central Files Section.

BADGES & BANNER

By Les Lehigh

Men of the Princess Anne Courthouse volunteer fire unit, in the spirit of the season, have begun decorating their station with Christmas lights, and are preparing a tree to display in front of the building. Chief Robert E. Lee says the volunteers will select their fireman of the year tomorrow night, during their annual banquet, at the WAS Oceana officers' club.

Dispatcher Ernie Marrow, in the Police Headquarters radio room at the Virginia Beach Municipal Center, has become the proud father of a son. Marrow said "Ernie, Jr." and his wife, Bonnie, are both doing fine.

Justice of the Peace Ray Giddens said he broke into the "Rock" fishing season in a big way last week. Giddens says that he was fishing with his wife, Sally, and "Worth" Morse, on board Morse's boat. He landed a 30 1/2-pound "Rock".

The catch was made off "Black Can" buoy at the entrance to Chesapeake Bay. Giddens says he intends to have it mounted, and told of a "bigger one which got away".

Sgt. Edward Johnson has rejoined the Seateck volunteer fire unit after 12 months of duty in South Vietnam, where he served as an advisor, according to Chief Aaron Parsons. He says Johnson is a veteran of 16 years U.S. Army service.

Officer W.D. Haden was our host on a recent Saturday night. He invited me to accompany him in his "prowl car", as he patrolled his assigned district.

We had a chance to observe, at first hand, the many activities Haden and his fellow officers of the Beach Borough Precinct, such as M. Holloway and John Parks, perform in the line of duty.

While chatting with men of the Shore Patrol unit in Virginia Beach, the discussion led to various ways the men spent leave time.

Hank Zarnes, AO-1, said he had a way of living up things when he attended "bull fights" in Mexico. Zarnes said he would sit in the stands and cheer for the bull.

BAYSIDE BITS

Students at Louise Luxford Elementary School will entertain members of the P-TA at its meeting at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 11 at the school. Fourth and fifth grades will furnish the refreshments.

A program of Christmas music will be presented by the band and combined choruses of Bettie F. Williams Intermediate School on Friday, Dec. 15, in the school cafeteria.

It's All in the Game

It seems like the governing officials of the City of Norfolk can't forget the games of the past, such as one we know as Monopoly.

Just the other day, plans were announced to try and halt blight in the Park Place area of Norfolk...IF the federal taxpayers will pay most of the cost through a PROPOSED grant in aid.

As this newspaper has noted in earlier editions, the city government of our community of progress has done a better job of redeveloping the Boardwalk area on the Atlantic Seaboard here...and without federal grants for redevelopment. Private financial institutions and the Small Business Administration, in cooperation with officials at all levels of government, have aided in the continuing effort.

The recent HULLABALOO in Norfolk over the Park Place move might appropriately be called a SCRABBLE party, or perhaps another game of POKE-NO, where the Ace of Spades plays a prominent part in winning.

It is interesting to note that while the hullabaloo was going on in Norfolk, Virginia Beach's local government joined with state officials in a ceremony at Kentucky Avenue, opening the Virginia Beach-Norfolk expressway. And as anyone familiar with MONOPOLY knows, Kentucky Avenue is next to FREE PARKING. The sign of the Spade in our city means just that for shoppers, and nothing else. We guess it's part of CHESS, or perhaps STRAT-EGO.

There was a traditional ribbon snipping for the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, and among those with smiling faces out of the shadows of the main toll-charge plaza were Governor Godwin, Patricia Daily (Virginia Beach Junior Miss), Miss Francis A. Edwards (Virginia's Miss Highway), and dignitaries, distinguished guests, politicians, roadbuilders and others.

All directional signs have not been posted on the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway yet (Saturday, that is) at South Lynnhaven Road. And if there's one person that needs directions it's me. I get lost even with them.

On my way to work Saturday morning, I decided to give the Expressway a try. Try is right, I couldn't get on it. Or better still, I couldn't find out how to get on it.

My first attempt wound up in the proposed industrial park.

The next round got me going the wrong way on a one way access road (no signs again).

Not one to give up easily, I tried again and found myself in the middle of Princess Anne Plaza.

Still undaunted, I followed a truck. Unfortunately, it was not going to the Expressway.

Then I found a car--only the driver didn't know where he was going either. Finally we both sat in our cars and watched traffic for awhile. We hit upon what seemed the likely route and tried it. It was right (even heading toward the beach instead of away from it).

The toll gates are great. All you do is throw your coin in the general direction of a large metal basket. It's large enough for even near-sighted women to hit. Then a light politely flashes on "thanks." How can a light be grateful?

It's funny how a new road can make Virginia Beach seem entirely different. Seeing the backsides of sights I've been viewing from the front and seeing from the air others I've seen from the ground made me feel like I was driving through a strange city.

My husband drove on it the opening night (Friday) from Norfolk to South Lynnhaven Road. It took him 10 minutes on the Expressway. But he said it took him 25 minutes to get from Brambleton Avenue to the Expressway in the first place.

P.S. I'll have to give credit where credit is due. One of the first trucks I saw Saturday was full of workmen putting up signs.

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

How long will, we the people of America, slumber in "A fool's paradise?"

Are we going to watch our present day leadership, kill and cripple for life, hundreds of thousands of our youth, for no good reason at all? Will we slumber on while a group of spendthrifts bankrupt our great nation? Can we be content to watch our present-day leadership alienate our international friendships, to the last country? Will we be happy to stand alone, as a self-inflated bigoted Nation, in our own shallow pool of self esteem?

On our home front, are we enjoying the decaying state of our own pattern of human behavior? How long can we neglect self, home, local, State and National discipline? With such neglectful attitudes, we are certain to bring about national anarchy and our much dreaded "Doomsday."

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN welcomes letters. They will be published when possible. Each letter must be signed and include address of the writer. Letters are invited on any question. Mail each to: Editor, VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, Post Office Box 857, Virginia Beach, Virginia, 23451.

Our best chance for recovery is to regain our close contact with "The Great God of the Universe." This recovery can't come about by following the spiritually blind, who represent God's enemies. About face should be our cry.

Beach Police Chief Says Use Firearms 'Discreetly'

PR. ANNEBOROUGH--Police Chief James E. Moore of Virginia Beach said this country "since its beginning has allowed" (people to own) firearms, but "we ought to be discreet in carrying them."

Moore made the comment when asked what he thought about a controversy in Norfolk over a recent speech by Norfolk Police Chief Claude J. Staylor.

Chief Moore said he did not want to get into that controversy. As for the control of firearms in Virginia Beach, Moore said that when individuals purchase them legally in this community, they are required to apply for a permit at police headquarters.

Whether or not they are granted the permit depends in part on whether the person appears mentally stable, or not, Moore added.

"I think you should have the privilege of keeping them (firearms) in the home," he said, if someone wants to. He indicated he was referring to persons who have them for their own protection, or for hunting wild animals or waterfowl.

Moore said he does not know what the 1968 Virginia General Assembly will do about firearm controls, if anything. He commented that some "bothead" who is going to commit a crime usually finds a way to get a gun, but would not commit murder if he didn't have one.

Moore added that he feels "some restrictions should be placed on the mail order purchase" of weapons.

VBLT Production Is 'Dramatic'

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach has come up with a highly intense and successful production of the highly dramatic "Five Finger Exercise."

The play itself is a very wordy slice-of-life drama in which the plot touches each character and changes his life deeply. What little action there is in the play revolves around a very British family of four and a young German tutor, all closeted in a stuffy but comfortable weekend cottage retreat in Suffolk, England.

The mother is a scheming and domineering woman, who cares only that everything be accomplished in the "proper" manner.

She has made her marriage to a wealthy but rough-edged furniture manufacturer work only through her son, whom she attempts to make into all the things she really wanted in a husband.

Through this she has alienated feelings of father and son, and has reared a son with serious doubts about his own virility. She has lost her youth, a fact which comes home to her rather forcefully in the play.

The father takes solace in his pleasant relationship with his teenaged daughter, but within him lies an explosive nature, ready to rebel after so many years of domination.

The tutor is a young man who left his native Germany because of the shame he feels for his Nazi father. He finds a real family for a short time in Suffolk, but only for a short time.

There are few active moments in the play, but most of the message depends entirely on listening carefully to the dialogue. The play itself is not a great one, but the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach players do an admirable job with it.

Much of the credit must necessarily go to the invention of complicated stage movement and the use of fine pacing by director Larry Williams.

Penny Martin, as the mother, plays the role with all the sugar-coated venom necessary. Her characterization is extremely natural and studied.

Timothy L. Jones, as the outsider father, handles his relationship with each other character nicely. His intensity reflects the inner turmoil of the character.

It is Tom Bloom, as the college-aged son, who shines in this production. His outstanding portrayal of the confused boy, torn between his mother, his father and the outside world he fears, is pleasing to watch.

Michael S. Stroup perhaps looks a shade too young to play the German tutor, but carries off the role very well. Underplay is the keynote of his performance, and he does that with perfection.

The role of the daughter is almost out of context with the rest of the play, but Barbara Chittill plays the typical teenager with sweetness.

Herbert Harrell's set is a fine one, although there often did not seem to be enough room behind doors for appropriate action.

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach has presented another success in its current season. It plays again this weekend, and is well worth viewing. JOSEPH LOWENTHAL, JR.

This rubber-tired replica of a locomotive with an interesting past rests beside Laskin Road. What will be its future?

A 'Monument' to the 'Doughboys' in France

The many motorists traveling Laskin Road perhaps are wondering about that locomotive beneath the sign for American Legion Post 113, near the Bay Harbor Club.

Inquiries by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, regarding the locomotive's past, revealed it is a local monument to an important portion of American history.

This particular locomotive is named "Vulture 1410" and was built by members of American Legion Post #113.

It is a scale-model replica of engines which pulled French trains, transporting American "Doughboys" through French countryside during World War I.

According to Henry L. Lam, a past commander of Post 113, the engine is the symbol of a national veterans organization known as the "40 & 8". It includes some members of the American Legion here.

Lam says the engine was built with funds donated by members of the local group of "40 & 8". The "Vulture 1410" is at least ten years old, and for several years was displayed in parades through the streets of the Beach Borough.

Lam said the name "40 & 8" was taken from the phrase "40 & 8", painted on the sides of the boxcars in which the "Doughboys" rode. It indicated each box car had the capacity of "40" men, or "8" horses.

So perhaps the next time you pass old "Vulture 1410" on Laskin Road, you can imagine hearing the click of wheels on the rails, the sound of the train

Va. Beach Fire Council To Mark 20th Birthday

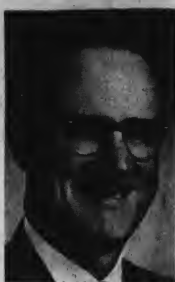

Next Monday night's regular meeting of the Virginia Beach Fire Council will be a special one, marking the 20th anniversary of the council. The organization held its first meeting on December 11th, 1947.

The Fire Council came into being under the direction of the former Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors, about 16 years prior to the merger which formed the present-day city of Virginia Beach.

The Fire Council was established for the purpose of serving as "a go between" for men of the various volunteer fire units and what was the Board of Supervisors.

Today, the Fire Council serves the same purpose, but carries matters of importance from the various fire units to the Virginia Beach City Council.

Another function of the Council is the setting of boundaries, within the city, which are served by each of the fourteen fire units. The council also sees that operation of the various units comply with standards outlined by National Fire Insurance Underwriters. It should be pointed out, however, that the Council in no way attempts to dictate how any of the units should operate on matters of concern within the units, such as the election of volunteer officers.

Each fire unit of the city is authorized to have one representative and one alternate member on the Fire Council. Each unit has only one vote on matters which are placed before the council for a vote. Matters which come before it usually consist of requests for new equipment, additional money for operation, or possibly new additions to existing buildings, or construction of new structures. City Council usually loans the fire units money for buildings and equipment.

The membership of the Fire

Council also includes city fire inspectors, Milton T. Holland, Fred E. Quist, James H. Jessup and J.E. Brammer. Ivan D. Mapp, who has been active with the Virginia Beach Fire Council since its organization, serves as council chairman. Graham White is vice chairman. Fire Chief Kelly Davis of the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, and retired Norfolk fire chief Joe Lewis are honorary members of the council.

Operation of the council is governed by the "Council By-Laws" which are continually reviewed for any possible revision deemed necessary.

Council meetings are held on the second Monday of each month. A different fire station is used for meetings each time.

Next week's 20th anniversary meeting is scheduled to be in the newly-constructed Windsor Woods station on S. Plaza Trail in Lynnhaven Borough.

Of the various items under consideration by the council at the present time, perhaps the most important is the location of a suitable site in the city for conducting regular training of firemen.

The site must offer facilities which will enable training the men in fighting fires of various size, and permit simulation of conditions which fire fighters will possibly be exposed to from time to time.

Savings Bond Sales Lag Behind Va. Beach Goal

BEACH BOROUGH--The sale of United States savings bonds at financial institutions in Virginia Beach is lagging behind the 1967 goal of $510,000.

By the end of October, the total of bond sales in Virginia Beach was $403,390, (79 per cent of the goal), according to report from Bruce Challen, Area II chairman. October sales here totaled about $40,000. Area-wide sales through October totaled $37.7 million, or 82 per cent of the area goal.

Earl V. Slatum of Virginia National Bank is chairman for United States savings bond sales in Virginia Beach's seven boroughs--Beach, Lynnhaven, Bayside, Kemperville, Pungo, Princess Anne and Blackwater.

They Won Everything Except Swimming Pool

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--What do you do with a virtual truckload of summertime prizes which you have won in a sweepstakes contest entered before the weather turned cold?

Commander and Mrs. R.N. Winkel of Royal Palm Drive here aren't worried about it.

"I'll probably pay the income taxes on them first," Winkel said when he learned through a VIRGINIA BEACH SUN phone call that his wife was one of four top winners in the HTH(R) Poolside Party Sweepstakes sales contest sponsored by the hypochlorite products department of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

Mrs. Winkel said she entered the contest when they were living in Pennsylvania and had a swimming pool. This was before they moved to the Malibu area of Virginia Beach last July.

Do they have a swimming pool at their home now? "Regrettably, we don't," Mrs. Winkel said. Her husband chimed in, "I've never seen more enjoyable beaches" than there are in Virginia Beach.

Commander Winkel is senior engineer at Commander, Fleet Air Wings, Atlantic Fleet, at the Norfolk Naval Station.

According to an announcement from Olin Mathieson, the Winkels have won these prizes: A complete ensemble of Lawn Light furniture; a five-piece patio dining set; a portable ice chest; a barbecue cooking set; 12 steak knives; two utility houses; a badminton set; a croquet set; six terry cloth robes; a beauty aid hair dryer; a Century china service for 12; 16 bath towels; two cabanas; a portable bar; a set of stainless steel flatware for 12, and an outdoor shower.

Save Your Junk; Wrap Presents in It

How can you wrap odd-shaped Christmas gifts which don't come in boxes, or even ones that do but you want to disguise them?

One of the sneakiest tricks I learned last Christmas was to put the children's small presents in various sizes of coffee or shortening cans with the plastic lids. Then wrap. It drives the kids nuts because there's no way to squeeze the package to identify the rattle.

Of course, you can be just as sneaky and cushion the gift inside the can so it does not rattle.

For smaller gifts, try cottage cheese cartons or prepared salad cartons.

And then there are the cardboard tubes from paper towels and toilet paper rolls. Try putting men's ties, socks, handkerchiefs, belts, etc. in one. The possibilities are endless.

Something my brother used to do to me, and I've done it to others since, is to begin with a small box and gift wrap it (great for jewelry), then put that box in a slightly larger one and gift wrap it. Keep going as long as your patience (and boxes) hold out.

If you can't find the size box you want, then make it out of cardboard and tape.

If you want to get fancy, wrap presents in colored foil-type paper, then put a felt or construction paper Christmas tree, Santa Claus, bell, etc. (made from scraps with little effort), on the top. Not only are these gifts attractive, but they are especially convenient for mailing because there are no bows to get smashed.

Neiman-Marcus department store in Dallas has won a large following from their novel gift wraps, all without bows. They don't use felt but make figures out of heavy gift wrap.

I'll admit defeat when it comes to a tennis racket, though. Perhaps there's some way to construct a box big enough to hide it, but I'm too much of a coward to try. It's a hard enough to get one home from the store without the sack splitting.

Which brings up another pet peeve of mine. Why can't stores use heavier-weight sacks? I'm sure it is an economy measure, but they should have play on the customers. I know they have shopping bags, but I hate to walk into one department store holding a shopping bag from another.

Not only that, but with increasing shop lifting (especially around Christmas) I get enough cold stares from store detectives with my out-sized purses, I'm afraid I couldn't even get in with a shopping bag.

Another problem is that the "economy" stores make you check all packages at the front desk, which means you must dump your purchases made at department stores in your car before entering a new store.

I don't know why I'm writing about package-wrapping—I haven't bought one present yet.

BEACH BOROUGH--"Twin Pines", home of Mr. and Mrs. Major Pardue on Pinewood Drive, was decorated with and without last Friday as Linkhorn Park Garden Club had their annual Holiday Tea.

Among the blue ribbon winners was a lovely arrangement with three gold ceramic wise men as the focal point. Mrs. Tom Follary not only made the arrangement but the wise men as well.

ment, Mrs. Samuel Meredith's arrangement of red carnations and greens in a silver bowl, Mrs. G.R. Blosser for the kitchen and Mrs. P.C. Hartman for the stairway, which combined avocado green velvet ribbon and bows with gold cherubs and gold roping.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Crump, club president, and Mrs. Pardue greeted guests at the door. Past club presidents alternated at presiding over the tea table, which was beautifully decorated by Mrs. Hoffmeister.

Each room of the house (including the bath) was decorated by a club member selected by the decorating committee which was headed by Mrs. Elmer Tarr-ell and Mrs. Tom Rose. Rooms were judged by members of the Cavalier Garden Club.

Other blue ribbon winners included Mrs. E.A. Hoffmeister for her decorating of the columns at the driveway entrance, Mrs. F. Patrick Kavanaugh's red velvet potted tree on the porch, Mrs. R.K. Molley for her pine cone table arrange-

A table of presents and decorations.

How to Do and What To Do for Christmas

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH-- Her ideas for Christmas decorations come from "Just messing around" says Mrs. C.L. Hersberger of Hershbridge Road, president of the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Surrounding Area.

She gave her last talk on Christmas decorations for this year last week because, "last year I didn't even have time to decorate my own house. This year I will."

Her decorations and small gift ideas are made mostly from odds and ends and are not too difficult to discourage even the unhandiest housewife.

A jewelry box, ideal for a teenager or small girl, was made for a clear box decorated with different sizes and shapes of macaroni, then sprayed with gold Christmas spray.

Book lovers should appreciate book marks made from felt cut in a mitten pattern. Two pieces are sewed together with contrasting thread to cover a pin curl clip on the inside. The clip effectively holds the place of a reader. Further decoration may be added by sewing on sequins or embroidery.

Mrs. Hersberger makes her Christmas cards, all different, by covering the front of white note paper with red or green construction paper. Then she decorates them with felt designs and/or sequins, leaving the inside free for writing Christmas messages.

Simple wall plaques are made from rattan plate holders (they come in a variety of sizes) (See CHRISTMAS Page 7)

BEACH BOROUGH--The bull (Bob and Betty Lou Bennett) cashed in its? their? chips when the matador, Dr. T. Roy Jarrett, applied the scalpel at the Princess Anne Country Club's "Tite Nite in Tijuana" party Saturday.

The bull, breathing smoke, was the hit of the "fun" evening. The club was appropriately decorated with Mexican flags, and members of all ages were decked out in a variety of costumes ranging from beautiful lace mantillas such as worn by Anne (Mrs. Fred) Donahue and Bunny (Mrs. Bill) McClanahan III to the plaid bedspread which copped the prize for the best men's costume for Cdmr. Bill Bagby.

The evening included dinner and dancing, plus a good time for all.

Betty (Mrs. Frank) Dusch won the prize for the best woman's costume.

Look, But Don't Touch

This is a Christmas cookie house by Conny of Alcoa. With just a few minutes effort, you can duplicate this delectable, enchanting holiday centerpiece.

Cover an empty kingsize six-pack soft drink bottle carrier with aluminum foil. Use a shirt cardboard or piece of construction paper to form the roof; cover with foil and fold over the container. Attach graham crackers or cookies to sides of the container with prepared frosting or your favorite confectioner's sugar variety.

Chocolate mint shingles decorate the roof of the house. To attach the candies, apply scallops of frosting to the foil, then press each mint into place.

The gay roof border consists of fondant balls or any firm ball-shaped candy, which can be attached and decorated with a tiny swirl of frosting.

For the chimney, use frosting to attach and decorate a single graham cracker section. Miniature chocolate-coated candles serve as the windows and decorative base of the house. The cobblerstone path leading to the house is pink after-dinner mints.

Simple construction paper cones—touched with frosting, lightly dusted with coconut, and placed over foil-covered soft drink bottles—become snow-mothered pines surrounding this delightful house.

decorated with plastic figures (sprayed different colors), artificial fruit and greenery, silver or gold sprayed pine cones and sweet gum balls.

A four-poster bed (the ideal size for the small dolls so popular with little girls now) can be made by taking the bottom part of a cigar box, using large spools as legs, and cutting out the top of the box to make the head and foot boards. A clothes pin (non-spring type) at each corner makes the bed posts (they also hold the head and foot board in place). All that is left is painting and making a mattress and covers.

Mrs. Hersberger has sewed a cute pair of red "long johns" with an open flap to hold small presents or Christmas cards. They would look cute, too, just hung on a wall or mantle like stockings.

An easy-to-construct snow man is made by stacking three styrofoam balls of different sizes, decorating them with sequins and making a hat from the top to a spray can.

A simple and attractive table decoration can be made by placing a brandy snifter upside down on a round piece of styrofoam about a half inch thick (may be decorated with sequins, glitter, or gold rick rack). Place a small angel or Christmas figure inside. These may be used alone, or different sized brandy snifters may be stacked on top of each other.

Mix wallpaper paste with water to the consistency of thick starch. Dip narrow strips of old sheeting in it, then wrap it around the wire to cover (it sticks to itself).

Next drape wider strips, after dipping, on the arms for sleeves and stick the ends to the back.

Take a long piece, about six inches wide, cut a small hole in the middle and put it over the top wire. Pull the material between the arms and drape as desired. Dry two days. Put a small styrofoam ball on the wire for the head, using push pins and yarn for the face.

Now the figure is ready for hair, made from yarn; a turban, shaped on a plastic lemon, or a wiggle, draped over the head. The figure may be sprayed with gold or colored paint. Or make the base form, dressed in white, then make clothing like you would for a doll to fit it.

of four local stores last Saturday on the same items showed that Virginia Beach prices, in general, are lower than average prices for the Norfolk metropolitan area.

It should be taken into consideration that "housebrands" were checked where possible, and the lowest price on each item used. Stores checked were Colonial on 17th Street, A & P on Laskin Road, Food Town on Virginia Beach Boulevard and Food Fair at Pembroke Mall.

Following are comparative prices noted with only numbers to designate the stores, since the survey was not a complete one, and giving store names could be unfair to both those involved and those not involved.

Christmas Angel

If you have some time and a lot of patience, try making a Christmas angel (as pictured). Depending on your choice, you can make shepherds, wise men, Mary, Joseph, etc.

Begin with a cone-shaped form (styrofoam or heavy cardboard). Attach heavy wire to the top for arms, with one piece sticking up to hold the head.

A Fashion Affair

by Olga Edwards

Yes, I know this is December and why should I tell you now about sandals for resort wear. They are the cutest thing I have seen and I could not resist letting you know about them.

"Regina" in gold kid is Romanized by chunky gold chains and rochetto (spool) heels (chains on the feet, around the waist and also the neck). "Gemini" in gunmetal kid is glamourized by an instep ornament of chained-together, inch-wide pewter squares that are studded with shaded grey rhinestones. The heel is spool-shaped.

While I am on the subject of shoes the latest fad to hit the world of turn-of-the-century is shoes with heels that light up. Of course these are for evening wear.

Regina Here's how the twinkle heels work: Hidden under the inner-sole in the back of the shoe is a small mercury cell battery. When the wearer takes a step, putting pressure on her heel, she turns on the light. When pressure is released, the light goes off, creating a twinkling effect when the wearer walks or dances.

Who knows this might help sometime when you want a certain somebody to notice you. Gee, what women sometime will do to attract attention.

Rose Hall can help you with the cocktail and evening dresses I have seen some of the most attractive shimmering jeweled tops and skirts and luxurious evening sweaters with fox or mink trim.

Small gifts for that someone special: Rose Hall has green suggestions: Banks, Back scratchers, keychains, monogrammed pins, monogrammed lingerie, pantie hose and if completely lost always try fragrances by Givenchy, Helen Rubenstein or Nettie Rosenstein.

In sportswear cashmere by Dalton, slacks sets, slacks suits, skirts and sweaters by John Meyer, Villager and Lady Bug.

At home sparkles with velvets, brocades, and brighter cottons for your entertaining (robes, gowns and culottes).

The monogram dress is a must in every ladies wardrobe. For the special occasion the costume look is very chic. Drop in at Rose Hall.

Navy Wives' Club Notes

By Mary Wright

The round of Christmas festivities for area Naval officers and their wives began Friday night, Dec. 1, with a dinner-dance in the Sea Room at the Dam Neck Officers' Club.

Decorations, arranged by four members of the Officers' Wives Club, carried out the Christmas theme for the party. Mrs. R.D. Rodgers, Mrs. T.A. Santua, Mrs. R.P. Multer and Mrs. H.H. Boyles hung clusters of large red and white bells from the four red and green light fixtures in the Sea Room. Streamers of white and green were stretched canopy-like from the bells to the corners of the room.

Beside the balcony leading down to the dining area stood a Christmas tree, and the balcony railing was trimmed with swags of greenery and red Christmas stockings.

Beach Women Win Top Prizes

At least a dozen Virginia Beach women won top ribbons, including one of the highest awards, in the annual Christmas flower show at Norfolk Municipal Auditorium last weekend.

Mrs. C.J. Paschang of the Thalia area won the Award of Distinction for a flower arrangement using dried materials. In the artistic division of the show, it had "Here-There-Everywhere-Christmas" as the theme.

The Tri-Color Award for the best arrangement using fresh material was won by Mrs. Allen L. Carpenter of Norfolk. Mrs. C.S. Southall of the Bay Shore Garden Club was sweepstakes winner in horticulture, officials said. And Mrs. Quintin Shepe of Norfolk won a Tri-Color Award for a table setting.

Mrs. Paschang, after the show ended Sunday, said "other people" contributed to her winning floral arrangement. She said it was made of an Enrico Caruso record from the family's collection of records, folded Quaker tree leaves from Mrs. H. O. Freeman of Thalia; the dried stalks from a "red hot poker" bush obtained from Mrs. Evelyn Banworth of Norfolk, some unusual flower-seed pods from Mrs. Anne Keeton of Great Bridge, Chesapeake, and imitation snow from a spray can.

Other women with homes in Virginia Beach who won blue ribbons in the show included Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Malcolm H. Todd Jr., Mrs. J.W. Overton, Mrs. Cecil Reed, Mrs. R.L. Breeden Jr., Mrs. R.C. Dunaja, Mrs. C.A. Dickerson, Mrs. R.J. Bond, Mrs. J. Roger Cobb, Mrs.

Volume 1 No. 22

Virginia Beach, Virginia December 14, 1967

SUN Phone: 428-2401

Tourists Should Enjoy New Road

It was a 34-minute ride on the latest in modern, trouble-free highways for the most part. And if a couple of traffic signals on Tidewater Drive in Norfolk hadn't been on red, the ride would have been faster.

A VIRGINIA BEACH SUN staffer decided to find out how long it would take for a tourist, or other motorist to drive from the Willoughby area of Norfolk, the south end of the Hampton Roads Bridge-Tunnel to the Virginia Beach resort area.

The trip began at 2:10 p.m. on Sunday afternoon of this week. It ended 34 minutes later at 2:12 Street and Baltic Avenue, the eastern terminus of the expressway.

The driving speed throughout the trip in a slight drizzle was moderate, and slightly below at legal speed limits, which varied at times on Tidewater Drive (Virginia 168) in Norfolk, and on Interstate 64, the other route followed through that city to by-pass the downtown area.

For a Sunday drive to the oceanfront, the trip was a breeze on Interstate 64 and the expressway. From the south end of the Hampton Roads Bridge-Tunnel via U.S. Highway 60 to Tidewater Drive, and on that highway to Interstate 64 took 13 minutes. The distance was about six miles, and traffic signals were on red where Tidewater Drive intersects with Mason Creek Road and Little Creek Road.

From the Interstate 64 interchange with Tidewater Drive, traveling on the interstate route, to the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway's western terminus (Interstate 264), the ride was smoother and faster.

That part of the trip took exactly seven minutes to drive, and the distance traveled was near six miles, mostly in the center-lane to avoid traffic turning off, or getting on Interstate 64.

Then came the ride on the Beach Expressway (Virginia 44), where motorists have a choice of heading straight for the oceanfront, or turning to the right at a number of interchanges.

The time to travel the entire length of the expressway (for a 25-cent toll charge) on the Sunday trip was 14 minutes. This was at a speed below the legal limit of 65 miles per hour for cars and 50 miles per hour for trucks. But it was a pleasure drive, not a time-saving drive at the highest legal speed.

For shoppers, commuters or sightseers, looking for relaxation or Christmas items, there are arrows pointing the way to Newtown Road, Witch Duck Road, Independence Boulevard and Bonney Road, Rosemont Road, Lynnhaven and London Bridge, and Birdneck Road.

Major shopping areas are at each of those locations, stretching along Virginia Beach Boulevard.

While the toll charge for driving the entire expressway route is 25 cents for passenger cars, travel on the four-lane highway, with more lanes at bridges, is offered for 10 cents in change.

Less traffic congestion on the old boulevard is attracting more shoppers to Virginia Beach businesses. But others are taking the expressway for short distances to get to their favorite shopping areas on the boulevard and south of the expressway.

Each person drives at his own speed, and travel time on the U.S. 60, Virginia 168, Interstate 64 and Virginia 44 route driven by the SUN staffer is only an indication of the time length of a trip.

Differ on Missing Tax Notices

Etheridge-Mapp Renew Verbal War

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--Open letters addressed to City Manager W. Russell Hatchett and City Treasurer V.A. Etheridge from Ivan D. Mapp, Commissioner of Revenue, have apparently resulted in new political warfare in Virginia Beach.

Last week Mapp discovered that about 5,000 city residents

Referendum May Increase Taxes

Real estate taxes levied by the Virginia Beach city government might increase approximately from 16 per cent to 23 per cent in 1968, if voters approve municipal bond issues in a referendum expected to be in January of next year.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett disclosed the possible tax increase at a meeting of Virginia Beach City Council on Monday. He said the actual amount of tax increases for individual taxpayers can not be determined now.

Hatchett, however, projected how much revenue would be needed by the city government to make payments on municipal bonds proposed for sale to finance $18.5 million in public improvements, with nearly $15 million of it earmarked for public schools.

He said the "projections" do not include additional operating costs of the various city departments, or any borrowing other than what the voters will be asked to approve early in 1968.

Since some boroughs in the city have different kinds of services for taxpayers, the possible increase in local taxes differs by boroughs on a percentage basis. What the actual "tax rates" will be cannot be determined until City Council sets them next spring.

Hatchett listed these estimated taxes on land and improvements, based on houses with fair market values of $12,000 or $15,000 or $20,000:

Bayside, Kempsville and Lynnhaven Boroughs and areas of Princess Anne Borough with mosquito-control service, $116.64 on a $12,000 house, $145.80 on a $15,000 house, and $194.40 on a $20,000 house.

Blackwater Borough and areas of Princess Anne Borough without mosquito-control service, $112.32 on a $12,000 house; $140.40 on a $15,000 house, and $187.20 on a $20,000 house.

Virginia Beach Borough, $151.20 on a $12,000 house; $189 on a $15,000 house, and $252.00 on a $20,000 house.

Generally, the cost of the future bond issues to the taxpayers would be equivalent to approximately a 23 per cent tax boost for those in Bayside, Kempsville, Lynnhaven and Princess Anne boroughs, about 25 per cent in Blackwater borough, and nearly 16 per cent in the Beach Borough. Hatchett did not list any projected tax levels for Pungo Borough.

had not received their bills for Personal Property taxes. The deadline for paying them was Dec. 5. Later the receipts for car licenses, on which the tax bills are based, were in the files at the police station along with the copies the police use.

Hatchett, when contacted by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, said that he had received Mapp's letter and that the tax situation "is an unfortunate thing and I hope it will not happen again."

He also said he had never seen a busy office that did not occasionally make mistakes. Hatchett said that pursuant to Mapp's letter he had apprised City Council of the situation. The council directed him to write letters to the office of Treas. Etheridge, Commissioner of Revenue Mapp and Giles

Dodd, Commissioner of Finance, advising them that no penalties were to be assessed for late tax payments.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN contacted Treas. Etheridge, and he stated that in the past 12 years a situation such as this has never happened before, and he further stated that it was "unique" that it happened at a time when there were "political differences."

"It appears to me that the Commissioner of Revenue's office, out of common courtesy, should have alerted me to the situation before writing letters," Etheridge said.

"You can bet on one thing—that next year whoever picks up the bills will sign for them," he added.

Mapp, when told of Etheridge's reaction, informed the SUN that he had "indeed not once but twice contacted the City Treasurer's office regarding this matter."

"If Etheridge did not know about this he was apparently not communicating with his office help," Mapp said. "Politics have nothing to do with it, but if he (Mr. Etheridge) wants to make a political issue of it that's fine with me."

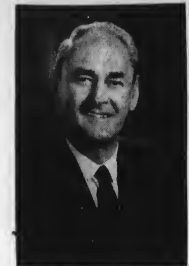

His final comment was that he "had no intention of signing any slips at any time regarding matters of this nature."

Following are the texts of letters which Mapp wrote to Hatchett, and to City Treasurer Etheridge. Both are dated December 8, 1967.

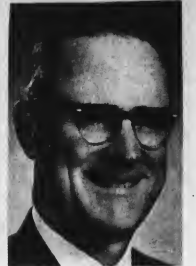

"Dear Mr. Hatchett:

"Two or three days before December 5th, the deadline for payment of taxes without penalty, several people called this office stating they had purchased a city automobile license tag but had not received a personal (contin. on page two)

Teachers 'Love' New English

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--"Teachers love it."

That is a comment from Miss Patricia King, Virginia Beach elementary school supervisor, on the reaction of teachers to the so-called "new English" being taught in the city's public elementary schools this year.

If you have a child in one of these grades, you have probably noticed that the English text books adopted this year are quite different from any in the past. No matter what the age of your children, you'll probably be hearing more about the English program.

The text book series, by the late Dr. Paul Roberts, approaches English grammar through the language as it is spoken. One of its main goals is to develop the students' ability to write creatively.

"It's the most exciting thing I have seen in education," said Miss King.

"I don't think this is going to go out," she commented. "It will be the basic approach from now on. It's too good to be."

According to Dr. Roberts, "Traditional grammar was a description of language that rested on no theory of language. At its best, it was an interesting collection of facts of the language, and observations on them. But even at its best, it had little explanatory power and largely put on the reader the burden of figuring out the essential systems...pupils often could not understand grammar for the very good reason that the grammar presented to them was not understandable."

Miss King pointed out that Dr. Roberts had the opportunity to cull the best works of other researchers and analysts of English.

The third grade text teaches the essentials of a "simple sentence." Each year's text progresses to more complicated and sophisticated sentence construction. By the seventh grade a student, although he doesn't know all there is to know about English grammar, should be in "firm and conscious control of its central features."

Each text depends on the one from the previous grade. However, Dr. Roberts took into consideration the student who may not have had the text before. A review of the essentials is included in the back of all but the third grade text.

The teacher also is expected to review the past at the beginning of each school year, to cover material that may have been forgotten during a summer's vacation from classes. There are numerous tests to check each student's progress, and to uncover the need for reteaching any portion so that no child need become "lost."

Each book contains the same basic structure. Each section is introduced by a piece of choice literature, about 70 percent of which is poetry. As an example, the third grade text opens with "Stopping by a Woods on a Snowy Day," by Robert Frost. "I didn't think the children could understand it, but they do," said Miss King.

She explained that the teachers read the selection to their classes first, or play a recording of it that comes with the text for each grade. Then unfamiliar words are explained, and the literature is discussed as to its meaning, etc. Background on the author and writing of each is included.

Next, the students take turns reading it aloud. The literature is used as a basis for the grammar lesson that follows. Many of the sections include creative writing on the part of the students. For instance, third graders begin by writing sentences based on literature and gradually lead up to paragraphs.

By the seventh grade, students are writing full reports on their reactions to the literature, on the author or on his subject. (Miss King mentioned that the school libraries cannot supply enough books on Greek mythology this year. There has been never any particular demand for them before.)

According to Miss King, the new English should help the poor reader too. "It's the greatest thing seeing sixth and seventh graders able to read the literature and understand what they're doing." She said teachers have noted improvement in just three months.

She said no bad examples are given in the texts, because Dr. Roberts believed that when students see incorrect English in print they are likely to remember it.

"Now the children will argue about incorrect things they see or hear in the literature," she said. "That's certainly different from what they have been doing. Much of the literature leads to good classroom discussions."

One of the biggest changes in Dr. Roberts' method of teaching is that students learn by good examples and logical steps, rather than by hard and fast rules--followed by all the exceptions.

"We've had to warn the teachers not to make up any examples of their own, and to stick to the teachers' manuals and workbooks," Miss King said.

The Roberts Series of books was used in several cities last year on a trial basis. They are now in use in all schools in Virginia Beach, and in some schools in Norfolk. Consultants from the publisher visit periodically to check the progress.

"We were lucky we could replace all of the English texts at one fell swoop," said Miss King. "It would have been impossible, if the parents here didn't buy the text books."

Stars in the sky, an abstract painting or fireworks? None of those in this photograph, which is what a camera saw reflected in a pool of rainwater outside of the Pembroke Mall Shopping Center last weekend. Reflected in the wet walkway outside were some of the many bell-shaped stars which decorate the front of the center. For what's inside, see the pictures below.

inside of the climate-controlled mall area, and Mrs. Leitman describes it as a "winter wonderland scene," which is delighting tens of thousands of children of all ages. On the far left, one mechanized doll pushes and another pulls a reindeer. Next is one going up and down to get the mail at the North Pole. Then two dolls which go back and forth with a bagful of gifts. At the right are a dog with a wagging tail, and a doll which turns to paint the canine's nose.

Lynnhaven Notes

St. Francis Episcopal Church will present a pageant, "Three Gifts of Christmas," at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17 at the church, located at 509 S. Rosemont Rd. Mrs. John E. Boon and Mrs. Leonard E. Wolfe are directing the pageant, and Mrs. S.R. Mathews is the organist. Visitors are welcome.

Princess Anne Garden Club will have wreaths and kissing balls on sale from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. today, Dec. 14, at the Eastern Shore Chapel parish house.

Church Elects Six New Vestrymen

BEACH BOROUGH--The congregation of Galilee Episcopal Church has elected six new vestrymen for three-year terms, using the Australian ballot method of voting.

Those elected at the annual congregational meeting on Sunday, December 10, were William Bruce, Dr. John Crawford, Irvin Gentry, Mrs. Landon Hilliard Jr., Maurice Jackson and Alfred L. Wood.

The Rev. John H. Jordan Jr. is rector at Galilee Episcopal. Douglas Hubbard is senior warden, and Lawrence B. Wales Jr. is junior warden.

Chamber Plans Meeting at Civic Center

Frank W. Kellam Sr. has been elected as president of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce for 1968, and he and other officers will be installed at the chamber's annual dinner meeting in mid-January.

The officers were elected by the chamber's board of directors at a meeting on Tuesday of this week.

The other officers for the new year are James P. Sadler, 1st vice president; George H. Davis, 2nd vice president; Lawrence A. Sancilio, secretary, and James G. Kontopanos, re-elected treasurer.

The annual dinner meeting of the chamber is scheduled for January 16, 1968, at the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

Welcoming guests to Broad Bay Manor was this sleigh full of presents and greenery and the dolls dressed annually for the event by members of Cape Henry Woman's Club.

Council Meeting Capsuled

City Council members, during their regular meeting Monday, called upon state legislators who will represent Virginia Beach in the forthcoming General Assembly to vigorously oppose any reduction in the amount of funds localities received from state sales tax revenues.

Under the present provisions localities receive one per cent of the two per cent levy, with the refund being based on the school population of individual localities. A proposed new distribution formula could reduce the funds which are returned to local governments.

Virginia Beach Commonwealth Attorney-elect Andre Evans, during council meeting, announced his acceptance of the resignation of Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney J. Peter Holland, III, effective Dec. 31. Evans also announced a reorganization of his office, including retaining of full time assistants.

City Council gave second reading approval to the proposed $18.5 million bond issue, which now must be approved in a public referendum. The date of the referendum had not been set by Circuit Court at time of printing of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN.

Other action in Monday's Council meeting included authorizing of a contract with Frederick H. Bair for reviewing of Virginia Beach Borough codes regarding building, fire and similar rulings with possible combining of the regulations under one single code, as well as possible revising of the zoning ordinances of the region formerly known as Princess Anne County.

City Manager Hatchett was authorized to obtain seven voting machines for the city, at a cost of $1,693 per machine on a lease-purchase agreement. The council approved the contracting of J.C. Wheat, Inc., as the city's financial advisor during the calendar year 1968. The approval stipulated a maximum fee of $10,000 to the firm during that period.

Retired police Capt. R. H. Stone was publicly honored during the regular council proceedings, with a presentation by Mayor Frank Dusch. Stone received a gold badge obtained by his former colleagues in the Police Division as a memento of their high regard for him.

property tax bill. In each incidence it was determined that we had no record in this office of these people having purchased a license in the city.

"Since the Treasurer is required to furnish this office with the number 3 copy of the official receipt for city automobile license sold in the city and since we had no record of these people having purchased their license we called the Treasurer's Office to ascertain whether or not all of the forms had been delivered to the Commissioner of Revenue. We were informed that all of the number 3 copies covering the purchase of auto tags in the city had been delivered to my office.

"When the calls continued to come in an additional inquiry and search was made by my office and when the number 3 copies could not be found we then went to the Police Department to get their number 2 copies to check against our number 3 copies so we could find out if they had any additional copies we did not have.

"We were given permission to go through their files and during the search we found approximately 5,000 of the number 3 copies which had been sent to the Police Department along with their number 2 copies.

"We have begun to prepare assessments from these copies and my reason for writing to you is to suggest that since these taxpayers, through no fault of their own (nor this office), will be late receiving their tax bills the City Council may want to relieve them of the 5% penalty.

"I am writing on each tax bill that the information for making these assessments was not received in this office until December 6th. It was only after general phone calls and a search of the Police Department records that this information came to light.

"It seems to me the City Council should work out some method to prevent a re-occurrence of this. One of the ways would be to have the application for city license tags originate, as all other city licenses do, in the Commissioners Office, however, I will be happy to cooperate in any method you suggest."

"Dear Jack: "For several days now my office has been receiving phone calls from people stating they had purchased city auto tags in Virginia Beach but had not received an assessment or a tax bill for personal property. After several investigations it was apparent that I had not received all of the number 3 copies of the official receipt for city auto license. Your office at City Hall and at the Annex was called and we were told all of the number 3 copies had been sent to the Commissioner of Revenue.

"In order that I be sure I had received all of the number 3 copies I decided to check the number of copies in our files

Police Ask Help On Calls

Residents of Virginia Beach are being reminded of the main phone number of the city's Police Division. It is 426-6231.

Captain Harry C. Terry said this number should be used by citizens who require the services of a police officer, or who desire to register a complaint. Terry says a large number of residents are calling the Police Precinct which serves their particular section of the city when a police officer is required. Such a procedure delays dispatching an officer to the scene, since such requests must be relayed by the Precinct to Police Headquarters at Princess Anne Courthouse.

Through the use of the main number (426-6231) requests for a police officer, or for registering complaints, can be properly evaluated and make for a more efficient handling of the citizens' request.

Also of concern to Capt. Terry is the method of inquiring of the status of persons who may be confined to the City Jail. A large number of such inquiries are being made by use of the number 426-6231.

Terry says such inquiries can be handled more thoroughly by dialing the main number for the city of Virginia Beach, 426-6111, and asking for the City Sergeant's office.

On weekends, such phone inquiries should still be made through the same number, since that number will "ring" directly through to the City Sergeant's office on Saturdays and Sundays.

Each of these suggestions have been offered by Terry to improve the service of the Virginia Beach Police Division offered the residents of the city.

with the Police Department's number 2 copies, in going through their files I found approximately 5,000 of the number 3 copies which had been delivered in error to the Police Department along with their number 2's. Captain R.H. Haldstead, of the Records Bureau, permitted me to take the number 3 copies after giving him a receipt for same.

"In order for me to prepare the personal property tax bills from these copies it will be necessary for you to furnish me 5,000 personal property tax bills as soon as possible. I shall prepare the tax bills without applying the 5% penalty as it is no fault of the taxpayer, or this office, that they will be late in receiving their bills.

"I shall be very glad to cooperate with you to prevent a re-occurrence of this and I hope you will let me have the tax bills immediately so the proper revenue can be collected for the city."

City Tries For Law On Campers

Efforts are underway to revise the ordinances which govern the parking of campers, camper trailers, boats, and boat trailers in residential sections of the city of Virginia Beach.

Indications are the present regulations do not make clear what such recreational equipment may be stored on private property without violation of the law.

Tuesday night city official held a public hearing on the matter in the Circuit Court chamber which was attended by approximately 100 persons interested in the issue. Following a lengthy discussion of the pros and cons of the matter it was decided to appoint a "citizens committee" to work with city officials on revising of the present regulations.

Those appointed to the committee, which represents a cross section of interests in the matter were Charles F. Kadas, Mrs. Frank J. Hart, Cmdr. Sterner J. Hall, Bernard C. Hobson, C.J. Parkerson and Wallace B. Smith.

It is expected a good deal of time will be devoted to a study of the matter before any concrete ruling is forthcoming. Members of the "Citizens Committee" indicate they would like to compare similar ordinances of other regional cities concerning parking of such recreation equipment, before meeting with city officials on revision of the Virginia Beach ordinance.

Court Sets New Time

The start of a new year will also bring about a change in the normal proceedings of Virginia Beach Municipal Court, which is held at Princess Anne Court House.

Clerk Gerald F. Williams tells the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN civil proceedings will no longer be held in two sessions, beginning Wednesday, Jan. 3, 1968, court will convene at 10 a.m. each Wednesday for the airing of civil court cases and continue through the day until the docket is complete.

It is hoped this will bring about a more efficient handling of matters which are brought before the court, Williams said.

'Justice Done' Says Shumate Of Permit

BEACH BOROUGH--"I think they just did justice. I don't think they went out of their way," said Richard Shumate, owner of the Rathskeller Lounge on Atlantic Avenue, about getting a dance permit for his restaurant.

A temporary dance permit was granted to Shumate at Monday's City Council meeting. City Council is planning to have a specific permit for dancing in the future.

A controversy arose when Shumate applied for rezoning to permit dancing. He has live bands for entertainment, and he argued that there is no place where adults can go to dance in Virginia Beach outside of private clubs.

"Now I'm going to promote this thing and get the people back to the beach," said Shumate. He said that although his permit is temporary he "understood" it would last until a specific permit is drawn up.

J.E. Fentress Pleads Guilty; Is Sentenced

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--Joseph E. Fentress Jr., 26, pleaded guilty to second degree murder charges Tuesday in Circuit Court and was sentenced to 15 years in prison for the murder, rape and robbery of Mrs. Sylvia I. Babcock in September of 1966 at her home on Sandwell Drive.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney J. Peter Holland recommended the 15 year prison sentence for murder and five years for grand larceny. The terms will run concurrently. Fentress waived a jury trial and offered no defense.

We told one of our customers electricity costs him less today. He said, "Bah! Humbug!"

It's easy to see why he didn't believe us. His electric bill is higher.

But the fact of the matter is that rates have been going down steadily. Vepco has reduced residential rates three times in the last five years.

So he is probably using a lot more electricity.

When we asked him if he used more today, he admitted that there were some new appliances around his place. "I bought a new TV and washer last year," he said. "How much does it cost to run those?"

We told him he could watch two hours of TV or wash two tubs of clothes for a penny's worth of electricity.

"Well now, when I think about it, I guess I do get a lot more for my money today."

We were telling him he could bake a big twelve-pound goose for about 6c and all of a sudden he bolted out of his office. Said something about going to his bookkeeper's for dinner.

Capt. G.K. Bryan (on his feet), commanding officer of the Virginia Beach Police Bureau's traffic unit, and Sgt. Belangia discuss the operation of the type of motorcycle to be used in training policemen.

Population and Expressway

Greater Demands Put On Traffic Patrolmen

The continuing increase in the population of Virginia Beach has increased the number of motorists traveling the thoroughfares of the city.

basic knowledge of his equipment and responsibility" with this and field training, he will know what to do on the road," Sgt. Belangia pointed out that one of the main objectives during the training program is to teach each man the proper way "to create a good public image while performing his duty."

This fact, combined with the recent opening of the Beach Expressway, is placing greater demands on the men of the traffic unit of the Virginia Beach Police Bureau in their efforts to assure a smooth, safe flow of traffic.

One of the steps taken to meet this challenge is the training of additional men as motorcycle police officers.

Five men, each of whom is attached to the traffic unit, but assigned to various police precincts, comprise the first class of students. The students are officers L.F. Graffius, R.R. Monette, J.W. Pritchard, D.L. Rinick, Jr., and R.L. Taylor.

Training of the men will cover a five-week period, and include 20 hours of instruction, Sgt. K.A. Belangia is in charge of the training program, with officers E.L. Jackson and F.P. Scarborough assisting him.

Classroom sessions, in the police headquarters building at Princess Anne Courthouse, include familiarization with motorcycles to be used, fundamentals of safety, and the men's responsibility as motorcycle officers. Training in the actual operation of equipment will take place on an old airstrip, located near Pungo in Princess Anne Borough.

Sgt. Belangia told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, that, upon completion of the course, each man "should have a general and

Man Shot At Store; Boy Held

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--A 17-year-old boy is in custody for what was apparently a senseless killing of a 47-year-old Virginia Beach man. Jack P. Simon of Mediterranean Avenue died shortly after being shot in the chest Tuesday night, while he and his wife were looking over Christmas trees at King's Department Store at London Bridge, Virginia Beach Police arrested an unidentified Negro boy about four hours later. The juvenile was returned to city jail following his preliminary hearing. Trial date has been set for Jan. 27, 1968.

A member of the Oceana Volunteer Fire Department has been chosen as "Fireman Of The Year" in the city of Virginia Beach.

J.E. Brammer was selected from a list of nominees submitted by men of the various fire units. While this is the first year one man was honored as top fireman on a citywide basis, plans are for the award to be an annual event.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN extends its deepest sympathy to officer Richard F. Lippert, attached to the Bayside Police Precinct, and members of his family, on the loss of his father, who passed away following an illness.

Members of the London Bridge Volunteer Fire Department have just elected new officers for the year 1968. Those taking office on January 1st will be: R. Bolton, president; C. Spencer, vice president; D.J. Zellar, secretary; C. Paulas, treasurer; L.B. George, chief; J. V. Merlino, deputy chief; H. H. Campbell and C. Lowder, assistant chiefs.

If present plans of Justice of the Peace James B. Lofton are successful, residents of Lynnhaven Colony will witness an unusual sight this Christmas. Lofton says he will float an illuminated Christmas tree on board a boat, in waters of the canal near his home near the Long Creek bridge.

Congratulations are in order for Sgt. D.J. Craig, of the Bayside Police Precinct, and his wife, Barbara. They have just become the proud parents of a son. When someone commented the 11-pound baby made him a big boy already, Craig laughingly replied: "Yeah, he's ready for school".

Two members of the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Rescue Squad who went hunting this season were squad captain James Tomko and Joe Skahill. Tomko said they went hunting last week on the edge of Back Bay, and came out of the woods with three squirrel.

Sgt. Warren L. Grant, attached to the Beach Borough Police Precinct, is taking private flying lessons. Grant says he is "working out" in a "Beechcraft". When asked how he is progressing, he said: "So far, so good".

Men of the 2nd Police Precinct last week were discussing the "pros and cons" of an old "Cavalry Style" revolver. It had been to a shop for removal of a bullet casing, which had jammed in the "barrel".

When one of the men wondered out loud how a "bullet" could become lodged in the long "barrel", Lt. Charles H. Payne said, "it had so far to travel, I guess it just got tired and quit."

A 'Lock Your Car' Reminder

Each year about this time, there are some persons who can't resist the temptation to steal from the cars of others, particularly cars in parking lots where happy people are flocking for Christmas buying and other actions appropriate for the season.

For that reason, the annual "Lock Your Car" campaign gets under way each year with the support of numerous safety-conscious individuals and groups in Virginia Beach.

People who leave their cars unlocked when unattended are, in effect, opening the door to those who cannot resist temptation. And in Virginia Beach, as

In other communities, there are some who--consciously or unconsciously--will steal from others.

They may have forgotten the message in the Holy Bible (Matthew, 16th Chapter, 23rd Verse): "Get thee behind me, Satan." Or the message in the Old Testament, a commandment that "thou shall not steal."

People who have the presence of mind to lock their cars can not only protect their own possessions, but also can help those who forget. And the spirit of Christmas will prevail in this united community, where people of all beliefs are cooperating as best they can.

Business Signs Are Helpful

With the new expressway between Interstate 64 and our community's oceanfront being traveled by more and more cars, trucks and buses daily, some motorists are having time finding familiar places to continue their shopping for Christmas.

It might be because they are so accustomed to doing much of their buying at businesses along Laskin Road and Va. Beach Boulevard. While traveling on the new expressway, parallel to and south of the boulevard, some motorists have difficulty locating the better business places, or shopping centers. Others find them easily.

There have been suggestions that existing signs, which mark the nearby locations of shopping centers, or individual businesses, along the old boulevard are not clearly visible from the expressway. Some would like to make them higher, and others would like to keep the business signs at their present heights.

Reading signs is a habit with a lot of people, and there sometimes are disagreements over what can, or should be, done about location signs.

There are some signboards which clutter the scenic views in our community of progress. This, no one can deny. And when it comes to beauty, we are among the first to support it... cheerfully and with hope that natural beauty stays an attraction in the community.

But there is far more that can be said for signs which help people find the place they are seeking. This is certainly true for the motorists who travel the highways in our community. If a person at the wheel of a car or other vehicle has to look hard and fast for any sign to help guide him, it is nearly impossible to drive safely in any direction.

Where would the three Kings have been without the shining Star in the East to guide the wise men to the stable? Or what would the children of today do if Santa Claus couldn't find his way here eleven days from now?

When in the proper place and clearly visible for those who need them, signs are guides to progress, and the faith, hope and charity which go with continued progress and peaceful living. They should be high enough for all to see the right and proper way to get where they are going.

They're Tops to Many

The local high school football season is over, in time for Virginia Beach's improving teams to enjoy the holiday season after a few basketball games to keep school spirits up.

Virginia Beach City Council took official note of the local football season's end on Monday by honoring the Princess Anne High Cavaliers, considered by many as the best all-around team in the state of Virginia.

The adoption of a resolution praising Coach John Grady, co-captains Robert German and John Kiefer and the other Cavaliers was well deserved. And the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN adds its congratulations for a job well done, with best wishes for the coming year.

The physical fitness of the Princess Anne students is matched by the spirit of the student body, we have noticed. And nobody can argue against high spirit at this time of the year?

ANOTHER SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

Potential Danger

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

I wish to call your attention to a potentially dangerous situation at the Windsor Woods Public Library. The library is located on a poorly lit street and the parking lot is surrounded by a wooded area and totally without lights.

Since many children frequent the library during the evening hours, this presents a dangerous situation for trouble from the motorist as well as any deviate who might be in the area, and the employees have difficulty in getting their cars unlocked.

I feel that this matter should be investigated and measures taken to provide for the well being of all citizens who are utilizing the library provided for them.

Mrs. Donald W. Butcher

(Editor's note: The woods beside the parking lot are now being cleared for construction of a new business.)

Thanks

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

The Federation of Garden Clubs of Norfolk and Vicinity, Incorporated, wish to express their sincere appreciation for the wonderful publicity preceding and during our recent annual Christmas Flower Show, as well as during the past years.

We appreciate your fine spirit of cooperation and assure you that we are grateful to you for your support.

This was such a fine contribution and helped so much to make our show a success. The profits will be used to maintain and operate our Garden Center Educational Building at 745 East 29th Street.

With kindest personal regards,

Mrs. Gideon D. Overman Jr.

Bob German Gets Top Award

Cavalier Players Receive Honors

KEMPSVILLE BOROUGH--It was honors night for the Princess Anne High School Cavalier football team in the school cafeteria a week ago today, and quarterback Bob German received the top honor.

He was selected as The Most Valuable Player on the Cavalier football team, which finished its 1967 season undefeated, capping it with a 16 to 14 Eastern Region championship win over the Hampton High Crabbers.

The Most Valuable Player trophy was presented to German by Leslie Cox, representing the Kempsville Ruritans Club, which each year selects a Cavalier player for the award. Ralph Garriott of the Ruritans also announced Kenny Mills as the most valuable player on the Kempsville Falcons, a community team sponsored by the Ruritans. The Falcons of Kempsville village won the Virginia Beach community league title in its division.

Cavalier Coach John Grady announced that Robert Gerloff and Biff Pearson will be co-captains of the Cavalier football team next year. Grady said they were chosen by members of this year's championship team. Members of the Cavalier football team who have won the Kempsville Ruritans MVP Award in previous years: Dick Kauffman, Jim Laird, Bill Burns, Gene Maxey, Gary Boyd, Herb Cuipepper, Charlie Carr, Buster O'Brien, Willie Kibler, David Turner and Ronald Reid. Grady read off the list of various all-star honors received by members of the Cavalier squad, and his coaching staff presented letters, gold stars and Virginia High School League certificates. William P. Kellam, of the Kellam-Eaton Insurance Company, presented mementos to each player in the form of team photographs on billfold-size metal plates, which also have the 1967 team record.

Tom Counter, end and Bill Felchner, tackle, both were named to the first-string All-Metro, All-Eastern (Regional), All-Eastern (District) and All-Tidewater teams for 1967. Mickey Byrd, was named to All-Metro; Bruce Runyon was named to All-Metro and the All-Eastern first strings; John Kiefer, fullback, made the All-Metro, All-Tidewater and All-Eastern first teams.

Here is a list of Cavalier players who won various All-Star honors:

All Metro (four cities south of Hampton Roads)--Tom Counter, Bill Felchner, Mickey Byrd, Bruce Runyon and John Kiefer, first string; Robert German, second.

All Eastern Regional (Hampton Roads' six cities)--Counter and Felchner, first string.

All Eastern District (city of Virginia Beach and Norfolk)--Counter, Runyon, Felchner, Bob Gerloff, German (No. 1 back) and Kiefer.

Bill Dooley, head football coach at the University of North Carolina this past season, was guest speaker for the banquet at Princess Anne last Thursday night. He gave the football players and parents there an inspiring talk about football being more than a game, saying it teaches self-discipline, how to "live by the rules" of life and builds good character and future leaders for America, as other competitive sports do.

O. Charles Drescher of the Virginia Beverage Company introduced Dooley. Edwin Charles assistant principal at Princess Anne, called the Cavalier football team "the greatest bunch of kids that I've been privileged to work with" in his 41 years in education. He added that German is "the finest field leader that I have ever seen."

German and Kiefer, 1967 co-captains, presented a white football to Grady. It was autographed by all of this year's Cavalier team. Grady, who has been critical of various All-Star selections from high school teams in the area, said as he has before that Paul Ziegler was "the best defensive end anywhere around," yet did not get picked to any All-Star.

The Princess Anne Madrigal Singers, directed by Clark Graves, entertained at the banquet. The Cavalier cheerleaders (co-captained this year by Nancy Harris and Marilyn Tomko) received honor certificates. They were introduced by their adviser, Mrs. Doris French.

Ft. Story Tea Attracts Crowd

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--It was the annual Christmas Tea hosted by the Ft. Story Officers Wives Club, but officers wives from all services were in attendance last Thursday afternoon at the Officer's Club.

The decorations were lovely from the white puffs of tulle and gold cherubs on the walls to the center table which was decorated with red cloth, silver candelabra and red carnations. A fire in the fireplace added just the right Christmas touch.

Mrs. Thomas D. Emery and Mrs. Kenneth Blunt, Officers Wives Club president, greeted guests. Mrs. W.N. Redding from Ft. Eustis also attended the tea but did not stand in the receiving line because of a recent illness.

Among the guests were Mrs. Lloyd M. Mustin, Mrs. Albert K. Earnest, Mrs. Arthur Lacouture, Mrs. Eugene W. Allen, Mrs. Edward E. Lindsay and Mrs. C.E. Adams. Other guests from Ft. Eustis included Mrs. I. Thomasson, Mrs. R.W. Aronson and Mrs. Joseph E. Hend-

Transfer Puts Woman in Antique Business

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Barbara (Mrs. Robert B. Jr.) Brothers of Kingston unintentionally became the proprietor of an antique shop.

A friend of hers had planned to open one. Then the friend's husband was transferred to Germany. Rather than send back all the antiques that had been collected, Barbara became a partner in the business. Her friend now is buying antiques in Germany and sending them to Barbara for the shop.

The shop, open less than a month, is called Hour Place and is located in a building at 220 Great Neck Road behind Seay Company, Inc.

Barbara, the mother of six, ranging in age from two to fifteen, says she "needed a change."

Clocks of various sizes and shapes line three walls of the shop. Among her "choice" items Barbara has a 110-year-old reproduction of a Louis XVI living room suite. Although most of her antiques are from Germany, many of them are Early American.

"When we were stationed in Germany (Her husband is retired from the army,) all I bought were things for myself," says Barbara regretfully. "I never imagined I would be going into the antique business."

She said that German women now are being warned on television not to sell antiques to Americans because the demand is so great that the country is being drained of its heritage.

Although they are not antiques, Barbara has some very attractive hand-carved chess sets which an elderly German man makes for her.

Among her Early American pieces are several lunch pails

DAR Members Think of Others

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Christmas music, Christmas packages, and Christmas decorations were featured as the Princess Anne County Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution had their Christmas luncheon Dec. 9 at the Ft. Story Officers Club.

Mrs. Charles Barton was in charge of the gifts for the hospital.

The program was provided by Dwight Moore, who sang, accompanied on the piano by his wife.

Decorations were strings of red candle lights and gold packages in the middle of the tables surrounded by red pyracantha and pine. On the head table were a lighted star, reindeer and tiny Revolutionary soldiers. Mrs. E. Fletcher Bryant Sr., chapter regent, crocheted little baskets dipped in sugar water to hold mints. Mrs. Owen J. Moore Jr., Mrs. Brandon Booker and Miss Ruth Ford were in charge of decorations.

Guests at the meeting included Mrs. William Billmeyer, Mrs. William Hoebe, Mrs. Margaret Gregory and Mrs. Harrison Trice.

Founder's Home to Be Open

Members of the Marion Crosby Garden Club are working hard preparing for the Christmas open house they will have from 4 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16 and from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday at the home of the late Dr. and Mrs. Marion Crosby at 7909 N. Shore Rd.

Twelve rooms of the house will be decorated plus an outside patio. A highlight will be a live

Christmas tree decorated with more than 1,000 ornaments which will reach three stories, encircled by an open staircase.

The club was named for Mrs. Crosby, who organized the club. Members live in Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Hampton and Portsmouth. Members must have attended Flower Show School to be eligible for membership.

Mrs. Malcolm H. Todd Jr. is chairman of the open house. Mrs. M.H. Keller is co-chairman and Mrs. Arthur H. Gallagher and Mrs. Woodrow Dixon of Virginia Beach are serving on the committee.

Mrs. J.H. Moessner, daughter of the Crosbys, will be hostess.

A donation of 75 cents will be asked. All proceeds will go to charity.

Banana Bread 'Goop' Plagues Caller

It's too late now to help the poor woman who called last week, but the recipe for banana bread that appeared in the paper about a month ago should have included two cups of flour.

My apologies to the distressed woman and to anyone else who ran into the same problem. She called early one morning, sounding slightly desperate, saying that she had clipped the recipe and saved it for holiday entertaining.

She was having guests in that very night, and all she had for dessert was a bowl full of "goop." Anybody for banana pudding?

Now I would like to offer a recipe which I have never seen published anywhere which, I think, is excellent for the holidays--any other time too. It is one of my mother's, and I have no idea where she got it. It is for gum drop cookies--just be sure and take out the licorice.

GUM DROP COOKIES

- 4 eggs well beaten
- 2 cups flour
- 2 cups brown sugar in 1 teas. water
- 1 cup gum drops cut up
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 teas. vanilla

Mix together, stir. Spread fairly thin on a greased baking sheet which has a 1/2 inch side all the way around. Cook in a slow oven (325 degrees) until a straw comes out clean when stuck in mixture. Let cool slightly. Cut into oblong block fingers. Shake in a bag of powdered sugar.

P.S. It's much easier to cut the gumdrops if you use scissors and dip them in cold water to keep them from sticking.

Tom Brothers, 2, says he prefers cookies to clocks.

Ideas 'Liven' Egg Nog

Can you imagine a holiday season without eggnog? This tasty dairy drink has become as much a traditional part of Christmas as Santa Claus and mistletoe. You probably know that eggnog can be served topped with nutmeg and with or without the "lift" of holiday spirits. But did you know that the original recipe was brought to this country from England nearly 300 years ago?

Entertaining can be as easy as pouring dairy eggnog right from the carton into a capacious punch bowl, then floating generous scoops of lime sherbert on top. The tangy, lime flavor provides a delightful taste contrast to rich eggnog. It's a dessert and beverage all-in-one. And as the green sherbert melts it will chill the nog and look as good as it tastes. Have dainty cookies to serve with the punch and more eggnog ready-to-go in the refrigerator.

Then there's Chocolate Eggnog which looks much like cocoa but tastes even better. Serve it steaming hot together with miniature marshmallows and a dash of nutmeg for color and spice. Chocolate Eggnog bids the cold and hungry Carolers a cherry "Welcome home!"

All you have to do is dilute a quart of dairy eggnog with 2 cups of milk, then add 1/2 cup of chocolate syrup. Mix thoroughly and heat to a simmering. If you own a carafe, so much the better.

You can serve your eggnog and eat it too, if you serve delicately light and flavorsome rum puddings during the holidays just as they do in Scandinavia.

This recipe for Danish Rum Pudding is every bite as good as the traditional one. Frozen red raspberries make a refreshing sauce for this pudding.

Spooned cool over the chilled pudding it's a treat you can serve for a holiday dessert or snack.

DANISH RUM PUDDING

6 servings

- 6 custard cups, 5-ounce each
 - 1 T. (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
 - 1/4 c. water
 - 2 c. dairy eggnog
 - 1/4 c. sugar
 - 1 teas. rum extract
 - 1 c. whipping cream, whipped
- Sprinkle gelatin over water to soften. In a 1-qt. saucepan warm eggnog, sugar and softened gelatin over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin and sugar are dissolved. Cool. Blend in rum extract. Fold whipped cream into eggnog mixture. Divide into custard cups and chill several hours or overnight. Unmold and serve with Raspberry Sauce.

RASPBERRY SAUCE

- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed
 - 1/2 c. currant jelly
 - 1 T. cornstarch
 - 1 T. butter
 - 1/4 c. orange juice
1. In a 1-qt. saucepan heat together 3/4 c. raspberries and jelly until simmering. Mix cornstarch with remaining raspberries; add to hot mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes. Remove from heat; stir in butter until melted. Cool. Add orange juice. Chill. Serve over ice cream or Danish Rum Pudding.
- If you prefer cake, how about this Angel Food Chocolate Eggnog Cake.

Any left over choco-eggnog cake can be wrapped in protective paper and frozen. Or, make two cakes, storing one away for the time when unexpected guests drop in and you need a fancy holiday dessert in a hurry.

ANGEL FOOD CHOCOLATE EGGNOG CAKE

Spring form pan, 9-inch

- 1 baked chocolate angel food cake
- 2 c. dairy eggnog
- 1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 T. (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 c. milk
- 1 c. whipping cream, whipped

In a saucepan, over low heat stirring constantly, bring eggnog almost to a simmering temperature. Add chocolate pieces and stir until melted. Soften gelatin in milk. Stir into eggnog until thoroughly dissolved. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in whipped cream. Cut 8 pieces of cake about the size of lady fingers and stand around the sides of pan at even intervals. Slice angel food cake into strips of cake 1/2 inch thick. Line the bottom of spring form pan with a layer of cake which will be 1/2 inch thick. Pour gelatin mixture over the bottom layer of cake. Alternate layers of cake and filling ending with a thin covering of filling on top. Refrigerate until set. Remove side of pan. Decorate around the top of cake with Eggnog Icing. Also spread icing down the sides between the chocolate angel cake slices.

EGGNOG ICING

- 2 T. butter
 - 1/4 c. dairy eggnog
 - 3 c. sifted confectioners sugar
- Few drops lemon extract
Nutmeg

In a mixing bowl cream butter. Add eggnog. Blend in sugar until icing is of spreading consistency. Add lemon extract. Decorate chocolate eggnog refrigerator cake. Sprinkle nutmeg lightly on icing.

Lady Shriners Help Children

Children at the Shriner's Burns Hospital in Greenville, South Carolina, will soon be getting Sunshine Offering gifts from members of the Ladies Oriental Shrine who live in Virginia Beach and neighboring communities.

Members of Zuleika Court No. 35, Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America, presented nearly 80 gifts for children to Lady Gladys Knowles of Toronto, Canada, when she visited with Zuleika Court last week.

A banquet was held at Browne's Restaurant on Little Creek Road in Norfolk, and a number of knobbies of Khedive Temple attended. A full ceremonial Grand Visitation was next day, December 6, at the Pythian Castle, on Princess Anne Road.

Those at the Grand Visitation recited the Universal Pledge to the Flag and sang "Bless Be the Tie that Binds."

The Sunshine Offering was in addition to some checks which Zuleika Court presented to Lady Knowles for the Burns Hospital at Cincinnati, Ohio. The money was raised through the sale of souvenir programs for the Shrine Bowl football game at Foreman Field on November 11.

The Patrol unit of Zuleika Court is now selling candy and Christmas cards, and the Band is preparing the Christmas stocking.

Synonymous with Christmas and the Christmas season are the boughs of evergreens and holly, and the Christmas tree itself. Many of us usually get our trees and other greenery too early; this makes them very dry through a great part of the holiday period.

To make your Christmas greens and Christmas trees last longer and prevent fire, mix 4 teaspoons of Chlorox or Chlorinated household bleach; 4 tablespoons of micronized iron that is sold at stores selling gardening supplies, and 2 cups of light syrup. Put it all into one gallon of boiling water. Saw at least one inch off the trunk of the tree, and smash the sawed end with a hammer to crush the fibers. Insert the trunk in a basin-type holder, and fill it with the iron-bleach-syrup and water solution. As the solution is absorbed by the tree, refill the container with warm water.

6th Grades Hear Symphony

An estimated 3,400 sixth grade students from all of Virginia Beach's public schools traveled to the Norfolk City Arena on Wednesday, Dec. 13, for a special concert by the Norfolk Symphony.

This was the first of what James E. Ackels Jr., public school music co-ordinator, hopes will become an annual event. The concert was sponsored by the Old Dominion College Symphony Council and arranged by Mrs. Emma W. Halston, director of the local Cultural Enrichment Program in the public schools.

The program included not only music, but explanations, comments and demonstrations.

The program included: "Es-pa-na Rhapsody", by Chabrier; Prelude to Act III of "Lohengrin", by Wagner; "L'Arlesienne, Suite No. 1, by Bizet; the "Nut-cracker" battle scene by Tchaikovsky, a percussion number and demonstration by Lindberg, a member of the symphony who wrote the number for the demonstration; the fourth movement of Symphony Number Two, by Sibelius, and Victory at Sea, by Rogers.

Shops for the Ladies and Their Daughters

By Mary Wright

Wives who are already finger-weary from wrapping Christmas gifts for immediate family and relatives would doubtless shudder if they happened to glimpse a small room in the rear of the Little Creek Amphibious Base Country Store.

The walls of the room are stacked high with games and tea sets and Teddy bears—only a part of the 3,000 or so gifts that the Little Creek Chief Petty Officers' Wives Club will be wrapping before Christmas.

Mrs. Lyla Gomez, supervisor of the Country Store, explained that every year many of the ships docked at Little Creek have Christmas parties—either on board or at one of the base's club's—for children of the ship's personnel. Gift orders for the parties are handled through the base exchange by Mrs. Gomez.

A standing agreement between the exchange and the CPO wives' club provides that the wives receive a per centage of each gift wrapped for their treasury. One of the club's chief money-making projects, the wrapping resulted last year in a $125

Save Spices. Not Pennies

There's a bit of the string-saver in most of us. This penny-wise, pound-foolish fable shows up in many little ways. A good example in the kitchen is hanging on to tag-ends of spices and herbs which have been on the shelf so long that they have lost their true flavor, their finest aroma.

With the holiday season approaching, this is a good time to check your spices. Give them the sniff test. No matter how old they are, you'll probably find the remnants of aroma, but this is deceptive.

To do their magical flavoring job, spices must be fresh and strong. As a test, try this: If you're low in supply on one particular spice, buy a new container, but save the old until you've had a chance to compare them. Check the smell of the older one, then the new stock and you'll never again forget to keep your spices "up to sniff."

Once you've a fine new supply, take good care of your spices. Close containers promptly after each use. Store them away from oven heat and direct sunlight.

Spices today are truly inexpensive, considering how far they must travel to reach you, and how far they stretch once they are yours. The pepper you use on your tossed salad costs a fraction of a cent, but can make a million-dollar difference in the demand for second-helpings. The sprinkling of fresh nutmeg on your holiday eggnog costs only a few mills. Herbs for your turkey stuffing cost a very small fraction of the price of your bird, but their tantalizing essences prompt your guests to say, "M-M-M, this is excellent."

donation to TARC, the Tidewater Association for Retarded Children. The recipient charity of this year's profits has not yet been decided.

Approximately 20 ships are having Christmas parties this season, Mrs. Gomez said, involving about 3,000 children.

The Little Creek Exchange not only handles gifts for parties for children of the ships' companies, but gifts for parties given by Little Creek ships at orphanages both here and overseas. There have been no orders for gifts to go overseas so far this year, Mrs. Gomez added. But in the past four years, she has had the responsibility of filling gift orders destined for children in Italy or France.

A big problem here, she said, was language. The children's native language automatically ruled out any toys or games that required reading and understanding English.

Christmas orders for ship parties usually begin arriving as early as May, Mrs. Gomez went on, and continue to come in until a few days before the holiday itself. She said that, as far as she knows, the Little Creek exchange is the only one in the area to offer this order-filling service to ships.

Aside from wrapping gifts at the Country Store, Little Creek CPO wives have been working concurrently on two other projects.

They collected over 150 items for two Thanksgiving baskets which were given to the base chaplains' office for distribution, said Mrs. S.H. McCarroll, president of the club. The more expensive food stuff to complete the baskets (turkeys, stuffing) was donated from the club's treasury.

One of the club's newest projects is collecting trading stamps to purchase toys for St. Mary's Home, a children's orphanage, at Norfolk.

AT OCEANA Five-hundred hand-made tissue roses; in tints of pink and gold, will be the decorative theme at a formal dinner-dance for NAS Oceana station officers and their wives Dec. 15 at the Oceana Officers' Club.

The social hour will begin at 7 p.m., dinner at 8.

Entertainment for the evening, consisting of a Santa Claus who will be on hand to award door-prizes, was arranged by Mrs. Polly White. Mrs. Carolyn Blair and Mrs. Nita Davis were responsible for mailing invitations.

In charge of decorations, or rose-making, for the party are Mrs. Margaret Dean and Mrs. Deedee French.

Mrs. Dean explained that the decorations will include two small Christmas trees of pink and gold paper roses on each table, ivy trails, with more woman-made roses attached with wire, will run the length of the tables. Styrofoam balls covered with still more of the roses will be hung over the bar.

Churches Help Families Have a Happier Christmas

KEMPSVILLE BOROUGH-- "Operation Compassion" may make the difference between hope and hopelessness for two families whose home recently was destroyed by fire in the Kempsville area. Four of their children died in the fire.

"Operation Compassion" is a joint project of five churches to "help the families become re-established." The churches are collecting clothing, furniture, food and money for the victims of the fire. Taking part are Community Methodist Church, Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Kempsville Baptist Church, Kempsville Presbyterian Church and Morning Star Baptist Church.

Only a blackened shell remains of what was the two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smiley and their four children, and Mr. and Mrs. James Jones Hill and their two children.

Mrs. Smiley reportedly was taking care of the children and the other adults were working when the fire broke out. She managed to save her four-year-old daughter by throwing her out through a window. The other children reportedly were trapped upstairs when the staircase collapsed. Mrs. Smiley was burned trying to rescue them. The Hill's 10-year-old son was in school at the time.

Although Hill and Mrs. Smiley are brother and sister, they plan to establish separate homes now, but have not decided where.

"In addition to material goods, the families are in need of money to help get re-established and to buy things not given to them," said the Rev. John W. Morrison of Community Methodist Church. Four of the ministers are making radio appeals on Radio Station WVAB, which is donating the time as a public service. The appeals will be repeated until Christmas.

"Operation Compassion" is working with the Virginia Beach Welfare Department to coordinate the efforts of all for the families, Rev. Morrison said.

"The families are very appreciative of everything that's been done," he said.

Smiley is a construction worker, and Hill drives a produce truck.

Dr. Marshall Morrison, chairman of the welfare committee at Community Methodist Church, is chairman of "Operation Compassion." Contributions may be taken to the church at 1060 Kempsville Rd., Virginia Beach (not the 1060 Kempsville Rd. in Norfolk), or call 420-1865.

Wedgewood Production Is for Family Fun

Every year during the holiday season, Wedgewood Dinner Theatre in Toano presents a nice piece of nostalgic, sentimental family-type entertainment. This year's entry is "Meet Me in St. Louis," the story of one family in St. Louis in 1904--just prior to the opening of the World's Fair.

The play itself is not a great one, although it is a pleasant description of America at the turn of the century. The Wedgewood production is a well-balanced one and is thoroughly enjoyable. This marks director Frank Staroba's last production at Wedgewood. His talents will be sorely missed. He has paced the current play extremely well, and has created an overall cast interplay that is highly deserving of praise.

The action revolves around the Smith family - Mother, Father, four daughters and a son. Two of the girls and the son are old enough to be interested greatly in the opposite sex, thus offering several subplots. The other two girls are pre-teen and interested only in devilment and getting into every imaginable type of trouble.

The head of the house is about to be transferred by his company to the New York office. How this news affects everyone in the family and their acquaintances both individually and collectively occupies the rest of the delightful plot.

Don Vest plays the harassed businessman nicely, handling well his wife (whom he is obviously a little afraid of) and the shenanigans of his daughters.

As the mother, Claudine Iddings adds another to her list of outstanding character roles. Her patience with her girls and her apparent feelings of dismay at her husband's assignment are beautifully performed.

Ginger Montague, as the eldest daughter, turns in a workmanlike performance, being the pivotal character in the action. This is by far the best thing Miss Montague has done at Wedgewood. Sherri Reid, next oldest sister, has come up with a pleasing characterization far different from her older sister's, but one which complements it. Where Miss Montague is more settled, Mrs. Reid is more flighty.

But it is the two younger sisters, Debbie Legum and Christine Hamilton, who steal the hearts of the audience, if not the show. Miss Hamilton has fine comedy timing, and Miss Legum has great promise as a rising comedienne.

Paul Iddings does a nice job of underplay in the role of Grandpa, and Ron Reid also turns in a nice vignette role. Roby Brown is excellent as the father's pompous boss, and Carolee Silcox portrays the old family maid to perfection.

Newcomer Roddy Brown, as the only son, needs to work on his accent a bit, but otherwise is a good performer. Karen Devitt, Billie Jean Jager, David Page, Larry Spell, Joyce Hill and Mike Cline round out the large cast with many a weak link.

The play may not go down in history, but the Wedgewood production is good holiday fun for the whole family.

Opportunity Is in Ocean, Says Space Executive

NEW YORK--(HK)--Oceanography in the 1970's will capture men's imaginations, and industry's and government's dollars, the way aerospace has done in the 1960's, according to M. Lee Rice, a man who has spent a major part of his business life as a top executive in the aerospace industry.

Rice, who holds 10 patents in the field of aerospace technology, is now senior vice president of Ogden Corporation, a multimanagerment operating company with interests in advanced technologies, transportation systems and other basic industries. At a recent businessmen's seminar on oceanography here, he predicted that government and industry will be spending about $5-billion on ocean exploration and exploitation by 1975, but that this will not happen automatically.

"It took the existence of Russian intercontinental ballistic missiles in the mid-1950's to stimulate this country to put the necessary money--some $6 billion a year--for researching, developing and producing missiles," Rice said. "It will take either a national emergency or the emergence of imaginative national leadership to educate the public to the necessity of drawing from the ocean the fabulous wealth of food, minerals and other resources needed by the world's exploding population."

Because the need and opportunity are there, Rice said he was confident that "ambitious, thinking ahead young men and women will respond, and so will those firms, such as Ogden, whose corporate growth is tied to anticipating and fulfilling the basic needs of people."

The speaker noted that his company's subsidiary, Ogden Technology Laboratories, began as an aerospace equipment testing firm but a growing proportion of its work is in developing and testing deep-sea submergence equipment--"just as Scott Carpenter, one of the pioneer astronauts, has now become an aquanaut, one of the leading undersea explorers," Rice said.

Officers Elected

CREEDS--The Creeds, Princess Anne and Kempsville Ruritan clubs have elected officers for 1968, and at least two of them are having installation services before the first of 1968.

The Creeds Ruritan Club installed officers Tuesday, December 12. The officers are George Bryan, president; Ralph L. Frost, vice president; Lankford D. Malbone, secretary, and Gerald Freeman, treasurer.

Kempsville Ruritan Club will install its elected officers on Tuesday, December 19. E. Leslie Cox is new president, Phillip Meekins is vice president, Edwin Charles is secretary, and Gerald W. Sloan is treasurer.

Officers of the Princess Anne Ruritan Club for the new year are Robert P. Stenzhorn, president; Homer L. Cunningham, vice president; E. Bruce McGuire, secretary, and Paul N. Sutton, treasurer.

Tickets Aren't Tickets, Just Friendly Reminders

Reminders for persons to lock their cars while shopping have been placed on windshields of cars, and "Lock Your Car" stickers have been put on parking meters in the Beach Borough.

"Last year 40 per cent of all cars stolen in Virginia Beach last year, Chief Moore said his department is intensifying its efforts to prevent auto theft. The "Lock Your Car" campaign is part of this effort.

Virginia Beach police officers and members of the Virginia Beach Independent Insurance Agents Association and the Tidewater Stock Insurance Association recently found in a survey that 50 per cent of the cars, parked in a number of shopping areas were left unlocked, according to Police Chief James E. Moore. He said the men checked a total of 4,272 cars in a "Lock Your Car" tour designed to illustrate how many local motorists leave their autos unlocked and provide an easy target for auto thieves.

Of the 2,228 cars left unlocked in Virginia Beach during the survey period, 120 of them (or 5 per cent), had keys in the ignition, on an ordinary day.

"This inspection served to confirm our opinion that too many Virginia Beach motorists are contributing to the auto theft problem by leaving their autos and ignitions unlocked," Chief Moore said.

In addition to placing leaflets on the windshields of the 4,272 cars found unlocked, the officers and campaign officials placed posters throughout Virginia Beach, warning motorists of the invitation which an unlocked auto presents to an auto thief.

Fire Council Reminiscences On 20-Year's History

Monday night's 20th anniversary meeting of the Virginia Beach Fire Council was truly a blending of "the old and the new."

Council President Ivan Mapp called the meeting to order in the new Windsor Woods fire station, located near Rosemont Road and on Plaza Trail, in Lynnhaven Borough. Those in attendance included many who have played important roles in the history of the Fire Council.

Mapp paid public tribute to Sidney S. Kellam for his "original idea for the Council", to "Jimmie" Darden, for his work through city council at the time of the fire council's beginning, and to Mayor Frank A. Dusch for his continuing support of the volunteer fire units of the city.

Mayor Dusch, commenting on the passing of 20 years and the developing of volunteer fire units, said "I consider myself a part of the volunteer fire department. I've noticed a great many changes over the years, and I say our fire departments are second to none."

Other dignitaries on hand for the celebration included City Councilman Dewey Simmons, and Carrol Clough, a member of the former Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors at the time the Fire Council was formed in 1947. Clough said, he is tickled to death with the new Windsor Woods building. With Christmas only a couple of weeks away, I'm glad I could see this building in time for Christmas, "Clough said."

"Old Timers" who gathered to mark the anniversary included the Ocean Park Volunteer's Chief George Lyon, one of the first representatives on the council, "Rudy" Rudishauser, who came here from East Ocean View, "Jimmie" Darden, Courthouse Fire Chief Robert Lee and the Ocean Park Volunteers' President E. F. Caldwell.

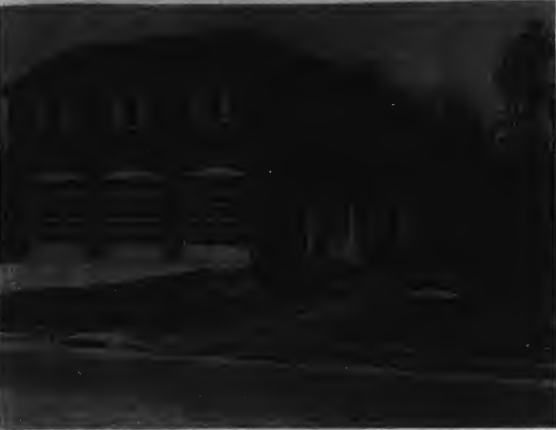

Special guests for the evening included two honorary members of the Fire Council. They are Chief Kelly Davis of the Naval Amphibious Base, Fire Department and former Norfolk Fire Chief Joe Lewis. A Norfolk fire captain, Christy Eugene, was also recognized for his support of the council.

In presiding over the meeting, Mapp, on a motion from the floor, dispensed with the usual business of the meeting, and adjourned it to allow all present to partake of a special "20th Anniversary" cake, which was promptly cut by Mayor Frank Dusch, who proceeded to assist in serving the first slices.

Station Replaces Garage in Plaza

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--For the past several weeks, men of the Princess Anne Plaza Volunteer Fire and Rescue company have been devoting their spare time to getting their new "home" ready for occupancy.

The unit is moving from its old headquarters, on Rosemont Road, to the new Windsor Woods Fire Station, near the Beach Expressway interchange with Rosemont Road.

Formed in March of 1962, the Plaza unit today has a strength of 56 men. It initially contained a membership of 27 men. Its establishment was the result of a talk presented during a civic club meeting by Len Morrell, a homeowner of the Plaza area. He pointed out the need for fire protection.

Several interested citizens met to discuss the feasibility of such a unit, with the result of Morrell being appointed Fire Chief of the unit. And the recruitment of men got underway. A charter for the unit was obtained from Virginia state officials in May of 1962, and a public fund drive was started to finance construction of the "old" headquarters building, which was completed in July of that year.

The first piece of equipment was obtained through public fund drives by men of the unit, and through the cooperation of the Ladies Auxiliary. This consisted of a "pumper" engine.

While men of the Princess

Anne Plaza "volunteers", like similar other units in the city, stand ready to assist anywhere in Virginia Beach, they primarily are concerned with protecting the property and residents of Princess Anne Plaza, Windsor Woods, Carriage Hill, Brookwood, and Malibu.

Every man joining the unit is thoroughly trained in fighting fires of various types, emergency rescue work, and/or medical aid. The unit performs double duty in those fields.

Present officers of the Plaza unit include B.E. (Red) Todd as "Chief", an office he has held since January of 1963; Lorin Lukey, first assistant; Roger Hempel, second assistant; Ray Robinson, president; and Dave Becherer, vice president.

The new Windsor Woods headquarters building, financed by a loan from the city government, had its beginning in 1963. At that time, the need for a better headquarters facility was discussed with James G. Darden, who then represented Lynnhaven Borough. This new, modern building not only offers ample space for housing fire and rescue equipment, but is complete with livable quarters, kitchen facilities, and a recreation room.

When Chief Todd was asked by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN about future goals of the Plaza volunteers, he replied "One of our main goals right now is getting down to the routine of working out of a fire house, rather than a two car garage". Then, as his voice reflected a sentimental mood, Todd added, "That two car garage has certainly served its purpose".

Hair Spray For Men?

Men's hair-dos are getting longer, and women's tempers are getting shorter. Why? Because men are sneak-using the hair spray the gals leave around the house.

Even men with very little top-side are using the wife's hair spray to control those precious strands.

Now there's joy ahead for the man who thought he had everything: a new hair spray just for him. Called Ship Shape, it's a boon for the hapless male whose hair is exposed to the whole smogclogged universe, and the hat wearing male will welcome it as well, because the greaseless spray won't stick-up his hat band.

It's the latest in a grooming aid revolution that's closing the gender gap as well as the generation gap. What women knew all along has finally dawned on men! The college-bound man-in-a-hurry and the chairman of the board are both using such aids as hair spray to keep ship-shape through critical hours without need for recomb-ing.

And what woman wouldn't prefer a groovy, well-groomed mate with spice-scented locks? (NP Features) 185,200 Virginia families bank on a better life with First & Merchants.

So can you.

Mrs. Hanney Retires, Not to Relax

BEACH BOROUGH--Mrs. Margaret Nimmo Hanney will retire from First and Merchants National Bank, Beach Borough Branch, on Jan. 1 of 1968 after more than 20 years with the bank.

She is assistant cashier and an assistant vice president. Although she is planning to travel after her retirement, she is not looking forward to a life of inactivity. "I can't stay home and keep house," she said. "I've worked since I was 18. Besides, I like people too much."

A native of Princess Anne County, her great-grandmother donated the land for Nimmo Methodist Church near Princess Anne Court House. She graduated from the old Oceana High School.

Her first employment was as a file clerk at the former Merchants and Mechanics Bank in Norfolk. Then she worked for the clearing association, serving all the Norfolk banks. Later she worked for Virginia National Bank and Colonial Oil Company.

In 1947 she went to work for First and Merchants as a book-keeper and became head bookkeeper in 1950. Mrs. Hanney became assistant cashier in 1952, and assistant vice president in 1962.

A widow, she lives on Holly Point Road. She has two sisters.

Shorter Work Days, Less Dirt Predicted

By the year 2000, both the housewives' and the breadwinners' work will be reduced significantly.

There will be no dirt or smog; people will live 200 and 300 miles from the cities and commute daily; and the head of the house will devote only four or five hours a day to his job.

These predictions are made by Sidney Epstein, president, A. Epstein and Sons, Inc., Chicago-based international firm of engineers and architects. They are logical extensions of trends already emerging.

For example, new materials and techniques will eliminate dirt automatically, he explains. Construction materials will receive negative static charges to repel dirt while positive-charg-ings will pick up and deliver dust directly to atomic disposal units. Building exteriors of plastic, aluminum, stainless steel or glass will be smooth non-oxidizing, and non-dust collecting.

High speed ground transportation will be a reality by the 21st century, making it easy and commonplace for people to live in "suburbs" as far from cities as 200 or 300 miles. They will commute to the cities, however, because industry will have returned there to tap the more abundant labor force.

And, by 2000 A.D., fewer people will be performing routine duties in factories. Instead, automation will relieve the majority of personnel for administration, engineering and product design. Automation also will bring about a shortened work day of four or five hours. This will mean that employees will no longer lunch during the work day, but on their personal time.

Another effect of advancing technology in this field will be the changing concept of lighting and heating.

Epstein points out that by 2000, the walls of buildings will take over these functions, becoming more than enclosures to contain conditioned climates. The walls will be made of new plastic-like materials that will bring in sunlight during the day and radiate artificial light in the evening. The walls also will control temperature with built-in radiation devices.

Gyms Improve Seating

MILWAUKEE--(H-K)--Many fans flocking to indoor sports events this winter will find that their local gymnasium, once suitable for little more than basketball games and school proms, has suddenly become a multi-ringed arena for all seasons.

Due to a dynamic new concept in stadium seating, gymnasium stationary bleachers limited their capacity solely to basketball can now be transformed overnight to harbor hockey, wrestling matches, gymnastics, concerts, exhibitions or even trade shows.

The secret behind this gymnasium face lifting is mechanized seating. From Seattle to Kentucky, school officials and coliseum directors are scrapping stationary wooden bleachers and even manually-operated portable seats in favor of fully automated, "telescopic" chair riser sections.

Manufactured by the Safway Steel Products Company here, these tubular steel riser sections operate like a mechanized deck of playing cards. When needed for a game, the seats automatically slide forward, row by row, extending to a full-sized bleacher section.

"Once the game is over, each section rapidly retracts into an upright 'deck' once again," said Richard Vanderkief, president of Safway, a division of the "Automatic" Sprinkler Corporation of America. Mounted on wheel bases, each hefty section can then be carted away by tractor and stored outside the gymnasium area.

"Moreover, the innate mobility of this concept allows stadium officials to shuffle seating arrangements to accommodate any indoor sport or exhibition within a matter of hours." Some typical installations show how valuable this concept can be:

--"Automatic" recently designed and installed 3,789 telescopic chair risers for the Seattle Coliseum, a popular exhibition site. A few workmen can now erect or dismantle the entire lower level of the Coliseum in one working day. This job formerly required a week with conventional bleachers.

--At Western Kentucky State University, one of the nation's most avid indoor sports schools, Safway has installed 4,080 seats using an imaginative reverse folding arrangement. All units fold from back to front at this gym, exposing areas normally covered by the bleachers for use in other sporting events when the basketball team is on the road.

--At the Centennial Coliseum, in Reno, Nev., "Automatic" Sprinkler provided 6,972 automated seats for the main floor and balcony. This customized plan leaves the main floor open for events requiring large areas, such as trade shows, yet provides ready access to almost 7,000 seats for sporting events.

A Pattern for Living

Christmas is more than a day at the end of the year,
More than a season of joy and good cheer,
Christmas is really God's pattern for living
To be followed all year by unselfish giving. . .

For the holiday season
awakens good cheer
And draws us closer to those we hold dear,
And we open our hearts and find it is GOOD
To live among men
AS WE ALWAYS SHOULD. . .

But as soon as the tinsel is stripped from the tree
The spirit of Christmas fades silently
Into the background of daily routine
And is lost in the whirl of life's busy scene.

And all unawares
we miss and forego
The greatest blessing that mankind can know
For if we lived Christmas each day, as we should,
And made it our aim to always do good,

We'd find the lost key to meaningful living That comes not from GETTING, but from unselfish GIVING. . .
And we'd know the great joy
OF PEACE UPON EARTH
Which was the real purpose of the Savior's birth,

For in the GLAD TIDINGS of the first Christmas night
God showed man
and THE LIGHT!

Shown is an architect's rendering of the planned Plaza Junior High School which is to open in September, 1969. The school will be built in Princess Anne Plaza for 1,400 eighth and ninth grade students.

The sign in the middle - The one that says "No Left Turn" - is the one that goes when new lanes and signals are finished at Rosemont Road and the Boulevard.

Deadline Set for Speeders On Virginia Beach Boulevard

The reduction of speed limits on Virginia Beach Boulevard to a maximum of 45 mph eastward from the Norfolk Cityline is about to be enforced, and according to Captain George K. Bryan, Director of the Virginia Beach Police Traffic Bureau, that enforcement will be rigid. "We'll give the general public a possible two weeks to get used to it, then start rigid enforcement," said Bryan. "The deadline now set is December 30 for the beginning of summons."

Bryan added that traffic tickets will be given now to anyone greatly exceeding the posted speed limit, as in the past. The reduced speed limit, which went into effect on December 15, was made possible by the opening of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway. According to Reeves Johnson, Chief of the Traffic Safety Division, Norfolk reduced the speed limit on its part of the Boulevard to 45 mph three years ago, but action on the Virginia Beach portion was withheld to help the traffic move a little faster.

"But we were always worried, and now the reduced speed reduces the potential severity of any automobile accident," said Johnson. "And drivers who wish to go a little faster can travel the new Expressway without too much trouble."

While plans for new turn lanes and new traffic signals on the Boulevard move steadily ahead, Johnson says the city is adopting a "wait and see" attitude on any new regulations or needs of the road.

"We are waiting until people get used to using the Expressway," he said. It hasn't leveled off yet and we can't get a true picture of what effect the new road has had on traffic with all the Christmas shoppers on the streets."

Meanwhile work is progressing rapidly on two major projects involving Virginia Beach Boulevard. Independence Boulevard is being widened to four-lanes south of the Boulevard to the Expressway. This would have been finished prior to the opening of the toll road, but bad weather forced the delay, according to Johnson. A new traffic signal is being installed at Rosemont Road and left-turn lanes are being added in both directions.

This work will provide another easy entrance from either direction to the Expressway, and the traffic flow will be controlled by electronic equipment, according to demand.

As soon as the Rosemont Road project is completed, construction crews will move to the intersection of Plaza Trail and install a northbound left-turn lane, thus eliminating what has been called the worst traffic hazard in the city. The intersection ranks first in the number of accidents in Virginia Beach.

Additional traffic signals at Little Neck Road and at Constitution Rd. in the months between now and summer are also expected. The light at Constitution will be installed in conjunction with the beginning of the new shopping center to be known as Pembroke East.

This will place three traffic signals relatively close together, but they will be coordinated, according to Johnson.

In the past few years Virginia Beach Boulevard has taken on the face of a city street and has dropped all the characteristics of a highway, and officials are now satisfied that the speed limit had to be lowered and new signals installed for safety.

On Laskin Road, the speed limit has also been lowered to 45 mph eastward to a point just beyond the Regency Apartments. This was done because of the left-turn lane leading into the apartments and the hazard faster traffic would afford, according to Johnson.

But if the motorist is still intent on travelling at 55 mph while heading for the oceanfront, there is a section of Laskin Road between the apartments and Birdneck Road that still allows it. It's only about a mile-and-a-half long, but there are no immediate plans to lower that limit in the near future.

Hatchett Agrees In Part

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett agrees, in part, with S. E. Liles, Jr., president of Tidewater Construction Co., which built the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Liles, in an article for his company publication, outlined several steps which could be taken to improve the volume traffic on the bridge-tunnel. He also laid principal blame for the shortcomings of the span on planning of roads leading to and from the facility.

Hatchett agreed that planning by the State of approach roads had not been farsighted. He said that Northampton, which has become a City street, should have been planned as a limited-access approach, with "over and under" bridges at major intersections. But he added that approaches from the south through Norfolk present far more of a problem than in Virginia Beach.

"Going south," said Hatchett, "it's a big problem getting out of here after you leave Virginia Beach."

Liles also took to task the Tidewater communities which he said had been just sitting back thinking of ways to spend the revenue from the increased business the bridge-tunnel was supposed to bring.

Hatchett did not agree with any indictment of the people of Virginia Beach, but emphasized that better planning by the Highway Department when the span was being considered and built could have prevented many of the problems today.

Liles' remarks are the latest of many in criticism of problems which allegedly are causing part of the bridge-tunnel's current financial difficulties.

Downing Discusses Governorship, Office

"At the present time I am not a candidate for any office. . . but shortly after the first of the year I intend to offer for re-nomination to Congress". Those were the words of First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing of Newport News the day after he told a Peninsula news conference he would be "both flattered and honored if the people of Virginia expressed a desire" for him to serve in that office.

Downing added that he had arranged the conference with reporters to discuss the just-ended 90th Congress, and had a prepared statement about his feelings on the governorship of Virginia, "because I was pretty sure it would come up."

The Congressman's remarks concerning the statehouse came at almost the same time an unheralded meeting was going on in Norfolk that obviously had political overtones with an eye toward Richmond. The meeting was attended by Norfolk State Senator Henry Howell, former Alexandria State Sen. Armistead L. Boothe, and former U.S. ambassador to Australia, William C. Battle.

All three have been mentioned prominently for the State's no. 1 post at one time or another. Although position jockeying is believed to have been the purpose of the meeting, no statements were forthcoming afterward.

Downing laughed and said, "I had no knowledge of that meeting, and I don't think they had any knowledge of what I was going to say."

The City of Virginia Beach is furnishing Downing with an office in the old Municipal Courts Building at Princess a Congressional office as accessible as possible to the citizens," said Downing. "Although I won't be there all the time, there will be competent personnel there for all routine inquiries and to help anyone who wants to see me." The Congressman said that at least one person will be at the office at all times.

When questioned by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN about the session of Congress just ended, Downing said, "I thought the 90th Congress was a constructive Congress, which devoted itself primarily to the national financial dilemma caused by the programs enacted by the 89th and previous sessions of Congress."

He added that this Congress had set guidelines for the future and in light of the present fiscal situation had the courage to cut $6 billion off the budget.

Virginia Beach City Council is taking its Christmas vacation. The next regularly scheduled meeting would fall on Christmas Day, and was therefore cancelled. The following Monday is New Year's Day and another holiday, but Council gets back to work for 1968 on the second Monday in January, the 8th.

Traffic is rolling again through Virginia Beach by way of the toll gates of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Cars Wait in Line To Drive Across Bay

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel reopened to all traffic Sunday after being closed two weeks for repairs, and there was a line of traffic waiting at the south toll plaza in Virginia Beach for the barriers to come down.

The $200 million engineering marvel was closed on Dec. 3 when an unmanned converted barge, the "Mohawk", slammed into the south trestle near the first island, then alternately brushed and bruised several sections in a three-mile stretch before ending its runaway voyage grounded just off Chesapeake Beach.

Investigation into the cause of the costly accident continues, and it will probably be some time before a full report is released, according to one official.

Average time to cross the 17.6 mile bridge-tunnel complex is now about five minutes longer than it was before the accident - or about 28 minutes. The delay is caused by two short sections of one-way traffic in areas where the trestle was hit the hardest. Repairs are continuing in those areas to piling caps, electrical systems and several lamp posts, as well as the trestle sections themselves.

When questioned by the VIR-GINIA BEACH SUN, J. Albert Faber, travel director for the Bridge-Tunnel said, "Complete repairs could take several months. We tried to put a more definite date on this, but there are too many things we are still checking."

The bridge that was hardest hit has been declared completely safe, and J. Clyde Morris, executive director of the Bridge Tunnel, said the accident demonstrated the structural soundness of the facility "beyond the shadow of a doubt."

Repairs were made on a round-the-clock basis after the electrical system was cut and one section of the trestle was pushed nearly four feet out of alignment. Loss of toll revenue alone during the closure has been estimated at $180,000. This does not take into account any loss of revenue to businesses in Virginia Beach or on the Eastern Shore peninsula.

Faber added, "We are very gratified with the flow of traffic. We're open for business, and we need it."

But a joking remark by one of the toll takers who did not wish to be identified probably told the story. He said, "Everyone is so glad to see the crossing reopened they're not even complaining about the price of the tolls."

Referendum Becomes Official

The Court Order officially calling for a massive bond issue in Virginia Beach has been filed in Circuit Court, and the official date of the referendum is now set on Saturday, Jan. 20, 1968. City Council called for the referendum at its last meeting on Dec. 11.

The bulk of the bond issue seeking approval would go to acquiring land for schools, building them and then equipping them. The referendum became a certainty when it was revealed last month that a large amount of money was necessary to keep up with present needs of schools and to meet the ever-increasing demands of the future. With voter approval, schools would get $14,500,000.

An additional $1,170,000 would go toward acquiring and equipping the new Police Precinct in Virginia Beach Borough, and for further development of the Municipal Center at Princess Anne. Another $80,000 would go toward construction of a new library, while $1,150,000 would be earmarked for new

Libel-Slander Suit

Action is pending in Virginia Beach Circuit Court on a $50,000 libel-slander suit against James G. Sadoski, Sr. of Lavender Lane. Police Detective James Wright is seeking compensation for alleged damages resulting from actions of Sadoski. Wright's suit contends Sadoski accused him of obtaining false information by use of threats, illegal entry of a private dwelling, and fabrication of evidence in the August arrest of 19 year old James G. Sadoski, Jr., on charges of disorderly conduct and alleged contribution to delinquency of a minor. Authorities indicated these charges grew out of a disturbance while Detective Wright was investigating a complaint.

Three Charged In Theft Of Copper Wire

Three Virginia Beach men are due to appear in U.S. District Court, in Elizabeth City, N.C., January 29th charged with theft of government property. Thomas J. Jordan, Special Agent in Charge of the Norfolk F.B.I. Office said Elvie R. Bonney, S. Spiegel Drive, James H. Dudley, Dillon Drive, and Larry P. Smith, S. Birdneck Road were charged in theft of copper telephone wires taken from U.S. Coast Guard telephone poles in Currituck County.

Fatal Crash

A two car collision near Jackson, N.C., last Sunday took the life of 23 year old Mrs. Mary R. Marracini of Virginia Beach. Mrs. Marracini's husband, Alvin Marracini Jr., and their 16 month old son Christopher were also injured in the accident, and later admitted to the Portsmouth Naval Hospital.

Rubinger Resigns

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Gerald Rubinger has announced his resignation. Rubinger says he is financially unable to continue in public office, and that he plans to return to private law practice after December 31st.

Command Changes

Cmdr. Robert F. Ferguson, USN, relieved Cmdr. John R. Dewenter Jr., USN, of command of Attack Carrier Air Wing 17 in Change of Command ceremonies last Tuesday at NAS Oceana.

Cmdr. Ferguson, who lives on Goodspeed Road with his wife and daughter (an older daughter is married), served as Acting Commander Attack Carrier Air Wing 5 from May until August this year.

Cmdr. Dewenter assumed command of Attack Carrier Air Wing 17 aboard the USS Forrestal in December, 1966. He will report for duty in the Pentagon.

Gibbs Check Continues

Virginia Beach police are continuing their investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of a 25-year-old woman whose body was found in a water filled ditch Monday night. Authorities identified her as Mrs. Carol J. Dorschel, a Rochester, N.Y. native, who lived in an apartment on Byrd Lane.

Police officials said the body was found in a sewage pipe ditch along Virginia Beach Boulevard at London Bridge by 50-year-old Fred Rose, who was walking to his home following a trip to a nearby shopping center.

Authorities said Mrs. Dorschel had been reported missing a week before discovery of her body. She had failed to report for work at the Pine Tree Inn near South Lynnhaven Road and Virginia Beach Boulevard, and was reported missing at that time.

Authorities ordered the body taken to the Norfolk office of the State Medical Examiner to determine the exact cause of her death. Chief Medical Examiner E. H. Karnitschnig told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN her death was classified as homicide as the result of manual strangulation, and said she had apparently been sexually assaulted. Karnitschnig also said she had been dead for about a week, and that she could have been in the ditch for the same length of time, although workmen in the area installing sewer lines do not believe the body was in the same location the entire time. Karnitschnig said this was based on the body "being partially covered with mud, which would preserve the body tissues".

Criminal Assault Is Apparent Motive

There is speculation the body had been buried in a shallow grave but was washed into the ditch by heavy rains.

Teams of police investigators remained in the field through Tuesday night, and into early Wednesday, following the discovery in search for those who may have been responsible for Mrs. Dorschel's death. While their investigation is continuing, police have not as yet advanced any official motive behind the murder and apparent rape or how her body came to be in the ditch.

Sgt. C. W. Simmons of the Detective Bureau said, "The only motive we can figure now is rape. She was partially nude, and there was evidence of sexual intercourse. Her purse was found so you've got to assume it wasn't robbery because there was still money in it."

Beach Man Shot to Death

Chesapeake police are continuing their investigation into the fatal shooting of Walter E. Carrington of Virginia Beach, yesterday morning.

Officials said Carrington was shot to death in the boiler room of the Crestwood Elementary School, in Chesapeake, where he was employed as custodian. Authorities told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN they took a suspect into custody shortly after the crime, and identified him as Dempsey Worley, for whom no address was given.

Officials said Worley has been released on bond pending court appearance on a charge of murder on Jan. 9, 1968.

Vakos Puts Responsibility Of Crime Prevention on Public

"We must make the public realize it holds a great responsibility in the prevention of crime."

These were the words of Circuit Court Judge George Vakos as featured speaker during the installation of new officers of Princess Anne Lodge #8, Fraternal Order of Police.

Judge Vakos, in addressing nearly two hundred persons who gathered at the F.O.P. Commodore Club in Kempsville Borough for the event, centered his remarks around recent reports showing an increase in the crime rate. Vakos attributed this increase to two factors—apathy and disrespect of the law by individuals.

Pointing out that perhaps apathy for the law is the greater of the two, Vakos expressed his personal concern over the problem. He referred to repeated reports of citizens standing by on streets of cities witnessing attacks on fellow citizens without offering assistance to the victim. Regarding a disrespect of the law, Vakos said, "This takes many forms." To illustrate the degree of disrespect, Vakos said, "Perhaps traffic violations more frequently display disrespect or disregard for the law."

In offering any solution to combat these feelings of apathy and disrespect of the law, Vakos commented, "The first step in correcting this attitude is to show the people they are wrong in feeling this way."

Other guests for the evening included Police Chief James E. Moore, Mayor Frank Desch, and several members of City Council. The Virginia Fraternal Order of Police was represented by Frank Dulling, President of the Virginia State Lodge F.O.P., and Leslie Kitzridge, State President of the F.O.P. Associates.

The highlight of the evening came when Dulling administered the oath of office as well as presenting his emblem of office, to each of those just elected. Those who have been charged with administration of the Princess Anne Lodge for the

While the evening was truly "a policeman's night", the ladies were not overlooked. One of the first official acts performed by Sgt. Seager as the newly elected Lodge president was to introduce several members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Those recently elected to office include Mildred Bordner, Pres.; Peggy Simmons, Vice Pres.; Jacqueline Casey, Sec.; Barbara Terry, Treas.; Jean LaGrotta, Conductor, and Estelle Davis, Trustee.

President Bordner told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN installation of these officers is scheduled for January 13, 1968, during a luncheon meeting at the Shore Drive Inn.

Circuit Court Judge George Vakos was presented with a desk top pen and a calendar set by incoming F.O.P. Lodge President Sgt. Harry Seager Jr.

Magi's Gifts Add To Christmas Customs

Two gifts of the Magi, frankincense and myrrh, come from trees and are part of the story of growing things that have contributed to Christmas custom.

Burning incense is a ritual in many religions and, by Christians, since the fifth century. Frankincense is a hardened resin from the sap of the frankincense tree. Today, incense is made from frankincense, and resin from the spruce fir. Frankincense now comes from the rocky isle of Socotra, off eastern Africa, instead of southern Arabia and Ethiopia where the tree once was held so sacred that only a chosen few were allowed to approach it.

The resin is formed by slashing the tree and allowing the oozing sap to harden. Myrrh comes in a similar manner from a shrub-like tree, related to the frankincense. Such were the second and third Christmas gifts—both from nature's bounty.

The poinsettia has become the flower symbol of Christmas in America. This scarlet-leaved star-shaped tropical flower was discovered in Mexico in 1828 by Dr. Joel Poinsett, our first minister to that country. In Mexico it was a small, wild, unimposing native weed called Flor de la Noche Buena (Flower of the Holy Night). A legend tells of a Mexican girl, heartbroken because she had nothing to offer the Virgin Mary on Christmas Eve. In desperation she pulled some scrawny weeds and placed them at the foot of the statue where they were transformed into scarlet brilliance.

Intensive development of this plant by California growers has produced the flamboyant poinsettia we know today. Within the past few decades it has become America's most popular floral offering at Christmas time. "Deck the halls with boughs of holly..." a medieval carol, is still popular today, as is the use of holly at Christmas. Its shiny leaves and red berries brighten our homes at Christmas time and the leaf design is a favorite motif.

Holly has been called the "holly" tree, but the word is from the Old English "hollen". Revered before the Christian era, its green was a promise of the sun's return. Romans sent holly as a good will token. Druids felt holly ward off evil and they even used syrup made from it as a cure. In the middle ages, Christians in northern Europe gave it new significance as it was hung on doors to show homes in which Christ dwelled; and, at Yuletide, its boughs were favorite decorations for the interiors of homes and churches.

Christmas Plant: Frame It or Feed It!

Is your new plant you received at Christmas already droopy?

Don't be discouraged and don't be too disappointed if it doesn't survive your most tender loving care. The simplest solution is to throw them out when they finish blooming.

However, if you're still determined to keep them for another season of blooming, horticulturists offer these few basic rules to follow.

First of all, don't overwater. Plants in a cold room need less water than those in a warm room. Blooming plants and those with much foliage require more.

All flowering plants need moderately bright light. Those grown at a warm temperature need more than those at cool temperature. A window facing south or west is satisfactory for plants in December and January. With the increase of light and temperature during the spring and summer this location is unsatisfactory, and the plant should be moved or protected.

The best temperature for most plants is about 60 degrees. However, many tropical foliage plants can stand a temperature of 70 degrees. Garages provide a good solution.

For instance, poinsettias should be set in bright light where the air is not too dry. Drafts, too cool or too warm temperatures, atmosphere, improper watering and dim light can cause loss of leaves and flowers.

After the leaves and flowers have fallen off, plants should be stored in a cool (50 degrees), dry, light place until May. Water just enough to keep the roots and stems from drying out excessively.

Be sure it gets no light from sundown to sunup starting around early October and continuing until it comes into bloom.

Azaleas should be kept in a cool spot while in bloom, especially at night. After the danger of frost, the plant can be placed outside.

Cool temperature (50 degrees at night) and maximum light are essential for extended blooming of cyclamen.

Christmas begonia will continue blooming for weeks if bought in full bud and given proper care. Place the plant in bright light, and try to keep it cool at night. To propagate, start cuttings after flowering.

The resulting plants should be cared for in the same way as poinsettia.

Christmas pepper should have good light and cool temperatures. This is an annual and should be discarded when no longer attractive.

Jerusalem cherry needs bright light and cool nights. Keep the soil moist.

Potted chrysanthemums require bright light or full sun to produce full coloration in opening buds. They dry out quickly and should be checked often for watering.

Fireplaces Pose Problem

A big problem during the holiday season is the use of open flames in many homes—logs crackling in the fireplace, candles burning on low coffee tables, space heaters tucked up high to ward off outside chill.

Most often burned are very small children and their grandparents of advanced years. Screens in front of open-flame space heaters will prevent most of these accidents.

Some types of clothing ignite more readily than others. It is the filmy nets and gauzes, the sheer, fuzzy or long-napped and lightweight materials which burn easiest. Little girls' flared skirts are especially risky.

The American Medical Association advises: "Have a short family meeting right away to study possible flame hazards in your household. Correct such hazards as are correctable; warn everyone in the family against those hazards that remain."

"And rehearse once again the rules of rolling on the floor and smothering the flames. The kids will probably have fun with a practice roll or two, and it will help them remember what to do if fire strikes."

Ladies Need Variety In Perfume

Don't give the lady on your list her 'favorite perfume' this Yule. Chances are more than good that she already has a formidable supply of her favorite fragrance. Instead, suggest Caron experts, select a scent that expresses her "undiscovered" self, that hidden facet she never dreamed you knew existed.

For example, the sporty miss who usually wears a mossy, leafy fragrance like Tabac Blond, would light up with glee if you choose Narcisse Noir, that arousing, exotic floral bouquet fragrance.

Conversely, the devoted feminist, who wears single florals such as Bellodgia or Lily-of-the-valley Le Muguet would be thrilled with elegant Nuit de Noel, a regal Oriental perfume.

And instead of sweets to the sweet like Les Poles De Senteur, an authentic sweet pea scent, tell her you know all about her sparkle and brilliance with Caron's most famous modern blend, exciting Fleurs de Rocaille.

Of course, you might select two surprising scents. For there's even more than two sides of the female coin. She may be a one-man woman—but be assured she's not a one-perfume one!

A dinner honoring former Director of the Virginia Beach Planning Commission, Mason Gamage, who recently resigned, was given last Monday at the Black Angus restaurant by members of the Planning Commission.

The commissioners presented him with a resolution which read in part: "The Planning Commission of the City of Virginia Beach, by its Commissioners hereinafter subscribed, does hereby thank and commend F. Mason Gamage for his years of devoted and faithful service and his unexcelled contributions to the improvement and advancement of our City."

Santa Is Still Santa

"The stockings were hung by the chimney with care."

"In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there."

So wrote Clement E. Moore in 1822. And so it will be in most homes this Christmas Eve, at least where there are small children, at least in North America, and even though St. Nicholas has become Santa Claus.

The custom seems to come from Great Britain. There, too, children hang their stockings by the fireplace, hoping that Father Christmas will fill them with Christmas treats, in other lands the customs vary.

In Belgium and The Netherlands, people exchange gifts on Dec. 6, St. Nicholas' Day. A man dressed in the rich robes of a bishop represents the saint, World Book Encyclopedia says. He questions the children about their behavior during the year and promises to return during the night with gifts for the good children.

In Holland the children fill wooden shoes with cookies and candies for the saint and leave them on the doorstep. He takes the goodies and leaves toys and other gifts.

In France, children put their shoes on the doorstep on Christmas Eve so the Christ Child (or Father Christmas) can fill them with gifts. In Italy, on the eve of Epiphany, or Twelfth Night, a sort of aged fairy queen named La Befana comes down the chimney with gifts for the children.

Most children in South America believe that the Wise Men bring them Christmas gifts. Children in Brazil find gifts in their shoes on Christmas morning. On the eve of Epiphany some people leave water and hay on the doorstep for the Wise Men's camels.

Christians in China and Japan observe Christmas customs that are familiar to us. The Chinese version of Santa Claus has a Chinese name which varies according to the dialect. And in Japan? Santa Claus is called Santa Claus.

Their visit to Virginia Beach was to include a tour of the city, lunch at First Presbyterian Church here and end with supper at First Presbyterian Church in Norfolk.

PLAYSIDE BITS

A special evening Christmas program will be staged next Wednesday at the Adam Thoroughgood House between 7:30 and 10:00 p.m. Singers from Deep Creek High School in Chesapeake will carol on the lawn from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m., and costumed guides representing Adam Thoroughgood's family will take visitors on a tour through a 17th century Christmas as it was celebrated by Tidewater's first residents.

Students at Louise Luford Elementary School are learning to give of themselves this year by having a food drive for the needy. The children have been collecting non-perishable food this week to distribute among those in need. The P.T.A. will help distribute the food.

A new magazine for horse fanciers has been established in Virginia to serve the horse industry of the state, said Arden N. Huff, animal scientist at Virginia Tech.

It is "The Virginia Showman" with offices at 8122 Old Court House Road, Vienna, Va. 22180. Tracy Warhurst is the editor-publisher, said Huff.

Plants Have Contributed To Holidays for Centuries

Mistletoe captured man's fancy ages ago and has held it to this day. Norse, Greek and Roman myths ascribed magic power to the "gold bough". Some thought it heaven sent and revealed gold and buried treasure. Druids cut this parasitic plant from host trees with a golden sickle during winter rites and it was hung in homes to assure peace and good fortune. Here visitors sealed friendships and halted feuds by kissing beneath the mistletoe (Anglo-Saxon for "different twig").

Romans also embraced friends and enemies beneath the mistletoe and Christians continued part of the custom. Curative powers also were ascribed and, as late as the 1700's, some doctors prescribed mistletoe for epilepsy.

Plant experts take a dim view of the American variety, Phoradendron, meaning "tree thief." It damages timber in all areas as it weakens every host tree. Seeds from its berries are spread by birds and it is difficult to prune infected limbs. Since mistletoe has no natural enemies and science has found no control, mistletoe and our custom of embracing under its branches are likely to be with us for some time.

Garlands of green go back to antiquity as symbols of everlasting life. Evergreen boughs were used as decoration at the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles and Grecian heroes were crowned with a laurel wreath. Romans decorated homes and shrines with greens and fruits during the Saturnalia festival. Greenery was adopted by the Christians as a reminder of Christ's deity and everlasting life, and the wreath became a symbol of the crown of thorns.

The 15th century Della Robbia family of Florence is known for enameled terra-cotta wreaths modeled around circular nativity reliefs. In these sculptured wreaths were fruits, flowers and pine cones, inspiration for the wreaths adorning our doors and tables at Christmas.

Another type, the Advent wreath, comes from Germany. Four candles are placed on a wreath and, on each of the four Sundays before Christmas, a candle is lit until all are shining. Garland of green are widely used today, but whatever the form, it's likely they were used in the same way many centuries ago.

The Christmas Tree has become a universal symbol at Christmas time. Gaily trimmed trees, surrounded by gifts, are the center of attention in millions of homes, Churches, industry, stores and even cities decorate with them, using balsam, fir, spruce, cedar, pine, hemlock or artificial trees.

Long ago primitive tribes worshipped trees and, later, Egyptians took the green date palm indoors. Virgil wrote of Romans trimming trees with trinkets and lighted candles. Druids of northern Europe tied animal-shaped cakes, glided apples and candles to trees to assure bountiful game and crops. When Christianity appeared, northern Europeans continued their winter rites, but in honor of Christ.

Winifred (680-755), a missionary, went into Germany and saved a young prince from sacrifice to Thor at a burning oak. He told the crowd of Christ and begged them to forsake human sacrifice and their gods. Pointing to a tiny fir, he urged them to take the tree into their homes to celebrate the birthday of the Christ child. In the 1530's Martin Luther is said to have brought a small fir to his children on Christmas Eve and lit it with candles to represent the stars over Bethlehem.

The Christmas tree custom of the Germans soon spread to

The State Health Department says that rising numbers of influenza cases are being reported in five areas in the state. The Department notes the five areas as Roanoke, Suffolk, Waynesboro, Culpepper County, and the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. Despite the number of red-eyed sneezers in these areas, the Department said it had no definite indications of what it called "confirmed influenza outbreaks" in any of the localities.

Closing Proves Value

The much discussed Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel is back in business again following the forced two-week closure caused by damages inflicted by a runaway freighter-turned-barge. Oddly enough it almost looks as if fate took a bit of a hand in the matter.

Every one is aware of the tremendous amount of talk--some of it irresponsible--lately about the debt-ridden eighth wonder of the modern world. The conversation has centered around the high tolls, the heavy debt load and the lack of traffic. But it took a high wind, rough seas, an aged and rusting barge and a problem with an anchor to show us all just how much the 17.5 span across Chesapeake Bay means to so many people.

The tremendous amount of tolls lost and the amount of damages is only secondary to the loss of business on the Eastern Shore, the long detour trucks and tourists had to take and the inconvenience to those who live on one side and work on the other. What the tragic accident really did, however, may prove in the long run to be a blessing. The two-week interruption of a service affected not only cars and trucks, but the malls, the markets and even the economy. But it should have also affected the eyes of the worst critics of the bridge-tunnel.

If it has never been entirely clear before, it is now crystal-clear that the Bridge-Tunnel is an absolute necessity, and definitely not a multi-million dollar folly. No one can argue that the traffic is not up to expectations or that there is not enough revenue coming in to pay the bills, or even that there are not road problems on both sides of the span. But the closure has finally firmed up the argument that the bridge-tunnel is not only a remarkable feat of engineering but a convenience unparalleled anywhere else on the eastern seaboard.

The time has now arrived to stop talking about the roads southward from Norfolk and about all the other problems. The time has come to come up with concrete suggestions and then to implement them. Now we are certain of the need. The "Mohawk" showed us that.

A Time for Reflection

Each year at Christmas time we stop and reflect on the events of the past year. It is the season of giving and receiving, of sentimentality and memory, and of joy and celebration. It is the season of gathering of the family and friends in the warmth and comfort of home.

Only too often the deep religious significance of the season is pushed to the background, and over indulgence in the name of celebration is pushed to the fore.

Christmas is a happy time, both in religious and traditional senses. And this is as it should be. But somewhere amid the colored lights, the tinsel and the presents all of us should take the time to be thankful we can celebrate the joys of the season when so many others cannot.

Many here in our own city as well as elsewhere will not receive gifts from anyone. They won't have enough food or drink to worry about overindulgence. There won't be any festive atmosphere in their homes. It is unfortunate, but nonetheless they will not be able to share in the really joyful meanings of Christmas.

Thousands of America's fighting men will not be home in the warmth of their families this year. They are serving around the world so that we can enjoy the joys of Christmas in freedom. Many who were with us last Christmas will never know another. They have given their lives in the cause of peace in a dirty war. Their loss will be felt long after Christmas has come and gone. Their loss has left a void that can never be filled.

And so it is for us to enjoy all the happiness of Christmas time but to remember with reverence and humility those who are less fortunate than we.

Merry Christmas?

Merry Christmas! Those are the two words we've been hearing most often in the last few days and we'll hear them a lot more before the fellow in the red suit makes his annual visit. But the problem remains to keep Christmas merry, and not tragic... safe and not sad.

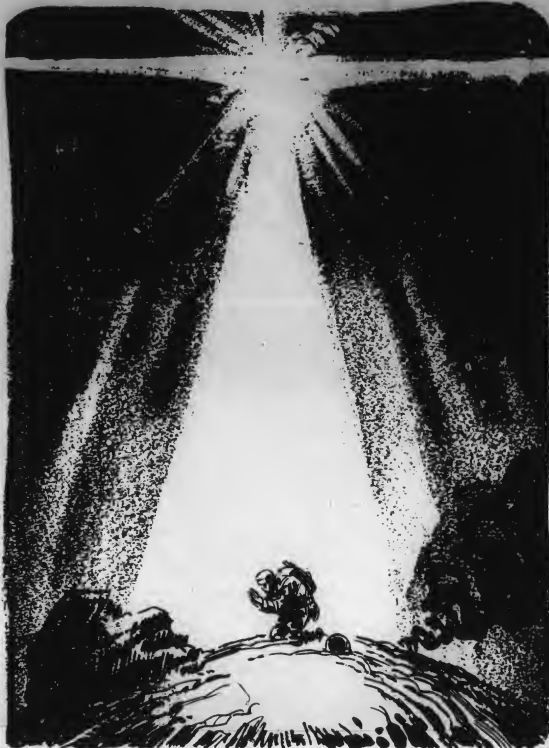

Traffic accidents will claim an untold number of lives during this holiday season. Many of them will happen because the drivers were trying to make Christmas too merry. Too much to drink, driving too fast for wintry conditions, trying to go too far in too little time to be with loved ones are all causes of holiday traffic accidents. Please this year drive carefully and do not become a highway statistic of Christmas 1967.

Most accidents of the Christmas season happen because people disregard safe practices they employ the rest of the year, just to gather in a few more moments to celebrate.

Surely you want a merry Christmas. And you want to hear those two same words next Christmas. Then take care this Christmas.

AND ON EARTH, PEACE

Dear Santa Claus,

Please bring one pair of pliers, two pairs of wire cutters, three screw-drivers (one Phillips head), wrenches in assorted sizes, a bottle of iodine, a large box of band-aids and a partridge in a pear tree. No, come to think of it, leave off the partridge. It will eat too much before we can eat it. But leave in the pear tree. My kids eat a lot of fruit.

My

Dear

Mr.

Claus

And one more thing, please park your reindeer elsewhere. It took three repairmen two weeks to fix all those hoof marks you left last year. Please try to hit Virginia Beach a little earlier this year too. Since you have to help me with the toys, I need to get a little sleep before the kids get up. I promise you, if you slip away without helping me I'll never have any faith in you again and I'll spread rumors about you. But remember if you do help, your tune will probably be a little different "ere you drive out of sight. You'll be heard exclaiming, "Insert Tab A Into Slot B...."

And a Ho, Ho, Ho to you too, S.C. See you Christmas Eve...

Your obedient servant,

JL, Man Ed.

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

As Chairman of the Membership Drive of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, I would like to express my appreciation to the Sun News for the splendid coverage you gave to our One-Day-Membership-Blitz.

The success of this drive, which exceeded our goal of 312, can be attributed to the splendid teamwork of the members of our Chamber.

May I express my sincere appreciation to each of the Captains and the members of their teams who served during this drive and worked so hard to put us over the top. Everyone gave so unselfishly of time from their personal business and devoted their energies to the Important task of increasing the Chamber's membership.

It was gratifying to see so many new businesses and professional people join our fine Chamber of Commerce. This is an indication of the interest and faith we all have in the City of Virginia Beach.

I sincerely urge the new members to become active in the Chamber for they will find it worthwhile and beneficial to themselves as well as to the Chamber of Commerce.

Thank you for a job well done. Lawrence A. Sancilio, president lectures." This probably is an axiom America's adulthood has forgotten. As we become more and more concerned about the seething emotional problems of our youth, it might be well for us oldsters to reexamine our leadership qualities.

As we watch the health-destroying habits of cigarette smoking and related vices, stretch their character-destroying tentacles deeper and deeper into the earlier lives of our innocent children; we might better check our adult leader qualifications.

A nation of people can't spend a total life-time, selfishly satisfying their own carnal cravings, without losing their higher spiritual qualities of sacrifice, self control, love, hope, and faith in God and man.

Maybe our youth fears, that we adults have lost our love of them, and our faith in them. Wouldn't that be most frustrating?

Kempsville F.D. Is in 17th Year

KEMPSSVILLE BOROUGH--Men of the Kempsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Unit are entering their 17th year of protecting the citizens of the Kempsville Borough.

The Kempsville "Volunteers" had their beginning in 1951 under the guidance of four men who at that time were serving with the Davis Corner Volunteer Fire Unit.

Clark Yoder, George Held, Solomon Byler and Eldon Swartzentruber enlisted the aid of several residents of the borough in the launching of a drive for public funds for the purchase of a pumper-engine and the land site, located on Princess Anne Road near Kempsville Road.

The initial station house was a large "barn like" structure moved to the site for the housing of equipment. Within a short time ambulance service was initiated through the purchase of an ambulance from the Virginia Beach Borough fire unit.

In 1959 plans were launched to construct the present headquarters building and obtain another ambulance. Another public fund drive was launched by using the system which is currently used by all fire units of the city. Residents of the borough were requested to pledge "a penny a day," $3.65 per year. Response from the public was so enthusiastic that the men were able to replace their "old" headquarters with the present structure, and in 1964 a second engine was added to the unit.

While the Kempsville Unit is basically a "land locked" group, the men became concerned over the number of "burrow pits" containing water which began to appear throughout their region. Realizing they would eventually be called upon for rescue work in these "pits" the volunteers last year added a boat to their stock of equipment.

At the present time 35 men are taking part in the volunteer fire and rescue duties of the Kempsville Unit. Present officers include Eldon Swartzentruber, chief; Bob Smith, first assistant chief; Graham White, second assistant chief; Stuart Buxbaum, third assistant chief; Bill Wells, first captain; E. Brinkley, second captain; John Perry, third captain; George Weatherington, president; L.A. Culpepper, vice president; Ken Mathews, secretary and Jack Brinkley, treasurer.

When questioned by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN about the future of the Kempsville "Volunteers" Chief Swartzentruber said they currently are looking towards continued improvement of services to their community, and possibly adding more equipment in the future. Swartzentruber also praised the residents of the region by saying, "I feel the people in our area, which we protect, have supported us very well."

About 25 locations in Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Suffolk, Nansemond and Isle of Wright areas will be utilized during January.

A training program for licensed practical nurses, who will assist, began this week at the Kiwanis Center.

The screening will take place from January 2-5 in Virginia Beach at Sealeck Community Development Center, First United Church, Good News Church Kindergarten and at St. Aden's Episcopal Church.

Social Studies Geared To Changing World

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--A new curriculum guide for teaching social studies to fifth, sixth and seventh grade students was presented to the Virginia Beach School Board at their meeting Tuesday.

The guide, titled "Strategies for Teaching Social Studies," was explained to the board by Mrs. Mildred E. Wilson, an elementary supervisor. She said it is an "overall plan for presenting social studies."

The need for a guide for teachers has developed from the changing society children face today, she said.

According to a statement from School Supt. Frank W. Cox, the need for new emphases in social studies' goals arises from the impact of change on three fundamental factors: the social realities of our time, the nature of the social disciplines and new, more recent concepts about the learning process.

New social studies textbooks were adopted this fall for the fifth and sixth grades. The guide was prepared to incorporate the text book which has been used in the seventh grade for several years.

A social studies committee consisting of teachers, supervisors and resource personnel worked through last summer compiling the guide for the fall term.

Mrs. Wilson said the guide should help teach children how to use their knowledge, "whether he can read well or not or whether or not he goes to college, every child becomes a citizen some day."

The school board gave permission to Irving Dowdy, who was representing a church group, to hold services on Sunday morning and evening in Linkhorn Park Elementary School. Dowdy said the Virginia Beach Church of Christ presently has 35 members.

J.J. Owens Jr., administrative assistant, reported that enrollment has increased by 230 students since September and now stands at 38,833.

Christmas is here!

We're sending our warmest wishes to you and your family for a very, merry Christmas!

Ground Broken for Theatre

Virginia Beach and Norfolk are getting a new dinner-theatre in May. Ground has been broken for the building adjacent to the Lake Wright Motor Hotel, Director Timothy L. Jones (left) and Business Manager Earnest Price tried to break the bottle on the handle. When that didn't work they stooped to conquer the bottle on the silver-plated shovel itself. It broke.

The new Lake Wright Playhouse is being built between the 18th fairway of the motel's golf course and the main unit.

The same "silver plated shovel" that was used to break ground for the motel was used in the groundbreaking ceremonies for the playhouse. The building is being built by John C. Wright Jr. and will be leased to the operators of the theatre, including building and furnishings. The new theatre represents an investment of about $250,000.

The Lake Wright Playhouse will be the first theatre in Virginia in recent memory to be conceived, designed and constructed to accommodate theatrical productions, according to Director Timothy L. Jones and Business Manager Earnest Price.

The dining room will stress intimacy and comfort, says Jones, and will be enclosed in glass overlooking the 18th hole of the golf course and the lake. A terrace will surround the dining room and exit into a bar which will be able to serve up to 125 people.

The theatre itself will seat 400 persons. An auxiliary stage, behind the main stage, will be used for children's theatre, rehearsals and experimental theatre. It will seat about 70 people.

The theatre will utilize a three-quarter round stage with box seats on either side. Opening for the new theatre is planned for May 1968, and it will operate on a year-round basis.

"It's going to be the most exciting theatre on the eastern seaboard," said Jones.

About 75 persons, mostly representing the Virginia Beach Little Theatre attended the groundbreaking ceremonies and party afterward in the Lake Wright Motor Hotel.

RADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

The annual banquet meeting of Princess Anne Lodge #8, Fraternal Order of Police, held last night for many on hand. City Personnel Director E.A. Culverhouse kept proceedings lively with his wit while acting as "M.C." for the evening. Officer Wade Smith Jr., attached to the Bayside Police Precinct, showed off his musical talents as he sat in on drums for a couple of sets with the band during the dance.

During recent weeks challenges of golf matches have come from Sgt. Daniel Creelman Jr., 3rd Police Precinct, and Sgt. Harry Seager, Jr., 1st Precinct. Now voices have been raised from the 2nd Precinct. Sgt. Buddy Rogers, says he, and Lt. Charles Payne, will "take 'em all on." Roger says he "will play the 'best ball' in the 1st and 3rd, take 'em on Precinct at a time, and spot 'em a stroke on par 5 holes." (NOTE!! Well, gentlemen, we now have a "four some". When's the big match???)

Newly elected officers of the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept. will assume their duties on New Year's day. Those elected to serve through 1968 include Clarence C. Eubank, Pres.; William A. Kuhn, Vice Pres.; Ernest A. Shaver, Sec.; and William E. Watson, Treas.; Fred

E. Quist, Jr., was re-elected for his 9th consecutive year as Fire Chief. Officers appointed by Chief Quist included Anthony L. Zavlenski, Deputy Chief; Albert Benke, Asst. Chief; Lundy E. Lester, Capt.; William R. Beniker, hose Capt.; Thomas W. Marols, Engineer Capt.; and John J. Tomko, Rescue Capt.

The latest list of proud parents includes officer Jude E. Haslinger, of the Beach Borough Police Precinct, and his wife, Haslinger marked the birth of their new daughter by passing out cigars at the Arctic Avenue headquarters.

Last Sunday was an unusually pleasant day for Mrs. Mary A. Land, Justice of the Peace. Over 100 friends, relatives and associates gathered for a surprise party to help her celebrate her birthday.

Perhaps one of the most unusual greetings of the season have been received by Sgt. L.O. Sutton, assigned to Police Headquarters at Princess Anne Courthouse. Sutton received a card which read "Greetings and good wishes for a merry Christmas and a happy 'bust' year". It was signed "From the boys in Eden Alley".

A large number of citizens were on hand for the annual bicycle "auction" staged outside Police Headquarters at Princess Anne Courthouse.

Auction Nets Bargains

Somewhere in the city of Virginia Beach there is a five-year-old, blond-haired little girl who probably believes Reeves Johnson, the city's traffic engineer, is one of Santa Claus's helpers, if not the "jolly ole man" himself.

During last Friday's annual auction of unclaimed bicycles, and other miscellaneous items, she promptly took a fancy to one bicycle in the lot for sale, which was just her size. When Johnson called for bids on that "bike" she called out a bid of "twenty-five cents". As a hush fell over the crowd on hand, Johnson promptly closed the bidding, and the youngster, beaming with smiles of happiness claimed her treasure.

This year's "auction" of assorted items resulted in a total of $559 in funds turned over to the city. All of the items were placed on sale for open bids and were for cash sales. A total of 56 bicycles realized $335.70, while four surf boards were auctioned off for a total of $190.

One item, which was purchased for $1.50, prompted inquisitive thoughts concerning the whereabouts of its original owner. The item in question was a size 13, ladies "Bikini" swimsuit.

Marina Plans Approved

The City of Virginia Beach got a "go ahead" from the Army Corps of Engineers who last Friday approved the city's revised plan for a marina at Rudee Inlet and issued a permit to build.

The original plan submitted by the city was denied by the engineers because the proposed piers would have extended two-thirds of the way across Lake Rudee. The revised plan shortened the piers to 75 feet.

L. Dean Curtis, coordinator of the Rudee project, said the marina should open by June with 140 boat slips.

Two Make Dean's List

Two Virginia Beach students at the Medical College of Virginia School of Pharmacy in Richmond have been named to the Dean's List of Distinguished Students.

Roney Seward Rogers and Joseph Russo, Jr., both graduates of the University of Richmond, were named to the list for the Fall Quarter of the 1967-1968 session.

Rogers is a senior and Russo is a junior. Both have achieved a grade average of "B" or better on all their courses.

Are you planning on giving a poinsettia this year as a Christmas gift? Or will you be the proud receiver of this great Christmas favorite?

The poinsettia is an old-time favorite that keeps being improved by plant breeders as time goes by. They now are available in white, pink and red. Most poinsettias bloom last about two weeks. There is one variety, Paul Mikkelson, that will hold its bruise resistant red blooms for about twice as long as the others. The blooms on this one are not as large as the others, however.

Although the poinsettia is a beautiful plant to have in the home, one should realize that it, like many ornamental plants, is poisonous. The white, milky sap will sometimes cause a rash on persons with particularly sensitive skin.

This sap is particularly poisonous if it is gotten inside the body. This is why young children should be watched when around this plant, and should be cautioned not to put leaves in their mouths nor to put any of the sap in their mouths.

Mrs. Davis with a tape duplicating machine at the Educational Media Center.

Media Center Contains Everything

PR. ANNE BOROUGHT—Behind Court House Elementary School stands a building of which few persons outside the public school system are even aware. Yet it plays an important part in educating the children of Virginia Beach. This long, white building is the Educational Media Center which was completed a little more than a year ago.

Inside is a vast variety of materials to help teachers prepare and teach lessons more effectively. According to Mrs. Ann Davis, director of the Media Center, its purpose is to "provide instructional material not available on the school level to back up the classroom teacher." Items too expensive or those used only occasionally are distributed through the center," she said.

Included in the building are a professional library for teachers, an audio laboratory, a demonstration classroom equipped with all types of media, an audio laboratory including facilities for recording and for making and reproducing tapes, a photography lab for the graphic arts department and work areas for the graphic arts lab.

"We have a bigger tape library than the state," said Mrs. Davis with obvious pride. The center is her "baby." The functional building was constructed to her specifications. Mrs. Davis is now working on her doctorate degree. Her big problem now is that she is already running out of space. Before the new building was completed, the Media Center was housed at Kellam High School and before that at Princess Anne.

Also included under the care of the center are eight reading labs, four speech labs, four special art labs, two mobile reading clinics and a mobile speech clinic.

"There's a lot of production work," said Mrs. Davis. "We prepare slides, and tapes and make permanent exhibits of pictures and maps, etc., by laminating.

"We also evaluate new material and try to bring information about new materials to principals and teachers. Anything we buy we select very carefully."

Orders for materials are channeled through the school libraries. Two deliveries per school are made each week. There is a monthly meeting of all the librarians.

For instance if a class is studying Spain, the teacher can request a "resource material kit" on the country. It contains everything from film strips and tapes on the country to dolls dressed in native costume. It may contain pamphlets, posters, craft works of the country, etc.

One new piece of equipment the center is in the process of evaluating is a Studymaster with which a teacher may prepare special lessons or makeup lessons. The machine uses a master sheet to transmit the lesson to the student. The teacher writes, draws or types the lesson on one side for viewing.

The other side is especially coated so the teacher can record the lesson. The student has a private pair of earphones so he can see and listen to the lesson without needing special instruction from the teacher or disturbing the class.

"I think it has great possibilities for remedial reading," said Mrs. Davis.

Also in the building are Mrs. Gail Presson, art coordinator; Harry E. Blain, reading coordinator; and Miss Pat House, and Mrs. Lilly Riddick, reading diagnosticians.

Others on Mrs. Davis' staff are Mrs. Mary B. Mather, media specialist; Mrs. Penelope Hill, film librarian; Mrs. Helen G. Wilkerson, film inspector, and Mrs. Jeanne Meekins, secretary and Varitypist. She also has four high school students and a college student working part time.

"This is a working place," stated Mrs. Davis.

Intramurals Conclude

The intramural program at the conclusion of the first nine weeks of school was held on Dec. 9 at four secondary schools.

This brought together the winning intramural teams from each of the high schools in the city. There were over 600 students from the schools in this competition representing the 8th, 9th and 10th grades.

The Soccer Tournament was held at Kellam, Speedball at Kempsville, Touch Football at Princess Anne, Field Hockey at Cox and Tennis at Princess Anne. The winners were as follows:

Tennis Boys--Singles, Saun-

Soccer--Boys, Kellam; Girls, Bayside.

There's Still Time for Parties

Chatting at the Intruder Ball at NAS Oceana were Mrs. G.R. Ayers, wife of the chief of staff, Commander Fleet Air Norfolk, and Mrs. A.C. Davis, wife of the aide to Adm. R. Mahle. (See story Page 3B.)

Christmas shopping, Christmas baking, Christmas card addressing. Packages to wrap. Packages to mail. Last minute errands.

And still people have time for parties.

This week it was the Virginia Beach Art Association's annual party and art sale at The Cavalier, the Cavalier Junior Woman's Club party for members and children and the annual Intruder Ball at NAS Oceana.

With one weekend off to spend at home, the city should be in high again next week for New Year's.

CAROLYN'S COLUMN

By Carolyn McAllen

Take Enough Time To Enjoy Christmas

It's Zelig Kerstfeest in Dutch-speaking Belgium, It's S Rozhdetvom Christovym in Russia and Wesołych Świąt Bożego Narodzenia in Poland.

It's Gledelig Jul in Denmark, Buon Natale in Italy, Boas Festes in Portugal, Felices Pascuas in Spain and Froeliche Wehnachten in Germany. In French, it's Joyeux Noel.

And in English, it's Merry Christmas.

This is the season of the year when columnists traditionally climb on their soap boxes and compose philosophical thoughts about the Christmas season. Sorry, I can't do it.

To me, like to the majority of us, Christmas is a wonderful holiday.

But I'm afraid I'm a little selfish. My Christmas should be happy. I'll be surrounded by a loving family--well fed and clothed.

What about the others, though? Any number of families will be without husbands and fathers this Christmas because of the Vietnam Conflict. Still other families will be separated by illness or various reasons. Others will not have enough to even keep warm, much less buy a feast or toys for the children.

Maybe I am on my soap box after all, but that's just the way I feel.

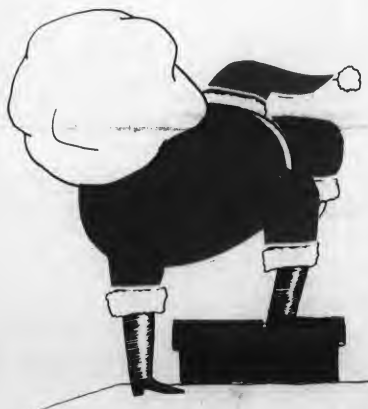

I know from my own experience the hardship of even a minor separation from your family at Christmas time. On the second Christmas I was married, my husband was in the hospital recovering from surgery. Our oldest child was not a year old, but I smuggled her past nurses who kindly looked the other way while I took her for a visit to her father.

The following Christmas our younger daughter arrived a month early. She was due Jan. 18, but somehow got her months mixed up and arrived on Dec. 18. Who ever heard of a seven pound, six ounce premature baby? Despite the orders of my doctor I packed her and me up and went home on Christmas day.

Christmas definitely is for families. But while you are enjoying yours, don't forget those who are less fortunate.

And most of all remember a baby born almost 2,000 years ago in a dirty stable. He is the very reason we celebrate Christmas, contrary to what some of the merchants would have us believe.

So, however you say it, Merry Christmas.

Holiday Has International Touch

By Mary Wright

Take an "American Christmas," flavor it liberally with memories of German Christmases in Berlin and Japanese Christmases in Hawaii.

And you may have some idea of what Christmas will be like at retired Chief Petty Officer Samuel H. McCarroll's home this year.

The McCarroll's youngest son, Leslie, 20, brought home a classmate from Adam's State College in Colorado's San Luis Valley for the Christmas holidays.

Leslie and house-guest Ron Nagamine, 20, a Hawaiian of Japanese descent, arrived in Tidewater, Wednesday, Dec. 13, and will be leaving for Colorado a few days after Christmas. In the interim, Ron--or "Naga," as his friends call him--will experience his first Christmas on the mainland with an English-speaking family.

Naga's family lives on Oahu, in a suburb of Honolulu called Alea that overlooks Pearl Harbor. His grandparents came to Hawaii from Hiroshima before World War II, and he said that Christmases in Hawaii were traditionally spent at Grandmother's. The trip didn't involve a sleigh-ride over snow, but just a walk to his grandparents' home, only a block from his own.

Even though his family is Buddhist, he explained that Hawaiian Christmas is kept in almost the same way as in the continental United States. The exceptions being Japanese cuisine which replaced the turkey and the high costs of Christmas trees in the land of the palms. Naga and Leslie are both in their third year of college, and Naga has spent the past two Christmases with the family of his grand-uncle in Colorado.

The uncle, he said, speaks almost no English. But he went on to say that there is a large community of Japanese in southwest Colorado, and language has not been an insurmountable problem for his uncle. Many of the Japanese in the area, he said, settled there after they were released from Japanese-American camps that were built there during World War II.

If Naga has memories of lush green Christmases in the Islands, Mrs. Hilda McCarroll has memories of her girlhood in what is now the Western sector of Berlin.

There was very little done until Christmas Eve, she recalls. Until that night, the children were not allowed even a glimpse of the Christmas tree; it was decorated in a room of the house that was closed off until Dec. 24, and it was on that night that the candles on the tree were lit, and Christmas really began.

Naga, who has a partial baseball scholarship to Adams State, said that he will return to Hawaii when he completes his bachelor's degree. He is majoring in physical education and secondary education, and plans to teach and coach in Honolulu.

Leslie, who is a psychology major, intends to continue his studies towards an advance degree, but hasn't yet decided on a university.

Before the two go back to college, they plan to visit Williamsburg and Washington, D.C., and "do a lot of resting."

And lest any of this be misleading, Christmas wishes and memories and hopes for the New Year from the McCarroll's home will not be restricted to Hawaii and Germany and the mainland United States.

There is the McCarroll's older son, Skip, who is stationed with the Navy in Vietnam. And there is Mrs. McCarroll's brother, living now in Africa.

Thoughts of "Peace on Earth" this year will be personal and sincere, at least at the McCarroll's, where so many corners of it are concerned--personally, and sincerely.

Cook up an enchanting winter scene with a lollipop pond and popcorn snow. Arrange it in a cardboard stage lined with sky-blue paper. Hang kernels of popcorn for falling snow and add a lilliput skier.

Pop a Room Decoration

An enchanting idea for a table or mantle decoration at a child's party, or just a fun thing to make on a cold winter's day is a lollipop nestled in popcorn snow. Add a tiny skier, snow laden trees and falling snow and the wintry scene is complete.

Into center of a piece of ungreased foil placed on a cookie sheet, letting candy spread naturally. Let candy harden.

Popcorn Winter Scene

Lollipop Pond
1/4 c. corn oil
1/2 c. popcorn
1/2 c. light corn syrup
1/2 c. sugar
1/2 teas. salt

Prepare lollipop pond (recipe below). Heat corn oil in a 4-qt. kettle over medium heat for 3 minutes. Add popcorn. Cover leaving small air space at edge of cover. Shake frequently over medium heat until popping stops. Meanwhile mix together corn syrup, sugar and salt. Add to popped corn in kettle and stir over medium heat 3 to 5 minutes or until corn is evenly and completely coated with mixture. Remove from heat. Warning! Some of the mixture into balls of different sizes. Leave some plain. If necessary, make up recipe twice but do not double recipe. String some pieces of popcorn to hang above scene for falling snow. Shape some into trees.

To set up winter scene: Take a large carton turned on the side with opening at front, stage fashion. Cover bottom of scene with cotton batting or white tissue paper. Cover with waxed paper or plastic wrap. Remove candy with foil from cookie sheet and fold back or cut off the extra foil. Place pond at one side of scene. Behind pond, place artificial trees or trees made of popped corn. In opposite corner of scene build up a popcorn-ball hill. Fill in around scene with pieces of dry popcorn. Break small piece of reserved lollipop candy into bits and scatter this candy ice around pond edges. Place a small doll dressed in winter togs in the scene. Hang popcorn snow from carton above the scene.

Lollipop Pond

2 c. sugar
1 c. light corn syrup
1/2 c. water
1 1/2 teas. essence of peppermint

Mix sugar, corn syrup and water in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring to 300 degrees F., or until a small amount of mixture separates into threads which are hard and brittle when tasted in very cold water. Cool slightly. Add flavoring; blend. Pour about 1/2 cup of candy onto small greased dish or a piece of foil. Pour remainder of candy

Christmas Party Held

BEACH BOROUGH--Among the less publicized but more delightful clubs at Virginia Beach is the Golden Age Club which was formed here in 1957 for the young in heart who are 60 and over.

Santa Claus hats were worn by the approximately 60 club members who attended the Christmas party and luncheon last week at the First Presbyterian Church. In charge of table decorations and refreshments were Mrs. Eleanor Hays and Elizabeth Lyons.

Mrs. Myrtice Parker, the club's sponsor, read a holiday story, and James Wright led in singing carols.

Mrs. Olive Downing brought handmade gifts to all members and guests, a tradition she has carried out for the past six years.

The club's purpose, according to Mrs. Dorothy Ashall, vice president, is "pleasant associations, fellowship, friendship and activities."

Mrs. D. W. Roderick, chairman, talks with Mildred Alexander about Mrs. Alexander's recent trip to the Holy Land on which she spoke in conjunction with the lecture series at Little Creek Amphibious Base.

Mrs. Garnett Graduates

Mrs. Sammie Ella Garnett, the ward of Mr. and Mrs. V.V. Molinary of First Colonial Road, received her B.S. degree recently during graduation exercises at Radford College.

She is a graduate of the Berea Foundation of Berea College, Berea, Kentucky and attended Clinch Valley College, White at Radford, where she was a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha social sorority.

William Warren Greico was recently initiated as a charter member of Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha, the University of Tampa's chapter of a national honorary forensic fraternity.

Greico, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Leo Dion of Paul Jones Lane, is a graduate of Princess Anne High School. He is a member of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, and the Delo Forensic Society. He is a senior majoring in history and minoring in speech.

Miss Pamela Gayle White of Virginia Beach was named to the Fall Quarter Dean's List at the University of Southern Mississippi at Hattiesburg. Inclusion on this academic honor roll requires a grade point average of 3.25 (4.0 is all A's).

Mrs. Lanning Is Installed

Mrs. E.P. Lanning was installed as president of the Sea Sprite Circle of Virginia Beach King's Daughters at their December meeting.

Other new officers, installed by the outgoing president, Mrs. Robert Turner, are Mrs. Paul Mergler, first vice president; Mrs. Peter Scoppa, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Zoll, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Rhae Adams, treasurer.

Members wrapped Christmas gifts for the pediatric section of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Plans were made for the second annual Hospital Ball which will be held Jan. 26 at the Cavalier Hotel. Invitations may be obtained from members of the circle.

The entire NAS Oceana Officers' Club was filled Thursday night, Dec. 14, with some 350 guests for the fourth annual Intruder Ball.

The guest list included not only military personnel and their wives connected with the jet attack plane, A-6 Intruder, but also representatives of industries involved in the plane's manufacture.

Attending the formal ball were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mickey, of Grumman Aircraft; Mr. and Mrs. Corkey Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Byrnes, of the Norden Company, an electronics concern; and Mr. Keith Price, of Litton Company, another electronics organization.

Adm. Roger Mehle, Commander Fleet Air Norfolk, and Mrs. Mehle were two other special guests, as well as Capt. Jack Herman, first commander of Oceana's VA-42 attack squadron, which flies the Intruder; and Capt. Burt Earnest, commanding officer of NAS Oceana, and Mrs. Earnest.

Cdr. Arthur Barrie and his VA-42 squadron were hosts for the evening.

An "International" Christmas tree was one of the centers of attention at a cocktail party for fighter squadrons VF-103 and VF-31 at Oceana's Officers' Club, Friday, Dec. 15.

The decorations for the tree were from the collection of Mrs.

Sue Skinner, wife of Lt. (jg.) Theodore Skinner, a VF-103 pilot.

The collection was begun a few years ago by Mrs. Skinner's sister, who was then living in Iceland where her husband was stationed at a NATO base.

Mrs. Skinner had a chance to add to the collection this summer when she went to Europe to "follow" the USS Saratoga (CVA-60) to which VF-103--and her husband--are attached.

The Saratoga returned from its nine months' Mediterranean cruise Dec. 5. On that day, VF-103, commanded by Cdr. Jesse McKnight, and VF-31, commanded by Cdr. Richard Woodruff, flew in to Oceana.

AT LITTLE CREEK

Wednesday, Dec. 13 was the date for the Little Creek Officers' Wives Club's Christmas luncheon at the base Officers' Club.

Mrs. Ray Peet, wife of the Commander of Amphibious Group Two and the other Group Two wives were hostesses for the luncheon.

The wives were entertained by a medley of Christmas music sung by the Cox High School Girls' Chorus, under the direction of William Boyll.

Little Creek Chief Petty Officers and their wives held a holiday dinner-dance at the Little Creek CPO Club, Saturday, Dec. 16.

Guests of honor at the party were Capt. Stephen Johnson, commanding officer of the Amphibious Base, and Mrs. Johnson; Capt. W. P. Watkins, a former commanding officer of Little Creek, and Mrs. Watkins; and the Rev. and Mrs. Philip Kahal.

VIETNAM SQUADRON

And then there are, of course, those wives who are spending Christmas without their husbands.

For one such wife, Mrs. Rita Zacharias, is the fifth consecutive Christmas she and her three sons have celebrated without husband/father Jerrold M. Zacharias.

Cdr. Zacharias was scheduled to arrive in Vietnam last week, where he and the Oceana attack squadron he commands, VA-75, attached to the USS Kitty Hawk will remain until late June, 1968.

Most wives whose husbands are in Vietnam choose to visit their families for the holidays. Mrs. Zacharias said. But for those who remain in and around Oceana for Christmas, there are several private parties planned.

Mrs. Zacharias entertained both the squadron's officers' and enlisted men's wives at her home, Saturday, Dec. 16. Another group party is planned for New Year's Eve she said.

Formal Planned

Rear Adm. Roger W. Mehle, Commander Fleet Air Norfolk, will host a formal Christmas dinner dance for staff officers, senior officers of COMFAIR squadrons and units and their wives on Thursday, Dec. 21.

In a brief ceremony after dinner, the assembled guests will honor Capt. Dexter C. Runsey II, who is retiring as COMFAIRNORFOLK Chief of Staff on Dec. 31, completing 30 years of naval service.

Cocktails from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Oceana Naval Air Station's Officers Club will be followed by a buffet dinner.

An evening of dancing will follow.

Officers Have A Ball

The Christmas Ball at Fort Story's Officers' Club on Dec. 15 was of particular interest at entertainment time when five musical selections were presented by Fort Story Officers and Officers' Wives.

Mrs. Richard W. Krieger directed the group in Christmas selections accompanied by Mrs. Larry Hall at the piano. Mrs. Krieger was previously a public school music teacher in Jackson, Mich., and Mrs. Hall taught in the County Public Schools of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Members of the group were Chaplain and Mrs. Kenneth Blunt, Mrs. Thomas W. King Jr., Mrs. Marvin K. Keenen, Mrs. William B. Powell, Mrs. William T. Hedges, Mrs. James Izatt, Mrs. Rene C. Gomez, 1st Lt. Richard Kreiger, 2nd Lt. Edward Wyant and 2nd Lt. John M. Taylor.

Mrs. Krieger also sang a solo selection during the performance.

C & P Expects Record Calls For Holiday

Despite a three-day Christmas holiday that permits plenty of traveling time to loved ones, The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia expects long distance calling to be at an all-time high.

L. Floyd Patrick, local manager of C&P, said that completed calls on Saturday, Dec. 23, will run about 150,000 and are expected to reach 250,000 on Christmas Day. Of these calls, more than 50 percent will be dialed direct, station-to-station, while the remainder will be handled by operators.

Better than 75% of C&P's some 3,400 telephone operators are scheduled to work on Christmas Day since this is the heaviest telephone calling day of the year.

The three-day holiday, Dec. 23, 24, and 25, will also offer long distance interstate calling rates with the maximum three-minute station-to-station rate of a dollar, or less, being in effect to any place in the United States, Patrick said.

The C&P official urged telephone users to place their long distance calls early over this long holiday weekend so that calls will go through without delay.

Preparatory Classes Set

The Army Education Center at Fort Story will host a preparatory class for the Federal Service Entrance Examination (F.S.E.E.) beginning the second week in January.

The F.S.E.E. is utilized in the selection of people for the grades of GS5 through GS9 by the Federal Government. The preparatory class is designed to assist those in federal service at a lower level to upgrade their position, as well as prepare individuals for entrance into Government service.

Two class sections will be run, the first on Wednesday nights from 7 to 10 p.m. and the second on Thursdays at the same time. The Wednesday classes will begin on Jan. 10, and the Thursday classes on the following night.

The cost for the 10-week program is $17, which includes tuition and books. For further information, prospective students should contact Eugene F. Bolick at the Education Center, 428-1111, extension 4277.

Firemen Deliver Christmas Joy

By Lea Lehigh

Christmas morning for a large number of Virginia Beach families will dawn brighter as a result of the concern and efforts of their fellow citizens.

For several weeks men of the various fire units have been collecting repairable toys for distribution to needy children at Christmas and taking the items to the Little Creek Amphibious Base fire station.

Men of the base units have devoted their spare time to getting the toys ready. Each item was literally rebuilt. Bicycles, tricycles, and wagons were dismantled, sanded down by hand, broken parts repaired or replaced and each item reassembled and repainted to restore a brand new finish. Various types of games which could be salvaged had missing pieces remade or replaced. Doll babies with missing arms or legs were reassembled and the dolls refinished to bring a smile to a little girl's face. New dresses and other clothing for the dolls were made by ladies of the Chesapeake Beach and Ocean Park Woman's clubs, who also gave other contributions to swell the stock of items on hand.

Men of the Bayside Lions Club, during this same period of time, have been canvassing the city for monetary donations or food to assure the needy families the traditional "Merry Christmas" dinner. The "Lions" carried their plea for aid to the schools of the Bayside Borough, where students of the schools, and members of various scout troops, readily responded with baskets of food.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN was told today's Bayside Joy Fund had its beginning back in the early 1930's. At that time men of the Virginia Beach Borough Fire Department started the toy collection.

Men of the Amphibious Base Fire Department in 1950 began the repairing of the items, and it has been carried out by them to the present date. In 1954 men of the Bayside Lions Club agreed to take over sponsorship of the annual program, and are the driving force behind the event today.

A small sampling of games, toys, and dolls repaired by men of the Amphibious Base fire department for distribution to needy children this Christmas.

A ceremony is planned for tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at the Ocean Park Volunteer Fire Headquarters, with representatives of the City of Virginia Beach, the Little Creek Amphibious Base, and the fire units on hand, as the toys and baskets of food are turned over to the Bayside Lions Club. Indications are at least 125 families will benefit from this years program, in receiving food at a value in excess of $1,200 and toys of immeasurable worth.

During this weekend a force of Bayside Lions and Ocean Park Volunteer Firemen will wend their way through the city delivering the items, to assure Christmas morning being a "merry" one for those less fortunate than you and I.

Pity the Postman

The letter carrier, his back bent beneath a bulging bag of Christmas cards, may feel that what Sherman said about war might equally be said about Christmas.

But it wasn't always that way. People didn't exchange Christmas cards until relatively recent times. The first specially designed Christmas card is believed to have been printed by a London company and placed on sale in 1843.

Charles Goodall & Sons of London began printing and selling Christmas cards on a wide scale in 1862. World Book Encyclopedia says, and printed cards soon became as popular as the handwritten personal notes that people had exchanged earlier.

Louis Prang, a Boston lithographer, began printing multi-colored Christmas cards in the 1860's and marketed them in Europe. By 1875 he was selling them in the United States. And that's how it began.

Got your Christmas cards mailed yet?

Bond Issue Approval Pending

Vocational School to Be Begun in March

About $1,175,000 of the $14.5 million school officials hope will be approved in the Jan. 20 bond issue referendum in Virginia Beach will be used as part of the City's cost of constructing and equipping an entirely new concept in education for the city.

The rest of the money to build and equip the new Vocational building will come from federal and state sources, according to

Edward E. Brickell, who becomes Superintendent of Schools in March.

Brickell has been working on plans for the vocational-technical high school for some time, in conjunction with other individuals, as well as the Virginia State Employment Service. Brickell began last spring to survey not only the needs of high school students along vocational and technical lines but also the needs of the community and the entire area, now and in the future.

Those surveys are now complete and original plans for the one-story brick building have been drawn by the Norfolk architectural and engineering firm of Pentecost, Wade and McLellan. Original plans called for final approval of those plans by early spring with construction to begin a short time later.

"We are actually running a little ahead of our plans now," said Brickell. "And construction should definitely start in March."

A site for the new school is still not definite but school officials have asked for acreage on Green Run Farm, purchased from the City of Norfolk for recreational purposes earlier this year. Brickell says the "chances are very good that's where the school will be built." He called the location an excellent one, accessible to all parts of the city in a relatively short time. The site is on Princess Anne Road's "five-mile stretch", and the extension of Independence Boulevard is expected to pass near the school on the Green Run property in the future.

At the present time the City has hit a snag in the development of the Green Run property for recreation since being turned down for federal grants, but is trying to get farmers to lease corn there on a year's lease.

The vocational school will be opened in September 1969, but may not have all of its equipment for another year.

"The state and federal sources that will okay the money for the equipment do not like to commit themselves until we have a building," said Brickell. "And with the war in Vietnam taking so much machinery and metal, there is as much as a year's delay on much of the equipment we'll need."

The facility is planned as a three-shift school with students attending their own high schools either in the morning or afternoon and the vocational technical school during the other part of the day. The school is also planned for night adult use.

Originally planned for 1,200 to 1,500 students, most courses will lead to a regular high school diploma, except in special cases where there is a need for other requirements.

Courses will include auto mechanics, diesel mechanics, machine shop, welding, electric shop, plumbing and heating and certain building trades, according to Brickell.

Brickell also pointed out that the school will not be a "panacea for high school dropouts," but will serve a definite need in the community.

Other money sought in the bond issue will be used to enlarge existing schools and to build new primary and secondary schools to meet the immediate needs of Virginia Beach, according to school officials.

Already schools are operating at capacity or over, and the new schools in the bond issue will be begun as soon as the referendum is over and approved in order to be ready for the next school year and the 1969-1970 school year.

Army Says 'No Dice' To Airport

First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing has received a negative response from the Department of the Army to his letter on behalf of Virginia Beach.

Downing had sought approval of the sharing of airstrip space by the Army and the City of Virginia Beach on 125 acres of Fort Story, Fort Story already has a small airstrip in use on the base.

In turning down the idea of a municipal strip there, Army officials sighted the continuing use of the fort as an amphibious vehicle training base and, while noting the need for an airport in Virginia Beach, said needs of the Army precluded use for such a purpose.

Fort Story was chosen because of available land and the lack of geographical conflict with other civilian and military aviation installations in the area.

The Mayor's Committee seeking an airport is reported looking into other sites.

Police Ask Help To Find Killer

Police have called for public assistance in their continuing search for the killer, or killers, of a 25-year-old Virginia Beach woman probably on the night of Monday, Dec. 11.

The body of Mrs. Carol J. Dorschel, who resided on Byrd Lane, was discovered a week after her disappearance in a water and mud filled sewage pipe ditch along Virginia Beach Boulevard near London Bridge. State Chief Medical Examiner E. H. Karnitschnig said an examination of the body showed that the woman had died as the result of manual strangulation and had been sexually assaulted.

The location of the body near one of the most heavily traveled thoroughfares in Virginia Beach, has prompted Capt. W. W. Davis, Police Detective Bureau Commanding Officer, to issue the following statement: "We have concluded, with reasonable certainty, this woman was killed or attacked right there on that highway. Therefore, we urge any and all people passing that location on Monday night, Dec. 11th, at approximately 10:30 p.m. to come forth, or contact us with anything they may have seen or heard."

While police have questioned several persons in connection with their search for the killer, it is hoped someone who may have passed the crime site will be able to furnish additional information in the investigation.

Save Your Trash Cans

Members of the Virginia Beach Department of Sanitation will join other city employees in taking a holiday on New Year's Day.

There will not be any collection of garbage in the city next Monday, New Year's Day. The next regular collection in the area affected by the holiday is scheduled for next Thursday, Jan. 4, 1968.

Choice of Three Men Sent Evans

In accordance with an agreement with City Council, Police Chief J. E. Moore has sent the names of three City policemen to Andre Evans, who takes over on January 1 as Commonwealth's Attorney. Evans asked that a full-time investigator be assigned to his office. The request was granted by Council.

Chief Moore said he had sent the names of three competent men to Evans a few days ago but had not heard from him since that time. The names submitted to Evans were Patrolman J. T. Baker, Detective L. S. Taylor and Detective W. M. Bailey. Baker has been with the Virginia Beach Police for four months but served on the Norfolk Police force for nine years. He is a college graduate with two-and-a-half years of the study of law and has been an investigator for two insurance companies in the past.

Winter Makes Delayed Entry at Beach

Winter arrived and immediately left its mark by setting a new record high temperature. The pleasant breezes off the Atlantic Ocean brought a few nice waves and 78-degree temperatures officially.

Seashore State Park had several campers within its confines ready to spend a beautiful pre-Christmas weekend in the relative warmth of the park. The surfers came out in large numbers to the area allotted them at the south end of the Beach Borough. The romanticists among us stripped to shirtsleeves and walking shorts and kicked off their shoes, the better to feel the nice warm sand between the toes on such a fine day.

It was a typical spring day, three months too early. That was Friday.

The rains came that evening and the temperature began to drop. By morning Virginia Beach was covered with more than an inch of snow. The temperature had nose-dived to below the freezing mark and the cold winds of winter had arrived with a vengeance, only one day late. The surfers stayed home. The campers huddled around their stoves with blankets. And even the romanticists dressed warmly for the occasion, some 50 degrees cooler than the day before.

It was a typical winter day, right on time. That was Saturday.

But mostly all the snow did was give the kids a white Christmas to dream of. The snow did not linger that long and on Christmas day the usual more moderate weather had returned to Virginia Beach.

But that first snowfall of the season did catch lots of folks off guard. Too many drivers did not realize those slick spots were there. Virginia Beach police reported a rash of minor accidents, mostly from following too closely or from skidding into ditches.

In the very early morning hours road crews were on the job spreading sand on the worst spots, but roadways on bridges and viaducts still remained treacherous until the snow stopped and the streets dried. Police also attributed three deaths to the storm.

Outdoor enthusiasts marked the first day of winter last Friday by taking advantage of spring-like temperatures to stroll the beach or ride the surf.

It was more pleasant indoors on the second day of winter when more than an inch of snow covered the ground and temperatures were below freezing.

City Leaders Resolve and Reflect

Every year about this time, residents of Virginia Beach and everywhere else begin to reflect on the old year and to think of the promise of the new year. They begin to make what are commonly called New Year's "resolutions."

It has been said that one should never make a resolution that is too difficult to keep, or he may find himself breaking it by Jan. 2.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN contacted several of Virginia Beach's leading citizens to find out what they had resolved to do in 1968. Here are some of their answers:

JOHN FENTRESS, Clerk of Courts - "None! They're made to be broken, and therefore I'm not making any for the new year."

SAM SCOTT, Director of the Civic Center - "To try to recrut more convention business for the civic center, and to try to stop smoking."

FRANK COX, retiring Superintendent of Schools - "My resolution may be expressed as a hope and prayer for universal peace and brotherhood. It is my fervent wish that more understanding and goodwill may be fostered among the nations of the earth, and that the unrest and violence so prevalent in our homeland may be replaced by cooperation, mutual respect and goodwill. It will be my purpose to think, act and share in promoting this worthy goal."

KENNETH WHITEHURST, Delegate, Virginia Beach - "To do the best job I can in the Virginia General Assembly for the people of Virginia Beach."

G. DEWEY SIMMONS, JR., City Councilman - "I resolve that I shall visit at least twice a week someone in the hospital regardless of whether they are someone I know or not. I resolve that no complaint shall cross my desk this year that is not answered in a reasonable period of time. The answer may not always be what the complainant wants to hear, but at least he is entitled to an answer. Third is the health practice I have started, the practice of jogging, or running, every morning. I resolve to continue this practice since it seems to make a difference in my physical well being."

EDWARD T. (NED) CATON III, State Senator, Virginia Beach - "I'm so engrossed with resolutions and bills for the coming General Assembly I haven't given much thought to personal resolutions for the new year."

Carolyn McAllen, Women's Editor of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, asked the distaff side of Virginia Beach's prominent citizens about their resolutions. Their answers may be found on p. 6.

Weather Kills Three

Below freezing temperatures combined with the first snow fall of the year in Virginia Beach have been listed as contributing factors in the deaths of three men last Saturday. Police reported the discovery of the bodies of Julius U. Hightler, East Indian River Road; Walter L. Leary, Barton Drive; and John N. Wright, Virginia Beach Boulevard, in different sections of the city, with each listed as having died of exposure.

Officials told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN 49-year old Hightler was found in the front yard of his home, 46-year old Leary in a region behind the city dump near his home, while 62-year old Wright was discovered near a small shack on Newton Road.

Pedestrian Killed

A 18-year old Kempesville Borough boy became the 40th traffic fatality of the year in Virginia Beach, when he was struck down by an auto in front of his Centerville Turnpike home, Christmas Eve. Police identified him as Clifton Lewis, son of the James Lewis'.

Fire Damages Home

Volunteers and regulars of the Beach Borough fire department spent over two hours at the scene of a fire which routed Mrs. Richard Gregory, and her two sons, from their 55th Street home in the early hours of last Thursday morning.

Policeman Files Suit

Virginia Beach Police officer James J. Scortino filed a $50,000 injury suit against a 19-year old Josephine Crescent resident, who was convicted earlier of assaulting Scortino. The civil suit alleges Scortino was injured by Ralph E. Haddock when he dragged Scortino along Princess Anne Road last April, after Scortino had stopped the auto for investigation of a reckless driving charge.

Changes Put Forward

This past week saw proposals which would affect a large number of citizens of the city of Virginia Beach. Recommendations were made for the establishing of a "grievance board" to replace the present Police and Trial Board. Indications are this new "board" would also offer protection to all city employees.

Proposals have also been aired for the creation of a Planned Unit Development which would result in a change of the present zoning regulations. Under the recommendations of the City Planning Commission would allow intermingling of apartment houses with single-family dwellings in certain regions containing at least 50 acres of land.

The most common cause of callouses is poor fitting shoes or some foot deformity.

Scout Awards Set Record

Members of Boy Scout Troop 372 who received God and Country Awards this year are Andrew Glisson, Barry Pickering, Randy Fowler, Mike Oberholtzer and Steve Duff.

One of the 29 boys who reached Eagle Rank in 1967 was Stephen Ragsdale, shown here being congratulated by his Scout Master, Joseph Russo of Troop 465.

PAVAB District Boy Scouts have been more than active in 1967.

More boys (29) reached the rank of Eagle Scout this year than in any previous year, according to William H. "Bill" Vidal, district advancement chairman. The total for 1966 was 13.

"The prospects for 1968 are good," Vidal said.

There are presently 95 Scout units registered in the district involving approximately 3,250 boys. Of these, 960 Cub Scouts and 633 Boy Scouts advanced their ranks in 1967.

Twelve God and Country awards were given in 1967 as compared to two last year.

Vidal said that the national average of Eagle Scouts in Boy Scouting is one percent. In PAVAB District it is two percent.

Vidal, whose two sons became Eagle Scouts and one a Life Scout, has been scouting for 15 years. At 70, he still works half a day besides his scout work.

City Building To Be Sold

The Department of Public Works will move into its new home in the Municipal Center at Princess Anne when the new Administration Building is finished there next year. At that time the Department's old home will be sold.

The building at 18th and Arctic Avenue in the Beach Borough is being sold by open bid. The United Communities Fund is reportedly interested in purchasing the building but is allegedly interested in negotiation rather than a bid.

A reliable source said the structure will not be sold by negotiation and that UCF has been so informed.

Bailey has been on the Virginia Beach police force more than a year. He is a retired Army sergeant who spent most of his military career in the Provost Marshal's office. He also attended several investigative school in the Army.

Chief Moore said he considered the three men highly qualified for the job, and pointed out that the three had been chosen carefully from the ranks of his department.

Evans could not be reached for comment prior to press time, but neither Chief Moore nor City Manager W. Russell Hatchett had any knowledge of Evans' choice if he had made one.

Officer S. L. Fulgham, attached to the 1st Police Precinct, demonstrates use of new tear gas "streamers" in event of having to ward off an attacker.

New 'Tool' Added To Aid in Arrests

By Les Lehigh

Another step has been taken in the continuing modernization of the Virginia Beach Police Division. All men of the division are being issued a new defensive weapon in the form of a liquid tear gas "streamer" canister.

The "streamer" is designed to offer a police officer greater efficiency in the event of his need to control an unruly individual or group of while making an arrest under extremely hazardous conditions. While serving to protect a police officer against any personal attack, the "streamer" will also serve to ward off persons who may attempt to interfere after an arrest.

The canister will emit a stream of special liquid-tear formula which has the capacity for stopping and incapacitating trouble makers for up to 20 minutes, without resulting in injury to the eyes or skin.

Upon facial contact the liquid vaporizes causing profuse tearing of the eyes and temporary loss of vision, rendering an attacker momentarily helpless and allowing him to be taken into custody without other force. The "streamer" is listed as being effective with a one-half to one second burst of the chemical.

Capt. H. C. Terry, First Police Precinct C. O., is quick to point out the new "streamer" will be used only when it is absolutely necessary, in discussing adoption of the canister by the Virginia Beach Police Division, Terry told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN. "Under the law we have the right to use whatever force is necessary to effect an arrest, and that is all the force we want to use. It is hoped that by the streamer only being used when absolutely necessary, it will in many cases prevent the need for the use of other defensive weapons."

As an assurance of the safety of the "streamer" in the protection of anyone who may be subjected to the "streamer," Terry told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN of the simplicity of an antidote which counteracts the affect of the "streamer". This antidote consists of washing contaminated areas of the face with a cool solution of baking soda or splashing the region with cold water for a period of three or four minutes, and keeping the washed area exposed to fresh air.

Adoption of the "streamer" by the Virginia Beach Police Division followed its effective use in other major cities of United States in recent months.

What About Corn Pone?

New Year's Day marks a traditional event in the Southern regions of the United States, the inclusion of "black eyed peas" on the holiday dinner menu. Tradition has it those who partake of the "Dible Delicacy" on New Year's Day will enjoy "good luck" throughout the coming year.

Virginia Beach City Sgt. John Marr tells the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN this traditional dish will be served New Year's Day to those who are still confined to the city jail at Princess Anne Courthouse.

While Marr did not say so, perhaps his thought behind the gesture is that 1968 will truly be a better year for his guests on New Year's Day.

Athletics To Expand At Wesleyan

Joe O'Gorman of Virginia Beach is a member of the first basketball team at Wesleyan College.

The new, coeducational, liberal arts college here had a very limited athletic program last year in the first year of operation. Athletic Director Howard D. Mast, a VPI Alumnus and former high school coach, is attempting to expand that program gradually this year. The school plans to participate at this time in limited intercollegiate competition in cross country, basketball, tennis, golf and track. Mast hopes to participate in a limited intercollegiate program in soccer next fall.

Virginia Wesleyan's fulltime enrollment this year is 155. There are also 112 part-time evening students enrolled at the new college. College officials expect to have approximately 200 fulltime students next fall and to gradually expand the evening program.

The basketball team this year has scheduled eight games with Christopher Newport College in Newport News, Virginia; George Mason College in Fairfax, Virginia; Chesapeake College in Chesapeake, Virginia; and the University of Virginia branch at Wallops Islands, Virginia. Mast is currently serving as basketball coach. The Wesleyan Athletic Director came to the new college in August of 1966 from Suffolk, Virginia where he had developed an outstanding community recreation program, particularly in tennis.

College officials at Virginia Wesleyan have expressed that the new institution's athletic program must be developed carefully and slowly. However, it is the stated intention of the present administration to establish a well-rounded small college athletic program as an important part of the total college experience.

This building, which has been remodeled several times, has served as the headquarters site of the London Bridge Volunteer Fire Department since the unit was organized.

London Bridge F.D. Keeps Up With Virginia Beach Growth

"I feel we're able to take care of anything in our area along lines of fire fighting, and we will continue to progress with the area to give the service expected of us."

With those words L. B. George, Jr., Chief of the London Bridge Volunteer Fire Department described the status of the unit today, while looking towards the future.

The London Bridge "Volunteers" had their beginning during the early World War Two days, as a civilian defense unit, then obtained their charter and became "Volunteer Fire Fighters" in March of 1947 by approval of the State Corporation Commission.

The present day strength of the unit includes 35 "regulars" and 12 "lifetime members", several of whom are no longer active fire fighters or who are "honorary" members of the unit.

At present the unit is operating with one salvage truck, one tanker, one jeep, and three pumper engines, one of which is 18 years old. Chief George told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN plans call for replacing the "pumper" within the next year.

When the London Bridge unit was formed the land, which is the present day site of their headquarters near Great Neck Road and Virginia Beach Boulevard, was donated by Joe Murden and Floyd Deary. The land grant carried the stipulation that the headquarters building constructed on the site must provide space for Boy Scouts for a minimum of ten years. George said this commitment was fulfilled beyond the ten year requirement by housing headquarters of Boy Scout troop 65, until it was disbanded several years ago.

Financial operation of the London Bridge Volunteer Fire Department is basically like that of other such units throughout the city. The men do not receive any monetary compensation for their services, and depend greatly on regular public fund drives to enlarge quarters or improve their stock of equipment.

Chief George told of how soundly the organization has been operating. He said, "With the exception of one piece of equipment everything else is paid for. The one outstanding debt is a 1964 loan from the City to purchase equipment, which is being repaid by monthly installments."

George is entering his fourth year as "Chief" of the department, having just been re-elected. He is assisted in his administration of the unit by Rex Bolton, Pres.; Charles Spencer, Vice Pres.; Q.J. Zeller, Sec.; Charles Palus, Treas.; Joe Merlino, Deputy Chief; H.H. Campbell, 1st Asst. Chief, and C.A. Lowder, 2nd Asst. Chief. While reminiscing over the growth the London Bridge "Volunteers" Chief George said, "We have increased our equipment and knowledge with the increase in population of our area, and our men are still attending different kinds of schools to keep up with the changing times."

Record Total Killed In Traffic Accidents

1967 will go into the record books of Virginia Beach as the all-time worst year for traffic fatalities in the city.

A 13-year-old Kempsville Borough boy lost his life in an accident Christmas Eve. Officials said Clifton Lewis was fatally injured when struck down by a car in front of his Centerville Turnpike home.

The death was the 40th traffic fatality of 1967 in the city of Virginia Beach. In 1963 the previous record of 36 traffic fatalities for the city of Virginia Beach was set. The traffic fatality total for last year in the city was 23.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN asked Capt. George K. Bryan, C.O. of the Police Division Traffic Bureau, for his feelings on what may have been behind the increased number of traffic deaths. "It's really hard to say what caused them," Bryan replied. Looking for specific reasons behind the highway carnage, Bryan added, "Perhaps one of the big reasons is driver error, then of course we've got more cars on the road than we've ever had."

With the coming of a new year, the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN asked Capt. Bryan how he viewed the matter of traffic fatalities during 1968 Bryan said the men of his bureau "will continue with strict enforcement of traffic laws in hopes of reducing accidents, and continue efforts to educate drivers in safety." Bryan said he felt driver education would be the biggest factor in reducing mounting traffic deaths.

Wesleyan Gains Ph.D.

A faculty member at the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Virginia Wesleyan College has received his Ph.D. degree this month from the University of Tennessee.

The degree in English and American Literature was awarded in absentia to Dr. Joseph H. Harkey, associate professor of English at Wesleyan.

A native of Wadesboro, N.C., Dr. Harkey came to Virginia Wesleyan with the first freshman class in September 1966. He holds previous degrees from the University of South Carolina and the University of Tennessee. His dissertation topic was "Don Quixote and American Fiction Through Mark Twain."

Wesleyan now has 12 teaching faculty members with a fulltime enrollment of 155 freshmen and sophomores and 112 parttime students in the evening program. The curriculum will be expanded to include courses on the junior level next fall and the senior level in the fall of 1969.

Dr. Harkey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Harkey of Columbia, S.C. He is married to the former Nancy Phillips, a native of Detroit, Mich.

Tourists Increase Here, Down for Rest of State

More tourists came to Virginia Beach in 1967 than ever before. They stayed a little longer and they spent a little more money.

In fact, the tourist business was up about seven per cent over 1966, according to Albin R. Mailhes, Executive Director of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

"And it would have been better than that if it hadn't been for so much bad weather and so many people vacationing this year at Expo '67," said Mailhes.

The tourist industry at Virginia Beach has grown every year, according to Mailhes, and the outlook for 1968 is bright. He added that new hotels and motels opening this year and many more are planned for next season. None of them were really "hurting" for business this year, noted one motel owner-operator.

Mailhes credited much of the continued growth and increase of tourism to the impact of national and regional advertising done by the city to project its image elsewhere and to the travel promotion shows the Chamber of Commerce attended and where a Virginia Beach booth was exhibited.

Sam Scott, Director of the Virginia Beach Civic Center at the "Dome" seconded the motion made by Mailhes. He said the use of the Dome was "definitely up in 1967", especially for convention use. He called this one of the best seasons the Civic Center has ever had, and attributed a large part of the summer attendance of many events to the tourists.

Both Mailhes and Scott agreed that next summer season should show a great jump in tourism if the weather is at all good. Mailhes said already inquiries are arriving at his office from all over the eastern seaboard concerning facilities in Virginia Beach, and these will become heavy by March 1.

Scott noted that the Ruritan National Convention is scheduled at the Dome in January with about 2,500 delegates, and that three other conventions prior to the summer season will bring another 2,500.

All of this optimism comes on the heels of a report issued by the Virginia Chamber of Commerce which showed tourism in Virginia down considerably in 1967, except at Virginia Beach.

Privately and publicly a number of Virginia Beach officials and businessmen feel that liquor-by-the-drink would help the tourist business in Virginia Beach soar, and hope enabling legislation will come from the 1968 session of the Virginia General Assembly which convenes in a little more than two weeks.

How to Get Along With Your Builder

By: L.A. Sancello, President Tidewater Association of Home Builders

How can you develop a good working relationship with your builder...one that will result in the home you want, when you want it, at a price you can afford to pay?

If you have chosen your builder carefully you can be sure he's a technical expert, well versed in the methods of building homes. He is your authority on the how and how much of construction, the manager of your building budget. He is responsible for seeing that the right materials are installed in the right manner. He can be designer, decorator, financing consultant.

But he can't be you.

Most people who have a home custom built do so because they want to build things into their home that they can't find anywhere else. Yet, all too many buyers throw this advantage away by forcing the builder to do the bulk of the planning. They end up with the builder's idea of a good home for them. It almost certainly will be very nice. But it may not be just what they had in mind when they decided to build.

You and your builder should work as partners. He may tell you what kind of paint you need to use, but you choose the colors. He may counsel you on the price of brick, but it's your choice of type. He may even tell you what brand of door knobs he prefers, but the style is up to you.

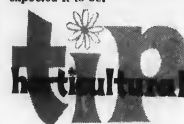

You needn't have your house planned down to the last light plug at the time you select your builder, but you do need to know your basic requirements: how many rooms, how many baths, special preferences, and so forth. You should have a good idea about how much money you can put into the house, how much you can put down, and what monthly payments you can afford.

When you choose your builder you should tell him in detail what you've decided. Be frank about it so there is no room for misunderstanding. If you find that there is a gap between what you want and what you can afford, your builder can help you get the most for your money. He can show you where to economize without compromising on quality.

After deciding with your builder what you are going to do, work up an exact set of specifications. Building a house on a handshake, without written specifications, puts both parties at a disadvantage. Even men of the greatest integrity and best intentions make mistakes, and sometimes you honestly don't know who is to blame. And of course written specifications will make construction of your house go much more smoothly, eliminating needless consultations at many points along the way.

So, determine what you want, discuss it with the builder, and then get the results in writing. You'll wind up with a happy home that is just what you expected it to be.

If you are planning on planting shrubbery in your landscape between now and spring, you may want to consider container grown plant material. Some containers can be planted along with the plant. This may have some advantages, but it seems that usually plants will establish themselves quicker if it is separated from the container. You can plant trees and shrubs grown in containers the same way that you would handle balled and burlapped stock. There is practically no risk when using container grown plants.

Alexander Heads Fund

A.G. Alexander, owner of the Alexander-Beagle Stores, will serve as chairman of the 1968 Heart Fund in Virginia Beach.

The announcement was made by Glenn A. Hollman, general campaign chairman for the Tidewater Heart Association. The Virginia Beach Heart Fund will be conducted throughout the month of February and will have a goal of $22,300.

Alexander said that over a million people died last year in the U.S. from cardiovascular disorders, and that of the 642 Virginia Beach deaths in 1966; 301 of them were due to diseases of the heart and blood vessels. To combat these diseases, the Tidewater Heart Association supports programs of research, education, and community service on a national, state, and local level.

"Our priority project," said Alexander, "is paying off our 5-year pledge of $327,000 to the newly established open heart surgery and diagnostic facility." Other projects include heart-lung resuscitation training, rescue equipment grants, a loan closet for patients, free information materials and annual educational symposiums.

Alexander

Alexander has been associated with the Heart Cause for several years. He has served as business chairman, and as commentator for the Heart Fund fashion shows. He is a member of the Rotary Club, the Exchange Club, the Eastern Shore Chapter, and the American Cancer Society. He is president of the Pembroke Mall Merchants' Association.

He lives on Southwick Road with his wife, Joanne, and their two daughters, Julie and Susan.

TV Plans Special

The lesson is based on the fact that the use of alcohol and common drugs or derivatives, and then driving a motor vehicle has become a matter of major importance.

This will be presented over WAVY-TV, Sunday, Dec. 31, at 8 a.m.

The problem is approached from the scientific, not the moral, point of view.

Many otherwise knowledgeable people have little understanding of the behavioral effects of alcohol and drugs. These effects can be so drastic as to make the action of safe driving almost impossible. But still, some people attempt to drive.

To develop a better understanding of the enforcement approach to the "under the influence" driver, a chemical breath test analyzer is discussed.

The combination of alcohol and drugs creating the principle of synergy (unpredictable reaction) is pointed out as being of particular significance.

Calendar Selects Lighthouse

The first federal lighthouse, city symbol of Virginia Beach, has been selected as one of the twelve historic scenes to be portrayed on the 1968 wall calendars currently being distributed by Pilot Life Insurance Company.

The rendering of the scene is a reproduction of a drawing made by a Virginia artist.

The Pilot spokesman said that the local attraction was selected "because of its outstanding historic value to the people of this area, and its appeal to persons throughout the South."

The calendars are being distributed to approximately 150,000 firms, industries and individuals throughout North and South Carolina, Virginia and Georgia.

Lagoons Give Off Odors

State Water Control Board officials have launched an investigation of complaints from residents of Princess Anne Plaza regarding odors coming from sewage treatment lagoons in the Kennel Grove region.

The move followed a meeting of residents of the region with Gerald Yagel, the regional representative for the State Board.

Complaints began in September, and a City Council investigation of the situation indicated the "odors" could be resulting from a malfunction in the sewage line resulting in an overload of the equipment, which since that time reportedly has been corrected.

Yagel indicated the State Board should have a report of its findings within the next several weeks.

Love Thy Boulevard

Never have we heard such a ruckus about such a thing before. City officials lowered the speed limit on Virginia Beach Boulevard to 45 mph after the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway opened, and almost immediately the cry of "foul" went up from those whom we do not believe are thinking straight.

The limit was not lowered to force motorists to drive the toll expressway. It was done as a safety measure and nothing else. It should have been done years ago when Norfolk did so, but Virginia Beach officials were loath to do so then because the Virginia Beach part was not so densely populated. Now it is and more. Accidents of the rear-end type have injured severely many motorists who were simply going too fast on the road.

It is no longer a main highway between two cities. It is a city street full of traffic, full of business and full of people. The 55 mph limit was too fast to be safe, and we applaud city officials for lowering it at last. Now we hope they will enforce rigidly that new limit, not to harass anyone, but to keep the road safe for all of us.

Yes, if we want to drive faster, we can pay the toll and drive the expressway which is planned for that high speed and limited access. The money is little enough to pay for safety.

We are against toll roads, unequivocally. But the state and federal governments could not see clearly and refused to include us in their budget to build a new road. Roads cost much money, and our city's economy could not stand the burden alone without raising taxes out of sight. So bonds were sold and a toll road was built.

The Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway is a much-needed facility and it's opened at last. It's a lot safer than Virginia Beach Boulevard if you are in a hurry. The toll on it is not a penalty for speed. It is really insurance against the other drivers who don't drive as well as you do.

Leave Virginia Beach Boulevard alone. It has been a killer but is much maligned. It deserves to rest and become a city street at lower speeds.

Congratulations

It is a tribute to the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and to the advertising and promotion campaigns the city and its leaders have put on in past years, when we can boast of our tourist industry.

While tourism is down considerably in Virginia in 1967, it was up considerably in Virginia Beach. Our image as a tourist mecca is strong and solid. Lots of people and lots of hard work have been combined to make this so.

We congratulate everyone who had a hand in it, and look forward to seeing Virginia Beach continue to grow and prosper as a tourist center. We'll do our part.

Make it a Happy New Year

The year 1967 is on the wane. Its happiness and tragedies, its pleasant moments and its sadness, its accomplishments and its problems will all soon be history. We will only be able to store away the memories of the wonderful things that happened. And time will surely heal the hurt of those memories that are not so wonderful.

The year 1967 brought only a continuing of the status quo in worldwide troubles. On the home front taxes and fiscal spending continue to plague us all. In Virginia Beach there has been continued growth on a solid foundation and there has been change in political and other circles.

It has not been a particularly good or particularly bad year, but we are so much more fortunate than those who have given their lives so that we may continue to enjoy our so-so year. And we are more fortunate than those who so foolishly died on the highways because they were trying to make the year something more than so-so.

Life is what it is. The year just ending is what we made it. The year ahead will be the same. It is up to us to make 1968 more than just a so-so year. Let us plan and pray to make 1968 the year when peace comes to the world, when carnage on the highways ends and when man can smile at his fellow man and mean it sincerely when he says... "Happy New Year".

We're Sorry

May we offer our condolences to Virginia Beach leaders, to the Mayor's committee seeking a site for a municipal airstrip, to Congressman Thomas Downing and to the interested citizens of Virginia Beach.

The Congressman has received a letter from the Department of the Army telling of the tremendous importance of Fort Story and that 125 acres could not be spared for the Army and the City of Virginia Beach to use for an airstrip, so sorely needed. We are happy Fort Story is so needed, and we hope it will always be. But to all of us who feel that an airstrip there is ideal and have been rebuffed by the Army, we offer our thanks for all your hard work in the matter.

Maybe somewhere else and someone else will be more co-operative. We hope so.

Letters to the editor

Drives Fast

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun;

For many years I have been traveling Virginia Beach Boulevard from downtown Norfolk to my home in Lynnhaven Borough. I have always breathed a sigh of relief when I got away from that 45 M.P.H. limit in Norfolk. In Virginia Beach I was able to drive at 55 M.P.H. comfortably. I admit I have had some close calls, but I always made it home faster than I do now.

By lowering the speed limit on Virginia Beach Boulevard to 45 M.P.H., I am sure city officials hoped to lure me over to the toll road where I would have to pay the city for the privilege of driving through it. If I wanted to go faster, I am still driving the Boulevard, but slower, and I grit my teeth every time I see a new speed limit sign. But I will not pay to drive a little faster.

Mrs. Calvin Mitchell

Ed. Note: See Editorial at left on this matter.

Thanks

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

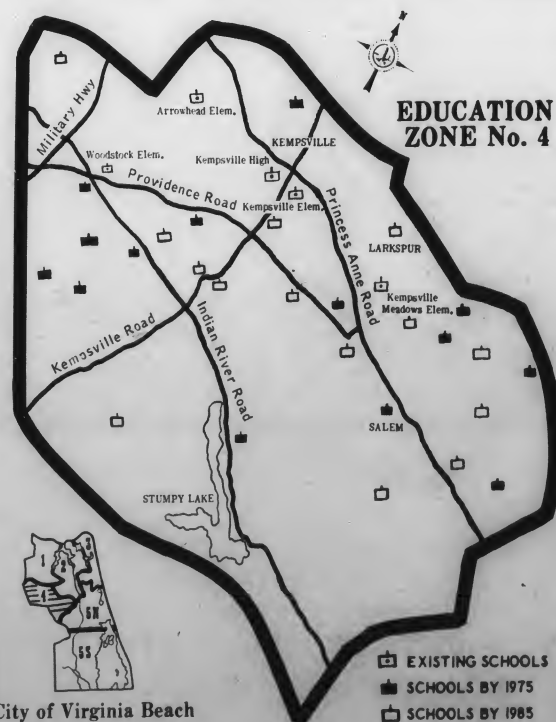

We wish to take this opportunity to extend our appreciation for the many past courtesies and assistance given by your newspaper to the Children's Home Society of Virginia. This coverage has contributed immeasurably to the success of our annual fund raising appeals. The Society has been in continuous operation since 1900 as a non-sectarian and non-profit adoption agency. It is supported by contributions from Virginia citizens, county boards, bequests, United Funds, etc. That means finding for them the love and warmth that are every baby's rightful heritage, the tenderness and devotion that make for happiness today and sound citizenship tomorrow.

In 1968 we will send to you statistical information on babies and monies which will be accurate after the close of our fiscal year in December, 1967. Our annual meeting will be held January 1968 and we will furnish you names of the Directors, etc.

On behalf of the Board of Directors and staff of the Children's Home Society of Virginia we extend our genuine appreciation for your support, and wish you and yours a Blessed Christmas and Happy New Year. (Mrs.) Lorraine S. Winter

SPOTS

By H. Joseph Lowenthal, Jr.

We were out of town on Thanksgiving and enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner at a plush hotel. It was wonderful during the two weeks after Thanksgiving not to be forced to dine on left over turkey, turkey hash, turkey wing soup and turkey sandwiches, both hot and cold.

What A Turkey This Is

But not so for Christmas. We were home. And we had a turkey. The bird was big enough to feed the Norman Luboff Choir. The seven of us who munched on it did it great justice. We all left the festive table and waddled away stuffed, sated and sleepy. That should have been the end of it. Not so.

The next night we had left over turkey, which somehow or other doesn't taste as good as the first day. Funny, my wife offered to fix lunch for me today. . . the first time in months. I had a sneaking suspicion, so I peeked in the bag just now. Would you believe a turkey sandwich? Of course you would. I tried to pawn it off on everyone else in the office, but it seems like they have the same problem. When I left home this morning, my wife was making soup which had a distinctive smell to it. I just can't imagine what kind it will turn out to be.

Our cat nearly got cooked along with the turkey because she tried to get in the stove to get to the big bird while it was being roasted. Now even she is tired of turkey, and turns nose up and tail down when offered a bit of gobbler.

But the topper came at lunch today after I disposed of that horrible sandwich. The restaurant that I visit with more frequency than others always has a special of the day, and it's always great. Today the special was a hot turkey sandwich. Even the chef there must have been overstocked on the stuff.

If I go home tonight and sit down to a piping hot meal of turkey pot pie, so help me they may have to cart me off to a funny farm, with a gobble, gobble here, and a gobble, gobble there. . .

The City of Virginia Beach-1967

A Year of Continued Growth and the Winds of Change

The first six months of 1967 in Virginia Beach were dominated by political campaigning. Two major slates--The Administration Team and the United Ticket--shook hands with nearly everybody in the city at least once. There was a lot of the usual name-calling and even more of the usual "personality" clashes. There was much "Let's look at the record" and a lot of "It's time for a change." And when it was all over in July the Democratic primary ended in what many have called a draw.

The Administration nominated three of its ranks. The Uniteds nominated four. And one Independent also won. But it was obvious that the voters were listening during the campaign. They elected younger men and some who were new on the political scene. The winds of change had come to political Virginia Beach with a promise of more jockeying and more change in the future.

It was the Democratic primary that provided all the fireworks of 1967. The campaign for the November General Election was at best tepid and the Democratic nominees--by this time all joined together on the surface--easily outdistanced a poor Republican showing that never seemed to get off the ground.

But change during 1967 was not by any means confined to politics. Virginia Beach police took two giant steps during the Summer. A brand new Colonial building on Independence Boulevard became the new Third Police Precinct, relieving the old First Precinct of its tremendous load.

The Second Precinct in Virginia Beach Borough moved from its cramped quarters into the old VEPCO building when the new VEPCO building opened on First Colonial Road. And a new police firing range was opened for practice. First Colonial Telephone Company opened its new building in 1967 also.

Windsor Woods got a new fire station and the Court House fire station got an addition. A central heating plant for sprawling city offices at Princess Anne was built. The Courts building and the Welfare Building were begun as part of the Municipal Center, and the old courthouse got a face-lifting. Holland School and Brookwood School opened to elementary children.

The area around Pembroke was in the news often, with the announcement of two major commercial projects and a new housing subdivision. Pembroke East will be a shopping center, almost as large as the Mall and Pembroke West will provide high-rise office buildings among other things. Pembroke Meadows is now in full swing as a new residential area.

Several new motels were ready for the summer season, but the summer season never could really make up its mind. Cold winds, rain and downright ugly weather did not deter many tourists however. Business was every bit as good as 1966, and maybe even a shade better, in spite of erratic weather. The Boardwalk Art Show had its problems with rain but had more entries and larger prizes than ever before. Jetney bus service was new on Atlantic Avenue and to the military installations this year, and has been praised by tourists and residents alike.

No less than four new automobile agencies opened up shop on Virginia Beach Boulevard and Laskin Road in 1967. New restaurants and drive-ins opened all along the same routes. Bayside residents received a cultural lift with the opening of the new library on Independence Boulevard. An addition to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach was okayed. Little Island Park at Sandbridge proved worthy of the faith city fathers had had in it. It did a land office business all summer.

Fort Story celebrated its 50th anniversary during the year and saw a change in top command there. The Virginia Beach Civic Center "Dome" came under much criticism concerning its present usefulness, and a study was begun to determine whether and where to build a new cultural and convention center. Another study is still underway on what to do about an airport for Virginia Beach.

Rudee Inlet work began finally after numerous snags of one kind or another. The jetties there are being built and the entire recreational project is moving closer to full acceptance.

The new bridge over the Inlet was completed and joined General Booth Boulevard to make the trip from Virginia Beach Borough to the Municipal Center at Princess Anne shorter and easier.

General Booth Boulevard and the second span of the Lesner Bridge over Lynnhaven Inlet on Shore Drive were both dedicated on the same cold, snowy day in January while state and local dignitaries looked on. Speeches were short. But neither that snowstorm or another in February really amounted to much.

The dignitaries were back on a road for another dedication in December--for the official opening of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, hailed as the "greatest thing in Virginia Beach since sliced bread". The road, two years in the building, has helped to relieve much traffic congestion on major arteries.

During the spring months there was mass immunization in Virginia Beach for tetanus, but the flu bug continued to run wild in December.

Princess Anne High School's football Cavalier's won a one-third share of the State Group I championship, but loyal supporters have ignored the other two. PA "IS" No. 1, Frank W. Cox announced his retirement as Superintendent of Schools, a position he has served during the greatest growth in the area's history. The 34-year veteran educator will be succeeded in March 1968 by Edward E. Brickell.

Schools and the needs of schools have played an important part in the calling of a mammoth bond issue to meet present and future needs. The referendum comes in January. And already during 1967 the City budget set another record--$28.1 million.

There were changes in judgeships too. George Vagos moved up to Circuit Court when Richard Kellam went to the Federal bench. Three other new judges began their service to the city in 1967--P.B. White, Paul Ackiss and Frank E. Butler. J. Curtis Payne became the newest City Councilman, appointed at the death of Vice-Mayor Paul Brown. Robert Cromwell was appointed the new Vice-Mayor.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel celebrated its third birthday in April with a cake and a new travel bonus plan to aid its ailing financial situation. Part of the plan was not the two-week forced closing of the span in December when an aging converted barge ran wild and smashed into the span doing untold damage before going aground off Chesapeake Beach.

Other tragedy struck during the year. A record number of traffic fatalities occurred. Fire struck GEX and Climatemakers and a Navy plane crashed into a home near NAS Oceana horribly burning an 11-year old girl. But at year's end she is out of the hospital, albeit facing much more painful surgery. Another long-time city-servant, Lewis Smith, died, and James Darden was named to fill his position.

It has been said that what is past is prologue. In Virginia Beach that is very true. The year 1967 is over. It was a time of continued growth and prosperity but served only as a prologue for things to come in 1968. Virginia Beach is well on its way to becoming a major force of the atomic age, and 1967 was merely another stepping stone. Welcome, 1968, and Happy New Year to all.

Historic Princess Anne Courthouse sports its new columned front, finished in 1967, giving new life and added dignity to the old building. It still serves as the nucleus of the Municipal Center at Princess Anne.

The emphasis on Colonial architecture in Virginia Beach is readily seen in the new Bayside Library on Independence Boulevard.

The main Toll Plaza of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway near Rosemont Road had several cars and trucks waiting to go through opening day. Daily traffic has grown steadily.

A combination of high seas, winds and a runaway barge were responsible for damage to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. One 75-foot section was moved almost four feet out of alignment.

I Resolve....

Resolved: That in 1968 the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN will shine around all women's activities.

A sampling of some of the city's female population turned up a variety of New Year's resolutions.

"If I had one I thought I could stick to, I'd quit smoking," said Mrs. John V. Fentress, wife of the circuit court clerk.

"I make them and break them."

According to Mrs. Richard Counselman, active in social and patriotic organizations, "I shall work a little harder to bring happiness to my family and friends, toward being a bigger and better person and a helpful citizen."

"Oh, gee, I resolve to start being more punctual and doing things on time," said Pat Daily, Virginia Beach Junior Miss. (Then she immediately got off to a good start by saying she was leaving for the state Junior Miss contest on Feb. 31. The date is Jan. 31.)

"I shall try to achieve a 100 percent rating in humility, in my opinion the greatest trait of true Christianity," said Mrs. Richard Barnes, well known in many activities around Virginia Beach. "I shall also, according to my husband, try not to talk so much."

"I'm going to try to get a camp site for the Camp Fire Girls," said Mrs. Joseph Gawrys, chairman of the local Camp Fire Girls and president of the Needlework Guild.

And a Good Time Was Had by All

'Twas the night after Christmas and all through the house,
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.

The stockings were torn from the chimney without care,
For obviously Santa had already been there.

Whoever invented the "eatable creatures" (no names mentioned) should be shot. I bet he never let his own brats have any. Usually, though, the fiendish toys like that are invented by bachelors, I'm convinced. No father would dare....

Manufacturing the monsters is a simple operation requiring the aid of only one parent. The other parent can hold the brats off while the first one works. All it takes is a little hot water added to a powder mix. Stir, then pour into molds.

Fifteen minutes later you have some of the most horrible lizards, snakes and bugs imaginable. They feel horrible too--cold, limp and clammy.

The maker says they can be eaten. The company just didn't mention who would do it. None of my monsters would do more than taste them--not even the three-year-old who will try anything edible or inedible. Two of the neighborhood kids turned them down too.

My real objection, however, is to stepping on one barefooted and falling flat. The five-year-old is unhappy, but somehow I "lost" the rest of the mix packages.

Maybe we're no different from anyone else, but we always seem to have something go wrong at Christmas. Last year the middle monster sliced out half a ton of the aid of a toy flute and one of her playmates.

We didn't even let her out in the snow before Christmas. She also gets earaches, and we were determined we wouldn't have to find a doctor on a holiday. But it wasn't her for a change.

This year, we decided to have a small party (just neighbors) on Christmas Eve. So, exactly five minutes before the first guest arrived, the plumbing gave out. Ever try to get a plumber to come out on Christmas Eve? My advice is--don't.

After a brief consultation with the guests, we shifted the baby sitter to our house and the party to the other house.

Well, as I was saying, Happy New Year--I hope!

Walnut Rum Torte topped with its own Rum Sauce.

New Cook Book Packed With Walnut Recipes

When a new cookbook is unusual and different from the many, many books now on the market, it's a gem. When it contains practical ideas as well, and recipes that are truly scrumptious, it's more than a gem... a veritable collection of rare food jewels.

The new Diamond Walnut cookbook, now being offered by the Diamond Walnut Growers, is brightly illustrated and has 88 pages packed with over 200 kitchen-tested recipes and decorating tips to help you revive traditional favorites as well as try new dishes.

You can get all of these gems by sending your name and address with 50 cents to Diamond Walnut Growers, Inc. Recipe Department PR, Box 4142, Clinton, Iowa 52732. Have lots of fun trying out what suits your fancy, and be assured they are different, and scrumptious... some new, too.

Walnuts, themselves, aren't really new. Mention of walnuts is made in the annals of ancient Persia and Greece while in Caesar's day the citizens of Rome called them Jupiter's Acorns and valued them as food, as well as crediting them with magical power. Used once as a basis of barter, walnuts later became a major crop of several countries and were sold around the world; then during the establishment of the California Missions by the Franciscan fathers in the late eighteenth century, the walnut found its way to California.

WALNUT RUM TORTE

- 6 egg whites
- 1/2 teas. salt
- 3 T. powdered sugar
- 6 egg yolks
- 1 c. granulated sugar
- 3 teas. vanilla
- 1 2/3 c. sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 c. chopped toasted Diamond Walnuts

Rum Sauce:
1 1/2 c. granulated sugar
1 1/4 c. water
Dash of salt
Grated peel of 1/2 orange and 1/2 lemon
1/4 to 1/2 c. rum or 2 to 3 teas. rum flavoring

In separate bowl, beat yolks slightly; add sugar and vanilla; beat till thick and creamy. Sprinkle flour over whites, pour in yolks; gently fold till mixture is half blended. Add butter and 3/4 c. walnuts; fold till barely mixed. Pour into buttered and floured 2 1/2 or 3-qt. mold (or 10-inch tube pan); top with remaining 1/4 c. walnuts. Bake at 350 degrees 40 minutes or till done when tested with pick. Cool 10 minutes; add Rum Sauce.

To make Rum Sauce, combine granulated sugar, water, salt and grated orange and lemon peel. Bring mixture to boil; boil 10 minutes. Cool. Stir in rum or rum flavoring. Make holes in cake with skewer; spoon sauce over cake. When sauce is absorbed (about 10 minutes) turn out on serving plate. Makes 10 servings.

COGNAC CHOCOLATE-WALNUT PIE
1 6-oz. package (1 c.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
5 eggs, separated
1/4 c. cognac

1/8 teas. each salt and cream of tartar
1/2 c. granulated sugar

1/2 pt. (1 c.) whipping cream
3/4 c. chopped Diamond Walnuts
Graham cracker crust in 9-inch spring form pan
Diamond Walnut halves for decorating

Beat egg whites with salt and cream of tartar until stiff but not dry; gradually beat in sugar, one tablespoon at a time. Fold a small amount of meringue into chocolate mixture; then fold chocolate mixture into meringue. Whip cream until stiff and fold in half of it; reserve remainder for garnish. Add chopped walnuts. Pile chocolate mixture into a spring form pan lined with a graham cracker crust. Let chill until firm. Before serving, decorate the pie with dollops of whipped cream and walnut halves. Makes eight servings.

Mrs. Twiford Adds To Classes, Staff

BEACH BOROUGH--The antique sewing machine that stands in the front window of her shop is no indication of the speed or skill of Mrs. Mabel Twiford's sewing.

For more than a year she has had a shop off the lower lobby of The Cavalier. It has been so successful that now with new classes and a new year starting she has invited Mrs. Blanche W. Baum of Norfolk to help her in the business.

Both teach the Bishop Method of sewing which gives the sewing student a quick and efficient

Navy Wives' Club Notes

By Mary Wright

Navy social life is taking a breather this week, after an impressive round of pre-Christmas parties that involved most Virginia Beach area Navy families at least once--if not more often.

"It's the ugliest tree I've ever seen," said Mrs. Curry, likening it to Charlie Brown's Christmas twig. "But, of course, it's beautiful to us. And now the children say, 'Well, we didn't let Daddy down,'"

Though a great many Naval officers and their wives will be relying on the New Year's Eve parties given annually by Tidewater Officers' Clubs, there is at least one scheduled wives' club party for the night of Dec. 31/Jan. 1.

According to their mother, the seven Currys, junior, have vowed to save the tree until late June, or early July--when their father is expected home.

"And I know they'll do it; I'll prop it up somewhere outside and then bring it in and decorate it this summer," Mrs. Curry half-sighed, half-laughed. "Can you imagine what it will look like by July?"

Mrs. Keith Curry will entertain the wives of Oceana's VA-75 squadron at her Shore Haven Drive home for an open house from seven till nine. "As well as the wives from other squadrons whose husbands are away for New Year's," she added.

Sunday, Dec. 17 was the night for a half-and-farewell party at Oceana's Officers' Club, hosted by the squadrons of Air Wing 17.

Attack squadron 75 is attached to the USS Kitty Hawk (CVA-63) for a six months' tour of duty in Vietnam.

Cdr. John R. Dewenter, Jr., who assumed command of the air wing Dec. 22, 1966, was relieved last week by Cdr. R.E. Ferguson.

Mrs. Curry explained that her seven children had helped decorate the house for the holidays, using pine boughs from the woods around their home and even cutting down their own tree, Or trees.

Cdr. Dewenter, a former commander of the Naval Air Station's VA-23 squadron leaves Virginia for Washington, D.C., his next duty station.

The children decided that the first tree they brought in was just too lop-sided to use, Mrs. Curry went on.

The Air Wing 17 squadrons (fighter squadrons 11 and 74; attack squadrons 65, 107 and 46; and VAW-123) presented the Dewenters with assorted memorabilia and a home serving bar. Air Wing 17 has not been re-assigned to another ship since the Forrestal returned to the United States after its disaster by fire.

And the gains the old year sends,
We'll find our richest winnings
Not in money but in friends.

Teach a truth none can evade...
That the measure of our living
Is the friends that we have made.*

Attendance Leads Again

Tidewater residents have continued to support the Neptunes. For the third consecutive year the Neptunes have led the Continental Football League in attendance. The 1967 season showed an increase of nearly 25,000 patrons at home games.

Neptunes general manager Jim Dunn announced that paid attendance at home games this season totaled 112,536.

The overall total included 14,289 for two pre-season games; 87,619 for seven league games; and 10,644 for the two game Championship Game.

In 1965 the Neptunes set the League attendance pace with 88,426 paid admissions, of which 15,023 were for two pre-season games and 73,403 at seven league games. The League's top attendance mark was set in 1966 when the Neptunes paid attendance totaled 120,000. This '66 figure represents 14,545 for two pre-season games and 105,455 for seven league games, and 11,967 for a league game rescheduled from Brooklyn to Norfolk.

In their three years of Continental League play the Neptunes recorded 23 wins against 14 losses, rolling up 422 points on their march to a 11-3 record in 1967, the Neptunes edged 21 to 17 by Orlando in the December 3rd Championship Game in Norfolk.

Dunn further noted that attendance highpoints for the '67 season were the 10,000 paid admissions for the Orlando game of October 28th, when the Neptunes downed the 1967 Champions 35 to 31, and the 10,000 fans who braved torrential rains before kickoff and intermittent rain throughout the Championship Game.
